Secret Peace Offer Disclosed

Nixon Says Plan Ignored

. . . By Vietnamese Communists

Washington (AP) — President Nixon disclosed Tuesday a secretly offered Vietnam peace plan calling for withdrawal of all American forces within six months after agreement by North Vietnam to free all U.S. prisoners.

The secret plan also would provide for the resignation of South Vietnamese President Nguyen Van Thieu and the holding of free elections in that country—again conditioned on Hanoi's release of prisoners and agreement to a cease-fire throughout Southeast Asia.

In a broadcast from Saigon timed to coincide with Nixon's TV-radio speech to Americans, Thieu confirmed that he had agreed to resign if North Vietnam accepts U.S. proposals.

Nixon said that thus far the North Vietnamese had rejected or ignored the secretly offered proposals developed over a period of 30 months during which his principal foreign affairs adviser, Henry Kissinger had made a dozen unannouced trips to Paris to present the U.S. proposals.

Until recently, the secret negotiations "showed signs of yielding some progress," Nixon said but now, he added, "it is my judgment that the purposes of peace will best be served by bringing out publicly the proposals we have been making in private."

Begun Aug. 4, 1969

Kissinger, who made a secret trip to Peking last summer to arrange Nixon's February journey to China, began the secret peace negotiations in Paris on Aug. 4, 1969, Nixon said.

During the ensuing months, he said, the United States offered a variety of proposals — always in private.

Nixon said the "most comprehensive peace plan of this conflict" was offered on Oct. 11 but "lies ignored in a secret channel while the enemy tries again for military victory."

The main elements of that eight-point plan, which he said he has instructed Ambassador William J. Porter to present publicly in Paris Thursday are:

—Total withdrawal from South Vietnam of all U.S. forces within six months of an agreement.

—An exchange of prisoners which will begin the same day as the troop withdrawals and will be completed when they are completed.

—A general cease-fire throughout Indochina beginning when an agreement is signed and barring any infiltration of outside forces into any of the countries of Indochina.

—New presidential elections in South Vietnam within six months of an agreement, supervised by an independent body, with incumbent President Nguyen Van Thieu resigning one month prior to the election.

—The other four points in the Nixon plan include an agreement that there will be no foreign intervention in Indochinese countries as set forth in the 1954 Geneva Agreement and the 1962 Laos pact; that there will be international supervision military aspects of the agreement; that all armed forces must remain within their national frontiers and that there will be an international guarantee for the fundamental rights of the Indochinese and the status of all countries in Indochina.

"It is a plan to end the war now," Nixon said of the offer he outlined. ". . . Its acceptance would mean the speedy return of all the prisoners of war to their homes."

He said progress in the public negotiations had been disappointing.

"The American people deserve an accounting of why it has been disappointing," he added. "Tonight I intend to give you that accounting, and in so doing, to try and break the deadlock in the negotiations."

30 Months

The cheif executive then traced the 30 months of private negotiations, which included secret meetings on last May 31, June 26, July 12, and Aug. 16. At the Aug. 16 session, Nixon said, "we . . . offered the complete withdrawal of U.S. and allied troops within nine months after an agreement on an over-all settlement."

But less than a month later, he said, the North Vietnamese rejected the proposal and continued "berating us at the public sessions for not responding to their . . . publicly presented seven-point plan."

"The truth is," Nixon said, "is that we did respond to the enemy's plan, in the manner they wanted us to respond — secretly."

By publicly denouncing the U.S. stance, the North Vietnamese "induced many Americans in the press and the Congress into echoing their propaganda — Americans who could not know they were being falsely used by the enemy to stir up divisiveness in this country," Nixon said.

Nixon said his latest private initiative came Oct. 11 when he sent an unspecified communication to the North Vietnamese containing new elements.

He said he urged a meeting on Nov. 1 between Kissinger and one of Hanoi's top political leaders, LeDuc Tho. The North Vietnamese agreed and suggested a Nov 20 date, he said.

But on Nov 17 the President continued, the North Vietnamese reported Le Duc Tho was ill and called off the meeting.

Since then, he said, the only reply to our plan has been an increase in troop infiltration from North Vietnam and Communist military offensives in Laos and Cambodia. Our proposal for peace was answered by a stepup in the war."

Disclosing full details of the plan "will prove beyond doubt which side has made every effort to succeed," Nixon said. "It will show unmistakably that Hanoi — not Washington or Saigon — has made the war go on."

Governor Reacts To Unicam Action . . .

Exon May Introduce His Own Budget Bill

By DON WALTON
Star Staff Writer

Gov. J. James Exon late Tuesday said he may introduce his own operational budget bill in the Unicameral "so the views of the governor and a majority of the Appropriations Committee members can at least be considered by the Legislature."

Exon said he prefers not to place his budget recommendations before the lawmakers in bill form, "but I may be forced to do so" by the Legislature's unprecedented budgetary action Tuesday morning.

Against the will of a majority of the budget unit members, the Legislature pulled the bill out of committee and placed it on the floor for debate next Tuesday.

$1.1 Million More

In the form in which it was extracted from the committee, the bill calls for nearly $1.1 million more in state general fund appropriations than the total recommended by the governor.

But the bill recommends $756,193 less from the state tax-supported general fund for the University of Nebraska than approved by Exon.

And it places strict mandatory ceilings on spending for specific programs, a proviso opposed by Exon and by an apparent majority of the committee members who had hoped to meet Tuesday afternoon to take further action on the bill.

Preferred Compromise

Exon said he had preferred to forego introduction of his own budget bill in favor of "seeking some reasonable compromise" of differences.

"A majority of the committee was willing to compromise," he said.

Gov. J. James Exon

"There are too many bills already without having two budget bills. But the parliamentary maneuvering on the floor today may force me to introduce my own bill."

Exon said he will review the matter with "various members of the Legislature" before reaching a final decision. "It may be that Budget Committee members may wish to take some corrective action of their own," he said.

'Most Difficult'

"It would appear to me that it would be most difficult to try to amend the Marvel bill to do the things I as governor think are necessary and with which a majority of the committee concurs."

Spending flexibility for state agencies within their total appropriations ceilings is mostly what he has in mind, the governor said.

The five members of the nine-member committee whose wishes were ignored by the Legislature were angered about the decision to pull the bill out of their hands. One privately talked about resigning from the unit.

One possibility considered by at least one member was to prepare "committee amendments" to the bill, formulated by the majority of five when the committee meets again next Monday. Those changes could then be presented when the full Legislature begins debate on the bill the following day.

Total recommended appropriations in the bill from the general fund for fiscal 1972-73 are $196.5 million.

That figure compares to $195.4 million in the governor's operational budget proposal.

But, committee work on some operational budget decisions has not been completed, and the totals therefore are not fully comparable.

Under Appropriation

The committee's total was less than $8 million above the 1971-72 appropriation of $188.6 million. Total requests, many of them already tailored to the governor's wishes, approached $230 million.

Total all-funds figures for operational expenditures exceed $500 million, but no firm figure was immediately available. The governor's grand total was $514.9 million.

Whereas the university requested about $50 million in general fund appropriations, the bill recommends nearly $46.4 million, or some $3.2 million more than the Legislature appropriated for 1971-72.

The governor had recommended $47.1 million.

The bulk of the difference between the governor's proposal and what the committee had recommended for NU as of Tuesday is reflected in two areas.

Exon proposed larger salary increases, and the committee cut back the university's tuition remission program.

A major item of disagreement in the total budget which helped boost the committee's general fund figure beyond that proposed by the governor was a difference in cash fund estimates for the Department of Public Institutions.

The committee rejected the governor's estimate of the amount of funds which could be anticipated from counties for support of mental institution costs.

That figure was overestimated by nearly $2 million, the committee reasoned.

As a result, it increased the general fund appropriations for the department by an equal amount in order to produce the same amount of total anticipated revenue.

The committee accepted the Exon administration's welfare budget request of nearly $32 million in general fund money.

Electromagnetic Pulses' Effect On U.S. Defense Worries Laird

©The New York Times

Washington — Defense Secretary Melvin Laird expressed concern Tuesday that the national command and control system as well as some strategic weapons could be paralyzed by the electromagnetic pulses given off by large nuclear explosions.

Laird told the House Armed Services Committee that "the upgrading of the Soviet strategic forces and the consequent re-evaluation of the possible vulnerabilities of our own forces has led to considerable concern over the effects of the electromagnetic pulses produced by large nuclear explosions."

In particular, he suggested that the airborne command and control post —an emergency command center for the president or military chiefs in event of nuclear attack — might be vulnerable to communications blackout. But he also indicated the threat to other weapons systems, such as strategic bombers, as well as ground-based radars.

The possibility that the pulses of electromagnetic energy given off by nuclear explosions could black out communications circuits and radars or disable electronic components has been recognized by the Pentagon and the Atomic Energy Commission for over 10 years.

Nuclear Explosions's EMP

The problem involves what is known as the electronic-magnetic pulse -- EMP for short — given off by a nuclear explosion. The pulse is a strong, transient burst of electricity that can travel considerable distance through the atmosphere. If absorbed in electronic equipment, the surge of electricity can disrupt electronic circuits in much the same way that a bolt of lightning can blow out fuses in a house.

Over the years, however, Pentagon officials have repeatedly emphasized that adequate countermeasures, such as "hardening" equipment or installation of surge arrestors, have been taken to protect against the EMP effect. Five years ago, for example, when Sen. Henry M. Jackson of Washington warned that the EMP effect remained a "serious problem," the Pentagon replied that weapons designs had made the problem "one we can live with."

What recent development may have provoked the new concern about the EMP problem was not made clear by Laird in an unclassified version of a statement he presented to a closed-door meeting of the House committee.

The suggestion in his statement was that Soviet weapons developments had focused new concern on the problem. But other Pentagon officials indicated that the large underground explosion on Amchitka Island in November had demonstrated that the EMP problem was greater than previously believed.

Half For EMP Problem

Laird raised the EMP problem in asking the House committee for an extra $254 million in appropriations for the Pentagon in the current fiscal year. About half the funds will go to deal with the EMP problem, such as development of a new airborne command post built around a fleet of seven Boeing 747 aircraft.

"The growing threat from Soviet strategic forces makes early improvements to our national command and control system imperative," he said. "The most critical need is for survivable, enduring command post."

The current airborne command system, built around three KC135 aircraft, he said, "is severely deficient in survivability and capacity and cannot fulfill our essential needs in the event of a nuclear attack on our country. It lacks the survivable secure communications needed for control and execution of the forces, the space for sufficient high-level staff to support the president, and the space for battle staff and equipments which provide the information needed to make decisions."

Under the command and control system developed for presidential control over nuclear weapons, the president, in event of an atomic attack, could take off in one of the airborne command planes, which are maintained on a ground-borne alert along with a battle staff. Alternatively, the president could go to one of the underground command posts that have been established in Maryland and Virginia and then work through the airborne command system to relay commands to the strategic forces.

Aid To Private College Students Hit By Opinion

By The Associated Press

The state attorney general held in an opinion released Tuesday that the state constitution does not permit direct tuition grants to Nebraska students at private colleges.

The proposal to fund students' tuition at a rate not to exceed $1,000 per year, had been contained in Omaha Sen. Duke Snyder's LB1171, a bill presented to the Legislature's Education Committee last week.

The committee asked for an attorney general's opinion after a number of opponents to the bill said it would be unconstitutional. The committee took no action on the bill Tuesday after receiving the opinion.

Spokesmen for 10 Nebraska private colleges had appeared before the committee endorsing the bill and suggesting that government tuition help might keep private colleges in the state from going under.

They said that since the grants went to the students, not directly to the schools, that the measure was constitutional.

Deputy Atty. Gen. Gerald S. Vitamvas, however, said in the opinion that "we think the direct grants to students as proposed by LB1171 is clearly inhibited by Section 11, Article VII, of the constitution."

Vitamvas included a copy of a 1957 opinion on a similar facet of the constitution which seconded that stand.

The committee had also asked what bearing the U.S. Constitution might have on the measure, but Vitamvas said that since the state constitution "seems somewhat more stringent than the federal requirement" there was no need to pursue that question.

Potential Pollution Violations Recorded In 29% Of Checks

Twenty-nine percent of the visual observations made of 83 establishments in Lincoln as a part of the air pollution control program indicated a potential violation of the Air Pollution Control Ordinance, it was reported Tuesday.

At the second meeting of the Lincoln-Lancaster County Air Pollution Control Advisory Board, it was reported that the control agency routinely makes visual observations of 83 establishments and to date 779 have been recorded.

According to Les Sanger, secretary, a typical visual survey includes an observation of an establishment of concern, the extent of visible emissions, the location of such emission if present and the extent of odor if present.

A record is then made of the observations including date and time, he said.

It was also reported that in June, 1971, a project was initiated by the Air Pollution Control Agency to upgrade or eliminate apartment house incinerators that do not conform to the ordinance.

According to the report, as of Jan. 18, a total of 84 apartment houses were surveyed, 42 of which had incinerators.

Of this 42, five were in design compliance of the ordinance and corrective action has been initiated by 35 of the other 37 not in conformance, according to the report.

Wayne Hit By Blackout

Wayne (UPI) — Residents of this northeast Nebraska community of Wayne braved bitter cold temperatures Tuesday evening during a complete power blackout.

Wayne power district officials said the blackout, which lasted about seven minutes, was caused when a generator, linked to several other generators, blew out at the Wayne municipal power station.

Emergency power was hooked up to the Wayne Hospital, and police were without communications during the blackout in the community of some 3,500 residents.

Power officials said it took at least five generators to bring the outage up to normal after the blackout. They said no cause was immediatey determined for the generator malfunction.

Some residents reported their telepone lines were dead, but phone officials said this was because of the heavy load of calls through the lines.

At the second meeting of the Lincoln-Lancaster County Air Pollution Control Advisory Board, it was reported that the control agency routinely makes visual observations of 83 establishments and to date 779 have been recorded.

According to Les Sanger, secretary, a typical visual survey includes an observation of an establishment of concern, the extent of visible emissions, the location of such emission if present and the extent of odor if present.

A record is then made of the observations including date and time, he said.

It was also reported that in June, 1971, a project was initiated by the Air Pollution Control Agency to upgrade or eliminate apartment house incinerators that do not conform to the ordinance.

According to the report, as of Jan. 18, a total of 84 apartment houses were surveyed, 42 of which had incinerators.

Of this 42, five were in design compliance of the ordinance and corrective action has been initiated by 35 of the other 37 not in conformance, according to the report.

Wayne Hit By Blackout

Wayne (UPI) — Residents of this northeast Nebraska community of Wayne braved bitter cold temperatures Tuesday evening during a complete power blackout.

Wayne power district officials said the blackout, which lasted about seven minutes, was caused when a generator, linked to several other generators, blew out at the Wayne municipal power station.

Emergency power was hooked up to the Wayne Hospital, and police were without communications during the blackout in the community of some 3,500 residents.

Power officials said it took at least five generators to bring the outage up to normal after the blackout. They said no cause was immediatey determined for the generator malfunction.

Some residents reported their telepone lines were dead, but phone officials said this was because of the heavy load of calls through the lines.

Shirley Chisholm Seeks Presidency

By The Associated Press

Rep. Shirley Chisholm officially became a Democratic presidential candidate Tuesday, while Sen. Edmund S. Muskie scored a significant gain in the same race by wnning the endorsement of the governor of Pennsylvania.

Mrs. Chisholm, 47, the first black woman in Congress, formally announced her candidacy in a church in the Bedford-Stuyvesant slum of Brooklyn where she grew up and once taught school.

She said she would enter primaries in Florida and North Carolina and would run delegates in Pennsylvania, Illinois and Massachusetts. She also said she had an eye on the New York primary.

182 Delegates

In Harrisburg, Pa., Gov. Milton J. Shapp cast aside his neutrality and declared his backing of Muskie for the Democratic nomination. Pennsylvania will send the third-largest delegation — 182— to the national convention.

Shapp's endorsement of the Maine Democrat came to the day that Pennsylvania allows candidates to begin circulating petitions for slates of convention delegates. Muskie, Mrs. Chisholm and Sens. Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota and George McGovern of South Dakota were expected to run slates of delegates.

The governor, who supported Eugene McCarthy for president in 1968 after splitting with Humphrey over Johnson Administration war policies, said he was backing Muskie because "he will help us restore our faith in ourselves."

The development was seen as a setback to Humphrey, who reportedly had been hoping for a strong showing in Pennsylvania.

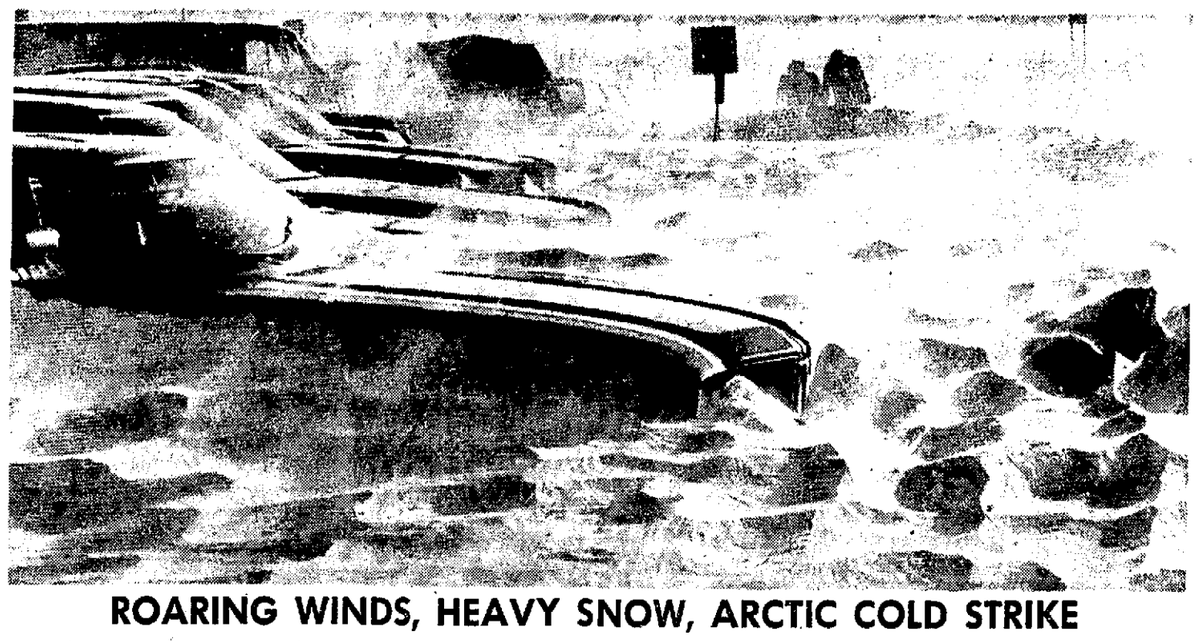
Mrs. Chisholm omitted mention of other Democratic candidates in her formal announcement of candidacy, although she told newsmen afterwards she expected her campaign to hurt the chances of New York Mayor John V. Lindsay because "Lindsay will be getting votes from the same area that I am."

Not Black Candidate

She told a standing-room-only audience of well-wishers and newsmen in the social hall of the Concord Baptist Church that she was "not the candidate of black America, although I am black and proud.

"I am not the candidate of the women's movement in this country, although I am a woman and I am equally proud of that."

President Nixon, she said, "has broken his promises to us and therefore lost his claim to our trust and confidence to him. I cannot believe that his administration would have been elected four years ago if we had known then what we know today."



ROARING WINDS, HEAVY SNOW, ARCTIC COLD STRIKE

Duluth airport was transformed to arctic-like desolation with winds up to 55 miles an hour combined with over 11 inches of snow. The storm was called the worst of the season by weather officials and closed schools, stores and businesses. The storm was followed by a chilling cold wave that sent temperatures plunging to 28 below and a forecast of 40 below in Minnesota. At least five deaths were blamed on the storm. Wind gusts up to 69 miles an hour were recorded in Chicago.

Credit Card Law Becomes Effective

Washington (UPI) — Credit card owners cannot be held liable for more than $50 worth of unauthorized purchases regardless of when the card was issued, under 1970 credit card law provisions that became effective this week.

Credit card companies, also as of Monday, must devise identification systems for use by merchants or the card companies cannot collect any part of the value of goods or services obtained on stolen cards.

The credit card provisions were part of the Truth in Lending Act signed into law Oct. 26, 1970, and which banned unsolicited issuance of credit cards and made it a federal crime, punishable by a $10,000 fine or five years in prison or both, to run up a bill of $5,000 or more in goods or services with a stolen or lost card.

The $50 liability protection for legitimate card holders had two effective dates, providing coverage as of Jan. 24, 1971, for cards issued after that date, and then effective Monday, coverage of any cards issued prior to the January 1971 date.

The liability coverage provides that legitimate card holders do not have to pay for any unauthorized purchases made after the card is reported stolen or lost to the issuing company and, at any rate, cannot be liable for more than $50 whether or not a report is made.

The provisions were added to the Truth in Lending Act after congressional hearings developed testimony that legitimate card holders were being forced to pay for thousands of dollars in goods and services obtained after their cards were stolen or lost.

Muskie Has Slim Lead In Iowa Delegate Test

From Press Reports

Des Moines — Early returns from precinct caucuses in Iowa showed Sen. Edmund Muskie of Maine with a slight edge in the first stage of contests for delegate seats at the Democratic National Convention in July, Democratic state headquarters disclosed Tuesday.

The precinct caucuses Monday night were the first test in Iowa of Democratic party "reform" rules designed to give voters at the lowest level — the precinct — a greater share in determining the party's presidential candidate.

With 49% of the vote in, South Dakota Sen. George McGovern had 28.7% of the delegate strength compared with 33.5% for Muskie.

The bad weather forced cancelation of the caucuses in 20 north central Iowa counties, but Iowa Democratic Chairman Clif Larson estimated that 50,000 persons turned out in other areas for the meetings.

Based on percentages of the caucus makeup — whether it was divided, uncommitted, or supported only one candidate — and on a formula provided by state Democratic headquarters, the caucus chairman computed the number of county convention delegates to which each presidential hopeful is entitled.

Here's the rundown for further delegate selection from Iowa:

Feb. 26, county conventions; March 25, congressional district conventions. with delegates selected at the county level; and May 25, Democratic state presidential convention.

Thirty-four of the 46 delegates to the national convention will be elected at district conventions, the rest at the state convention.

Sheik Khalid Of Sharjah Assassinated

Sharjah (AP) — A cousin of Sharjah's ruler streaked into the royal palace with two carloads of Bedouin fighters Tuesday. Sheik Khalid died in a hail of gunfire, but the attempted coup failed.

Sheik Khalid

The sheik's brother, Sheik Sakr bin Mohammed, led a countercharge of police and troops of the new Union of Arab Emirates and found the ruler's body inside his blue and white palace. The rebels surrendered and Sakr bin Mohammed later was named his brother's successor as ruler of the little Persian Gulf emirate.

The rebel sheik, Sakr bin Sultan, is a former ruler.

The assassination prompted police to clamp a curfew and other restrictions on the sheikdom, and leader of the union met in a special session.

Group Surrenders

Sheik Zaid bin Sultan of Abu Dhabi, president of the Union of Arab Emirates, announced that Sakr bin Sultan and his group had surrendered.

Zaid also said that four other persons, who were not identified, had been killed with Sheik Khalid.

He then called a meeting of the union's executive council in Dubai.

Was Police Chief

Khalid served as police chief during his brother's rule, and escaped an assassination attempt last month after welcoming Iranian forces on the offshore island of Abu Musa.

Sharjah claims Abu Musa, where oil now is being sought, but receives a subsidy of $3.75 million in exchange for letting Iran garrison the island. Abu Musa commands the entrance to the Persian Gulf.

Sharjah is about two-thirds the size of Long Island, N.Y., with a population of about 5,000. No oil has been discovered there yet.

Buildings Unfinished

The sheikdom has been described as a reformed pirate domain which now has good schools, fountains and four-lane highways. But many of its office buildings are half finished because the oil hasn't come in.

Sheik Khalid was a gentle man with a special interest in providing good education and proper street lighting for his country.

His cousin, Sakr bin Sultan, was deposed in 1965.

Confirmation Of Boldt Asked

Washington (UPI) — President Nixon Tuesday asked the Senate to confirm his appointment of George H. Boldt as chairman of the Federal Pay Board and C. Jackson Grayson Jr. as chairman of the Price Commission.

The appointments were actually made last November but the Economic Stabilization Act signed by Nixon Dec. 22 requires Senate confirmation.

Trade Deficit In 1971 Worst In U.S. History

Washington (AP) — The United States closed 1971 with its worst trade deficit on record, and its first in 83 years, the Commerce Department said Tuesday in a final report of last year's exports and imports.

The trade deficit swelled to $2,046,000,000 as exports expanded by only 2% and imports jumped 14%.

It was the first calendar-year trade deficit since 1888, when the red ink was $33 million, the department said.

The department said the deficit in December was $273,700,000, marking the third straight month of unfavorable balances in trade and the eighth month for all of 1971.

The government blamed the worsening picture on dock strikes, the threat of strikes in the steel industry which expanded imports, and an economic slowdown in the major industrialized nations overseas.

A trade deficit results when the value of imports from foreign companies exceeds that of U.S. exports. This adds to the U.S. balance-of-payments problems and puts American businesses into stiffer competition with foreign firms.

Exports in 1971 were valued at $43,555,000,000 while imports were $45,602,000,000.

The 1971 deficit represented a massive turnaround from a year ago, when the nation recorded a $2.7-billion surplus.

The Commerce Department conceded that the 1971 rise in imports was greater than had been expected even if the world economy was out of kilter.

Spinach May Be Dangerous For Infants, FAO Reports

Rome (AP) — In spite of what it does for Popeye, spinach may be bad for infants, the U.N. Food and Agriculture Organization reported.

The organization's warning against fresh and frozen spinach for babies under 3 months old was drawn up at a recent Bonn meeting of an FAO and World Health Organization committee on special diets.

The report said several delegates to the meeting expressed the opinion that "the high nitrate content of spinach carried the potential danger of causing methemoglobinaemia — a form of blood poisoning — in early infancy."

The U.S. delegation, from Popeye's home country, stepped in to point out that canned spinach has been in use in the United States for several generations "and there appeared to be no problem."

A representative of the International Organization of Consumers said, however, that because of the public's belief in spinach as a valuable food, containers should carry a warning on the label concerning the unsuitability of the product for the very young infant."

Foreign Aid Authorization Bill To Nixon

Washington (AP) — The House completed legislative action Tuesday on a bill to authorize $2.75 billion in foreign economic and military aid for the current fiscal year ending next June 30.

A roll-call vote of 209 to 179 sent the bill to President Nixon. It passed the Senate last month.

The bill provides no funds to operate the aid program. Separate legislation putting up the money has passed the House but not the Senate. Temporary financing at the rate of $2.4 billion a year until Feb. 22 has been provided by both branches.

Music news is covered thoroughly in the "Sunday Journal and Star."

$50 Billion Debt Ceiling Hike Asked

Washington (UPI) — President Nixon asked Congress Tuesday to raise the national debt ceiling by $50 billion to $480 $480 billion so the government can continue borrowing to pay its bills.

The actual debt is now close to the legal limit of $430 billion, exceeding $426.5 billion five days ago.

The House Ways and Means Committee said the administration was asking that the $480 billion ceiling be made effective through June, 1973.

Nixon Monday proposed a $246.3 billion federal budget, carrying a $25.5 billion deficit, for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1973. This would be on top of a $38.8 billion deficit projected for the current government bookkeeping year.

Whenever the government spends more than it takes through tax collections, it must borrow money through notes, bills and bonds to make up the difference.

Pulses' Effect Worries Laird

Washington — In testimony before the House Armed Services Committee, Defense Secretary Laird said it might be possible to black out the nation's command and control system as well as some strategic weapons with the electromagnetic pulses of large nuclear explosions. (More on Page 1.)

Pay Hike Conditional

Washington — Wage increases of about 10% for 180,000 railroad workers were approved by the Pay Board on the condition that a series of cost-cutting work rules are put into effect. (More on Page 2.)

Wives 'Private Individuals'

Washington — Foreign Service officers will no longer have to worry about receiving bad efficiency reports because their wives did not join clubs or participate in charity drives favored by the ambassador's wife. In an order sent to all foreign missions, the State Department said wives of foreign officers are "private individuals" and were not required to perform any duties.

Police Want To See Irving

Zurich, Switzerland — Police said they wanted to see Clifford Irving, the author of the purported autobiography of Howard Hughes, and Irving's wife in connection with the investigation into the theft of $650,000 from McGraw-Hill Inc., the publishers of Irving's book. The police are looking for the woman who cashed the checks, made out to "H. R. Hughes," that the firm thought it was paying to the industrialist.

Trinity To Spend It All

New York — Trinity Parish, the 275-year-old Episcopal parish whose assets include some of the choicest real estate in Manhattan, has decided to spend all of its annual income of $5 million on religious programs. Previously, the parish has saved a substantial part of its income, a policy begun when it was heavily in debt during the Depression.

My Lai Evidence Said Destroyed

World News

New York (AP) — Evidence about My Lai was destroyed by Americal Division officers who had no connection with the Vietnam massacre "to protect the officers who preceded them," says the reporter who first broke the story of the 1968 assault.

Seymour Hersh, who won a Pulitzer Prize for his My Lai disclosures, writes in the current New Yorker magazine that the Army had evidence some reports on My Lai 4 "were on file at the Americal Division headquarters as late as May 1969."

That was 14 months after the March 16, 1968, incident, a time when the Army's investigation was getting into full swing. The reports were never found, despite an exhaustive probe later by a commission headed by Lt. Gen. William R. Peers.

Hersh, quoting from what he says is a complete transcript of the still-classified Peers report, writes that a Sgt. Kenneth E. Camell "told the Peers commission that he recalled seeing a number of reports on investigations specifically dealing with My Lai 4."

They were in a file of Camell's predecessor as intelligence sergeant for the division's 11th brigade, Hersh writes, adding:

"That spring, as the inspector general's inquiry was getting under way, a senior officer of the 11th Brigade came to him for the complete file. When the folder was returned to him a day or two later, he (Camell) said, he noticed that some of the papers were missing . . . In September 1969, the sergeant added, he was again asked for the file by a senior staff officer. He never saw the folder again."

The reports sought by the Army included a formal probe allegedly conducted by the late Lt. Col. Frank A. Barker, who commanded the assaulting task force and a written report by Col. Oran K. Henderson, the brigade commander who later was tried and acquitted of covering up the massacre.

Trainmen's Union Won't Commit Itself

Washington (AP) — The Pay Board Tuesday approved by a one-vote margin all but the last six months of a new contract covering 140,000 railroad trainmen, but the union declined to say whether it will now put the long-delayed contract into effect.

The AFL-CIO United Transportation Union, has refused to go ahead with streamlined work rules in the contract until the Pay Board approves all of it.

UTU President A. H. Chesser declined to comment on the action Tuesday until he receives official notification of it, so it was not known if the near-total approval of the pact would satisfy him.

Although a tentative pact was reached last Aug. 2, ending an 18-day strike that tied up 10 rail lines, the union held up final approval and demanded assurances that the wage freeze and later controls would not force any scaling down of its sizable pay raises.

The 3½-year contract, retroactive more than two years to Jan. 1, 1970, contains 42% in pay raises along with changes in work rules that the industry says will enable it to give more efficient service and eventually save millions of dollars.

A spokesman for the Pay Board said it approved a resolution clearing the agreement through the present, and saying it intends to approve two raises this year, totaling 10%, so long as the work-rules changes go into effect.

Two more raises in 1973, totaling 5%, were not affected by the action. The board would have to deal with them next year, if wage controls are still in effect.

The vote to approve the resolution was 8 to 5, just achieving the eight-man majority needed for passage.

5 Labor, 3 Business

Although board spokesmen refused to say how various members voted, board sources said the eight favorable votes came from the five labor members and three business members including Benjamin F. Biaggini, the Southern Pacific president who sponsored the resolution reportedly because of a desire to get the work-rules changes in effect.

Nixon Names Kenneth Rush To Number 2 Defense Post

Washington (AP) — President Nixon has named Kenneth Rush, who taught him law and later became ambassador to West Germany, to the second-highest civilian post in the Defense Department.

Rush's nomination as deputy secretary of defense, announced Tuesday by the White House, moves him into position as a possible successor to Secretary of Defense Melvin Laird who is expected to resign later this year no matter how the presidential election comes out.

At the same time, Nixon nominated Dr. Eberhardt Rechtin for promotion from director of the Pentagon's Advanced Research Projects Agency to the newly created job as assistant secretary of defense in charge of all telecommunications.

Rush, 62, of Rye, N.Y., will replace David Packard, an electronics industrialist who resigned late last year to return to California.

Jury To Be Sequestered For Trial Of Berrigan

Harrisburg, Pa. (AP) — The judge in the conspiracy trial of the Rev. Philip Berrigan and six other antiwar activists said Tuesday the jury will be sequestered for the duration of the trial, to shield the jurors from publicity and insure a "fair and impartial" hearing.

U.S. District Judge R. Dixon Herman told a panel of 46 prospective jurors that he had made this decision, saying:

"The court will, with the opposition of the defendants and without the opposition of the government direct that the jury and alternates will remain together as a body until discharged."

Herman excused 17 potential jurors for having preconceived notions about the trial. Three people were excused because they claimed serving on the jury would be a hardship to them.

The dismissal of the 17 brought to 55 the number of persons who have been excused in two days of jury selection after saying they already had formed opinions of the guilt or innocence of the seven defendants or that they could not render an imperial judgment.

With the dismissals, only 62 remain of the 175 who were available at the start of jury selection Monday. All sit in the courtroom, with the 46 who are being questioned sitting in the front. As one of the 46 is excused, a person comes up from the rear to keep the number at 46.

As a new panel member is brought up, Herman says to the person: "You have heard my questions. Do you have any affirmative answers?" If the person replies yes, the judge examines the person further and, if he feels prejudice exists, he dismisses the person.

Father Berrigan and the other defendants are accused conspiring while Berrigan was imprisoned at the Lewisburg federal penitentiary. They allegedly planned to kidnap presidential adviser Henry Kissinger, bomb heating tunnels of certain buildings in Washington, D.C., and raid draft board offices around the country.

Labeling the charges "highly fabricated, utterly untrue," Father Berrigan said Monday in an interview that "it's not a priority of ours to win acquittal, but to conduct a political trial and get the issue before the American people."

Herman's interrogation of the potential jurors included such questions as:

—"Have you or any member of your family served on a draft board?

—"Would the fact that Father Berrigan was in Lewisburg prison make you feel he is guilty in the present case?

—"Do you believe the grand jury which brought down two indictments after apparent serious questioning was careful and cautious and that indicates guilt?"

Religious Question

The judge also asked if the jurors would be swayed by the fact that most of the defendants are Roman Catholics or if they would be swayed by the fact that one was a former priest and another a former nun.

When the judge finishes his general questioning, the opposing attorneys will take over the interrogation.

Herman had each defendant stand to be introduced to the panel. When Anthony Scoblick of Baltimore stood, the judge said, "Mr. Scoblick was a priest. He left the order."

Scoblick spoke up: "Your honor, you're always a priest."

The judge corrected himself. Then when he introduced Scoblick's wife, Mary, he said, "She is a former nun. I don't know if you are always a nun, but she is separated from her order."

Besides Berrigan and Mr. and Mrs. Scoblick, the defendants are Dr. Eqbal Ahmed, a Pakistani scholar living in Chicago; Sister Elizabeth McAlister, a nun on leave from Marymount College, Tarrytown, N.Y.; and the Revs. Neil McLaughlin, 31, and Joseph Wenderoth, 31, both Roman Catholic priests from Baltimore.

Pulses' Effect Worries Laird

Washington — In testimony before the House Armed Services Committee, Defense Secretary Laird said it might be possible to black out the nation's command and control system as well as some strategic weapons with the electromagnetic pulses of large nuclear explosions. (More on Page 1.)

Pay Hike Conditional

Washington — Wage increases of about 10% for 130,000 railroad workers were approved by the Pay Board on the condition that a series of cost-cutting work rules are put into effect. (More on Page 2.)

Wives 'Private Individuals'

Washington — Foreign Service officers will no longer have to worry about receiving bad efficiency reports because their wives did not join clubs or participate in charity drives favored by the ambassador's wife. In an order sent to all foreign missions, the State Department said wives of foreign officers are "private individuals" and were not required to perform any duties.

Shirley Chisholm Is Running

New York — Rep. Shirley Chisholm of New York announced her candidacy for the Democratic presidential nomination. (More on Page 3.)

Police Want To See Irving

Zurich, Switzerland — Police said they wanted to see Clifford Irving, the author of the purported autobiography of Howard Hughes, and Irving's wife in connection with the investigation into the theft of $650,000 from McGraw-Hill Inc., the publishers of Irving's book. The police are looking for the woman who cashed the checks, made out to "H. R. Hughes," that the firm thought it was paying to the industrialist.

Trinity To Spend It All

New York — Trinity Parish, the 275-year-old Episcopal parish whose assets include some of the choicest real estate in Manhattan, has decided to spend all of its annual income of $5 million on religious programs. Previously, the parish has saved a substantial part of its income, a policy begun when it was heavily in debt during the Depression.

My Lai Evidence Said Destroyed

World News

New York (AP) — Evidence about My Lai was destroyed by Americal Division officers who had no connection with the Vietnam massacre "to protect the officers who preceded them," says the reporter who first broke the story of the 1968 assault.

Seymour Hersh, who won a Pulitzer Prize for his My Lai disclosures, writes in the current New Yorker magazine that the Army had evidence some reports on My Lai 4 "were on file at the Americal Division headquarters as late as May 1969."

That was 14 months after the March 16, 1968, incident, a time when the Army's investigation was getting into full swing. The reports were never found, despite an exhaustive probe later by a commission headed by Lt. Gen. William R. Peers.

Hersh, quoting from what he says is a complete transcript of the still-classified Peers report, writes that a Sgt. Kenneth E. Cameli "told the Peers commission that he recalled seeing a number of reports on investigations specifically dealing with My Lai 4."

They were in a file of Cameli's predecessor as intelligence sergeant for the division's 11th brigade, Hersh writes, adding:

"That spring, as the inspector general's inquiry was getting under way, a senior officer of the 11th Brigade came to him for the complete file. When the folder was returned to him a day or two later, he (Cameli) said, he noticed that some of the papers were missing . . . In September 1969, the sergeant added, he was again asked for the file by a senior staff officer. He never saw the folder again."

The reports sought by the Army included a formal probe allegedly conducted by the late Lt. Col. Frank A. Barker, who commanded the assaulting task force and a written report by Col. Oran K. Henderson, the brigade commander who later was tried and acquitted of covering up the massacre.

Trainmen's Union Won't Commit Itself

Washington (AP) — The Pay Board Tuesday approved by a one-vote margin all but the last six months of a new contract covering 140,000 railroad trainmen, but the union declined to say whether it will now put the long-delayed contract into effect.

The AFL-CIO United Transportation Union, has refused to go ahead with streamlined work rules in the contract until the Pay Board approves all of it.

UTU President A. H. Chesser declined to comment on the action Tuesday until he receives official notification of it, so it was not known if the near-total approval of the pact would satisfy him.

Although a tentative pact was reached last Aug. 2, ending an 18-day strike that tied up 10 rail lines, the union held up final approval and demanded assurances that the wage freeze and later controls would not force any scaling down of its sizable pay raises.

The 3½-year contract, retroactive more than two years to Jan. 1, 1970, contains 42% in pay raises along with changes in work rules that the industry says will enable it to give more efficient service and eventually save millions of dollars.

A spokesman for the Pay Board said it approved a resolution clearing the agreement through the present, and saying it intends to approve two raises this year, totaling 10%, so long as the work-rules changes go into effect.

Two more raises in 1973, totaling 5%, were not affected by the action. The board would have to deal with them next year, if wage controls are still in effect.

The vote to approve the resolution was 8 to 5, just achieving the eight-man majority needed for passage.

5 Labor, 3 Business

Although board spokesmen refused to say how various members voted, board sources said the eight favorable votes came from the five labor members and three business members including Benjamin F. Biaggini, the Southern Pacific president who sponsored the resolution reportedly because of a desire to get the work-rules changes in effect.

Nixon Names Kenneth Rush To Number 2 Defense Post

Washington (AP) — President Nixon has named Kenneth Rush, who taught him law and later became ambassador to West Germany, to the second-highest civilian post in the Defense Department.

Rush's nomination as deputy secretary of defense, announced Tuesday by the White House, moves him into position as a possible successor to Secretary of Defense Melvin Laird who is expected to resign later this year no matter how the presidential election comes out.

At the same time, Nixon nominated Dr. Eberhardt Rechtin for promotion from director of the Pentagon's Advanced Research Projects Agency to the newly created job as assistant secretary of defense in charge of all telecommunications.

Rush, 62, of Rye, N.Y., will replace David Packard, an electronics industrialist who resigned late last year to return to California.

Jury To Be Sequestered For Trial Of Berrigan

Harrisburg, Pa. (AP) — The judge in the conspiracy trial of the Rev. Philip Berrigan and six other antiwar activists said Tuesday the jury will be sequestered for the duration of the trial, to shield the jurors from publicity and insure a "fair and impartial" hearing.

U.S. District Judge R. Dixon Herman told a panel of 46 prospective jurors that he had made this decision, saying:

"The court will, with the opposition of the defendants and without the opposition of the government direct that the jury and alternates will remain together as a body until discharged."

Herman excused 17 potential jurors for having preconceived notions about the trial. Three people were excused because they claimed serving on the jury would be a hardship to them.

The dismissal of the 17 brought to 55 the number of persons who have been excused in two days of jury selection after saying they already had formed opinions of the guilt or innocence of the seven defendants or that they could not render an imperial judgment.

With the dismissals, only 62 remain of the 175 who were available at the start of jury selection Monday. All sit in the courtroom, with the 46 who are being questioned sitting in the front. As one of the 46 is excused, a person comes up from the rear to keep the number at 46.

As a new panel member is brought up, Herman says to the person: "You have heard my questions. Do you have any affirmative answers?" If the person replies yes, the judge examines the person further and, if he feels prejudice exists, he dismisses the person.

Father Berrigan and the other defendants are accused conspiring while Berrigan was imprisoned at the Lewisburg federal penitentiary. They allegedly planned to kidnap presidential adviser Henry Kissinger, bomb heating tunnels of certain buildings in Washington, D.C., and raid draft board offices around the country.

Labeling the charges "highly fabricated, utterly untrue," Father Berrigan said Monday in an interview that "it's not a priority of ours to win acquittal, but to conduct a political trial and get the issue before the American people."

Herman's interrogation of the potential jurors included such questions as:

—"Have you or any member of your family served on a draft board?"

—"Would the fact that Father Berrigan was in Lewisburg prison make you feel he is guilty in the present case?

—"Do you believe the grand jury which brought down two indictments after apparent serious questioning was careful and cautious and that indicates guilt?"

Religious Question

The judge also asked if the jurors would be swayed by the fact that most of the defendants are Roman Catholics or if they would be swayed by the fact that one was a former priest and another a former nun.

When the judge finishes his general questioning, the opposing attorneys will take over the interrogation.

Herman had each defendant stand to be introduced to the panel. When Anthony Scoblick of Baltimore stood, the judge said, "Mr. Scoblick was a priest. He left the order."

Scoblick spoke up: "Your honor, you're always a priest."

The judge corrected himself. Then when he introduced Scoblick's wife, Mary, he said, "She is a former nun. I don't know if you are always a nun, but she is separated from her order."

Besides Berrigan and Mr. and Mrs. Scoblick, the defendants are Dr. Eqbal Ahmed, a Pakistani scholar living in Chicago; Sister Elizabeth McAlister, a nun on leave from Marymount College, Tarrytown, N.Y.; and the Revs. Neil McLaughlin, 31, and Joseph Wenderoth, 31, both Roman Catholic priests from Baltimore.

Shirley Chisholm Seeks Presidency

By The Associated Press

Rep. Shirley Chisholm officially became a Democratic presidential candidate Tuesday, while Sen. Edmund S. Muskie scored a significant gain in the same race by wnning the endorsement of the governor of Pennsylvania.

Mrs. Chisholm, 47, the first black woman in Congress, formally announced her candidacy in a church in the Bedford-Stuyvesant slum of Brooklyn where she grew up and once taught school.

She said she would enter primaries in Florida and North Carolina and would run delegates in Pennsylvania, Illinois and Massachusetts. She also said she had an eye on the New York primary.

182 Delegates

In Harrisburg, Pa., Gov. Milton J. Shapp cast aside his neutrality and declared his backing of Muskie for the Democratic nomination. Pennsylvania will send the third-largest delegation — 182— to the national convention.

Shapp's endorsement of the Maine Democrat came to the day that Pennsylvania allows candidates to begin circulating petitions for slates of convention delegates. Muskie, Mrs. Chisholm and Sens. Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota and George McGovern of South Dakota were expected to run slates of delegates.

The governor, who supported Eugene McCarthy for president in 1968 after splitting with Humphrey over Johnson Administration war policies, said he was backing Muskie because "he will help us restore our faith in ourselves."

The development was seen as a setback to Humphrey, who reportedly had been hoping for a strong showing in Pennsylvania.

Mrs. Chisholm omitted mention of other Democratic candidates in her formal announcement of candidacy, although she told newsmen afterwards she expected her campaign to hurt the chances of New York Mayor John V. Lindsay because "Lindsay will be getting votes from the same area that I am."

Not Black Candidate

She told a standing-room-only audience of well-wishers and newsmen in the social hall of the Concord Baptist Church that she was "not the candidate of black America, although I am black and proud.

"I am not the candidate of the women's movement in this country, although I am a woman and I am equally proud of that."

President Nixon, she said, "has broken his promises to us and therefore lost his claim to our trust and confidence to him. I cannot believe that his administration would have been elected four years ago if we had known then what we know today."

ROARING WINDS, HEAVY SNOW, ARCTIC COLD STRIKE

Duluth airport was transformed to arctic-like desolation with winds up to 55 miles an hour combined with over 11 inches of snow. The storm was called the worst of the season by weather officials and closed schools, stores and businesses. The storm was followed by a chilling cold wave that sent temperatures plunging to 28 below and a forecast of 40 below in Minnesota. At least five deaths were blamed on the storm. Wind gusts up to 69 miles an hour were recorded in Chicago.

Credit Card Law Becomes Effective

Washington (UPI) — Credit card owners cannot be held liable for more than $50 worth of unauthorized purchases regardless of when the card was issued, under 1970 credit card law provisions that became effective this week.

Credit card companies, also as of Monday, must devise identification systems for use by merchants or the card companies cannot collect any part of the value of goods or services obtained on stolen cards.

The credit card provisions were part of the Truth in Lending Act signed into law Oct. 26, 1970, and which banned unsolicited issuance of credit cards and made it a federal crime, punishable by a $10,000 fine or five years in prison or both, to run up a bill of $5,000 or more in goods or services with a stolen or lost card.

The $50 liability protection for legitimate card holders had two effective dates, providing coverage as of Jan. 24, 1971, for cards issued after that date, and then effective Monday, coverage of any cards issued prior to the January 1971 date.

The liability coverage provides that legitimate card holders do not have to pay for any unauthorized purchases made after the card is reported stolen or lost to the issuing company and, at any rate, cannot be liable for more than $50 whether or not a report is made.

The provisions were added to the Truth in Lending Act after congressional hearings developed testimony that legitimate card holders were being forced to pay for thousands of dollars in goods and services obtained after their cards were stolen or lost.

Sheik Khalid Of Sharjah Assassinated

Sharjah (AP) — A cousin of Sharjah's ruler streaked into the royal palace with two carloads of Bedouin fighters Tuesday. Sheik Khalid died in a hail of gunfire, but the attempted coup failed.

Sheik Khalid

The sheik's brother, Sheik Sakr bin Mohammed, led a countercharge of police and troops of the new Union of Arab Emirates and found the ruler's body inside his blue and white palace. The rebels surrendered and Sakr bin Mohammed later was named his brother's successor as ruler of the little Persian Gulf emirate.

The rebel sheik, Sakr bin Sultan, is a former ruler.

The assassination prompted police to clamp a curfew and other restrictions on the sheikdom, and leader of the union met in a special session.

Group Surrenders

Sheik Zaid bin Sultan of Abu Dhabi, president of the Union of Arab Emirates, announced that Sakr bin Sultan and his group had surrendered.

Zaid also said that four other persons, who were not identified, had been killed with Sheik Khalid.

He then called a meeting of the union's executive council in Dubai.

Was Police Chief

Khalid served as police chief during his brother's rule, and escaped an assassination attempt last month after welcoming Iranian forces on the offshore island of Abu Musa.

Sharjah claims Abu Musa, where oil now is being sought, but receives a subsidy of $3.75 million in exchange for letting Iran garrison the island. Abu Musa commands the entrance to the Persian Gulf.

Sharjah is about two-thirds the size of Long Island, N.Y., with a population of about 5,000. No oil has been discovered there yet.

Buildings Unfinished

The sheikdom has been described as a reformed pirate domain which now has good schools, fountains and four-lane highways. But many of its office buildings are half finished because the oil hasn't come in.

Sheik Khalid was a gentle man with a special interest in providing good education and proper street lighting for his country.

His cousin, Sakr bin Sultan, was deposed in 1965.

Confirmation Of Boldt Asked

Washington (UPI) — President Nixon Tuesday asked the Senate to confirm his appointment of George H. Boldt as chairman of the Federal Pay Board and C. Jackson Grayson Jr. as chairman of the Price Commission.

The appointments were actually made last November but the Economic Stabilization Act signed by Nixon Dec. 22 requires Senate confirmation.

Muskie Has Slim Lead In Iowa Delegate Test

From Press Reports

Des Moines — Early returns from precinct caucuses in Iowa showed Sen. Edmund Muskie of Maine with a slight edge in the first stage of contests for delegate seats at the Democratic National Convention in July, Democratic state headquarters disclosed Tuesday.

The precinct caucuses Monday night were the first test in Iowa of Democratic party "reform" rules designed to give voters at the lowest level — the precinct — a greater share in determining the party's presidential candidate.

With 49% of the vote in, South Dakota Sen. George McGovern had 28.7% of the delegate strength compared with 33.5% for Muskie.

The bad weather forced cancelation of the caucuses in 20 north central Iowa counties, but Iowa Democratic Chairman Clif Larson estimated that 50,000 persons turned out in other areas for the meetings.

Based on percentages of the caucus makeup — whether it was divided, uncommitted, or supported only one candidate — and on a formula provided by state Democratic headquarters, the caucus chairman computed the number of county convention delegates to which each presidential hopeful is entitled.

Here's the rundown for further delegate selection from Iowa:

Feb. 26, county conventions; March 25, congressional district conventions, with delegates selected at the county level; and May 25, Democratic state presidential convention.

Thirty-four of the 46 delegates to the national convention will be elected at district conventions, the rest at the state convention.

Trade Deficit In 1971 Worst In U.S. History

Washington (AP) — The United States closed 1971 with its worst trade deficit on record, and its first in 83 years, the Commerce Department said Tuesday in a final report of last year's exports and imports.

The trade deficit swelled to $2,046,000,000 as exports expanded by only 2% and imports jumped 14%.

It was the first calendar-year trade deficit since 1888, when the red ink was $33 million, the department said.

The department said the deficit in December was $273,700,000, marking the third straight month of unfavorable balances in trade and the eighth month for all of 1971.

The government blamed the worsening picture on dock strikes, the threat of strikes in the steel industry which expanded imports, and an economic slowdown in the major industrialized nations overseas.

A trade deficit results when the value of imports from foreign companies exceeds that of U.S. exports. This adds to the U.S. balance-of-payments problems and puts American businesses into stiffer competition with foreign firms.

Exports in 1971 were valued at $43,555,000,000 while imports were $45,602,000,000.

The 1971 deficit represented a massive turnaround from a year ago, when the nation recorded a $2.7-billion surplus.

The Commerce Department conceded that the 1971 rise in imports was greater than had been expected even if the world economy was out of kilter.

Spinach May Be Dangerous For Infants, FAO Reports

Rome (AP) — In spite of what it does for Popeye, spinach may be bad for infants, the U.N. Food and Agriculture Organization reported.

The organization's warning against fresh and frozen spinach for babies under 3 months old was drawn up at a recent Bonn meeting of an FAO and World Health Organization committee on special diets.

The report said several delegates to the meeting expressed the opinion that "the high nitrate content of spinach carried the potential danger of causing methemoglobinaemia — a form of blood poisoning — in early infancy."

The U.S. delegation, from Popeye's home country, stepped in to point out that canned spinach has been in use in the United States for several generations "and there appeared to be no problem."

A representative of the International Organization of Consumers said, however, that because of the public's belief in spinach as a valuable food, containers should carry a warning on the label concerning the unsuitability of the product for the very young infant."

Foreign Aid Authorization Bill To Nixon

Washington (AP) — The House completed legislative action Tuesday on a bill to authorize $2.75 billion in foreign economic and military aid for the current fiscal year ending next June 30.

A roll-call vote of 209 to 179 sent the bill to President Nixon. It passed the Senate last month.

The bill provides no funds to operate the aid program. Separate legislation putting up the money has passed the House but not the Senate. Temporary financing at the rate of $2.4 billion a year until Feb. 22 has been provided by both branches.

Music news is covered thoroughly in the "Sunday Journal and Star."

$50 Billion Debt Ceiling Hike Asked

Washington (UPI) — President Nixon asked Congress Tuesday to raise the national debt ceiling by $50 billion to $480 $480 billion so the government can continue borrowing to pay its bills.

The actual debt is now close to the legal limit of $430 billion, exceeding $426.5 billion five days ago.

The House Ways and Means Committee said the administration was asking that the $480 billion ceiling he made effective through June, 1973.

Nixon Monday proposed a $246.3 billion federal budget, carrying a $25.5 billion deficit, for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1973. This would be on top of a $38.8 billion deficit projected for the current government bookkeeping year.

Whenever the government spends more than it takes through tax collections, it must borrow money through notes, bills and bonds to make up the difference.

Leahy Expresses Opposition To Repeal Of City Sales Tax

By DON WALTON
Star Staff Writer

Omaha Mayor Eugene Leahy Tuesday told the Legislature's Revenue Committee that Omaha would be placed in "a desperate and critical financial position" if senators repeal the authorization for city sales taxes.

Elimination of Omaha's 1% city sales tax would result in "drastic cutbacks in all essential services," Leahy said in a written fact sheet which he distributed to the committee.

Ralph Nelson also entered his objections to the bill on behalf of the City of Lincoln, noting that without the one-half percent sales tax levy the city would be unable to stay within its charter limit for property taxes.

The one-half percent tax is equivalent to five mills of property tax, Nelson said.

The committee held the bill, LB1134, sponsored by Sen. Willard Waldo of DeWitt, for later action.

Also held for later consideration were bills to increase the corporation income tax and reduce the gasoline tax on commercial aircraft fuel.

Leahy said Omaha's 1% sales tax produced $9.8 million in 1971, or about 27% of the city's general fund support. That is equivalent to 10½ mills of property tax, he said.

Waldo said cities should rely on the property tax for city services such as fire and police protection. But the state should provide some local property tax relief by further increasing state aid to schools, he said.

Corporation representatives opposed LB1103, the legislative tax study committee's proposal to increase the corporate tax rate by 25%.

Sen. Jules Burbach of Crofton said such a boost is "fair, sound and reasonable."

But corporation spokesmen said they have already experienced a 50% hike in the state tax rate as a result of the increase to a 3% rate for 1972.

LB1103 would raise the total increase to 87%, the committee was told.

Airline representatives supported LB1099, another study committee recommendation which would impose a four-cent per gallon tax on non-commercial aviation fuel, and a two-cent tax on commercial fuel.

The current net tax on all aviation fuel is 2½ cents a gallon, assuming consumers apply for available refunds.

State Aeronautics Director Nick Smeloff opposed the bill, arguing that it would reduce revenues for airport improvements.

Omaha Police Union Sues to Get Bargaining

The Omaha Police Union, Local No. 1, has filed suit against the city of Omaha in the Nebraska Court of Industrial Relations.

Sought by the union is a court order either requiring the city to begin "good faith bargaining" for wages and other economic benefits or judicial establishment of a wage rate program for the police.

The union complains, in its petition, that collective bargaining with Omaha was started in mid-1971 for a new contract starting Jan. 1, 1972.

According to the union, the city broke off those negotiations in December. Reportedly the City Council said there would be no adjustment in police salaries for the remainder of the current fiscal year, one which ends in mid-1972.

That declaration, the police union said, constitutes an unfair labor practice, giving the court jurisdiction.

YMCA Detention Center Proposal Examined

Lancaster County Commissioners Tuesday decided to hold up pursuing further possibilities through the state for building a detention facility until after the proposal by the Young Men's Christian Association (YMCA) is examined.

A committee of the YMCA has proposed a lease arrangement with the county for the 10th floor of the YMCA consisting of 21 rooms.

The proposal calls for an agreement of $23,000 per year including heat, lights, water, linens, maid and janitor service, television and 24-hour elevator and telephone service.

The YMCA has also stated that the complete physical department of the YMCA would be made available on a scheduled basis at no additional cost.

Architect Robert Dawson estimated that renovating cost for the area to be used as a detention facility would be about $25,000 which would be paid by the county with possible federal funding assistance.

According to a letter received by the commissioners, the YMCA board of directors will meet Jan. 31 and act on entering into an agreement with the county for a detention facility.

In other action, the commissioners passed a resolution to ask the state to proceed with making improvements on nine railroad crossings on Federal Aid Secondary roads and on 10 other crossings.

Commutation Of Life Term Is Recommended

By The Associated Press

The state Parole Board recommended Tuesday that the life prison sentence given Choice Jackson of Omaha for a 1959 knife slaying be commuted to a definite term of years.

The recommendation will now go to the Pardon Board, which had last year turned down such a request from the Parole Board on Jackson.

Jacksons, 71, was sentenced in the killing of an Omaha man during a fight.

Other cases before the Parole Board Tuesday and the board's action:

Men's Reformatory:

Ronald Barker, 22, Omaha, serving 1½ to 5 years for larceny from person, sentenced from Douglas County, Nov. 1969 deferred.

Dwayne Black, 18, Omaha, 1 to 3 years for burglary, from Douglas County, April 1971, paroled.

Michael M. Lindsley, 22, Omaha, 1½ to 2 years for burglary, from Douglas County, Dec. 1970, paroled

Marshall D. McClendon, 31, Omaha, 1 to 2 years for burglary, and violation of bench parole, from Douglas County, March 1971, paroled

John L. Reinhart, 20, Omaha, 1 to 2 years for burglary and violation of bench parole, from Douglas County, April 1971, paroled.

William D. Robinson, 20, Omaha, 2 to 4 years for burglary, from Douglas County, July 1970, paroled.

IN PERSPECTIVE

By WILLIAM O. DOBLER

You really can't stand up and cheer for President Nixon's fiscal 1972 and fiscal 1973 budgets because they represent huge expenditures of funds that all of us would like to be spending in our own ways. Governmental budgets are seldom liked but that is not their purpose.

Such budgets represent our responsibilities as citizens—the responsibility to contribute to the defense of the nation so that we can then enjoy its freedoms, the responsibility to help our fellow man and the responsibility to construct a society based on law and order, to use a much maligned term.

How, then, does the President's 1973 budget stack up in comparison with other such documents of the past? Obviously, it is impossible for anyone to say with certainty how valid the details are of a $246.3 billion spending package without giving the document months of study.

It will be the job of Congress to provide that detailed sudy and in his election year, one can rest assured that the study will be painstaking. The Democratic-controlled Congress will do its best to find the weaknesses of that budget.

With the exception of the Department of Agriculture, which will get a little smaller appropriation for 1973 than it did in 1972, the Nixon budget appears to be realistic. Of course, it contains the Mickey Mouse of "full employment" appropriations but that presents an argument in economics, not strict budgeting.

Budgeting and economics are, in a sense, the same but in another sense they are quite different. The Nixon budget is based on a small deficit, if the nation were operating at full employment.

That is a little like the individual making $10,000 a year speeding at the level of $15,000 a year because the higher figure represented, to him, his full potential in the market place of employment. The individual couldn't get away with it but the government might.

Such a federal approach will work if the Nixon domestic economic policies work, a matter in considerable doubt at the moment. Also, the approach will work only if at some time in the future we begin to balance federal budgets and to stop the constant acceleration of the national debt.

What the deadline might be for a balanced budget and debt reduction, nobody really knows for sure, but it would seem inevitable that such an effort be made if the validity of our money and the stability of our federal government are to be maintained.

One area of conflict with Congress that Nixon will face will be in increased defense spending. One wishes that defense spending could be reduced but how is this possible in the fact of world reality?

The facts are that the Soviet Union continues to expand her military hardware and missile muscle and has reached a point in some areas where experts consider her ahead of the U.S. We all know of the futility of the arms race but who knows of any alternative to it?

In contrast to defense, the Nixon budget for 1973 would contain $78.9 billion for the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, some $3 billion more than allocated to the military.

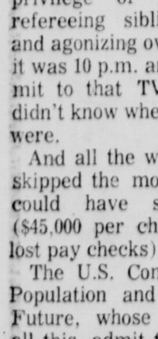
Nixon also seeks to expand research and development in the field of industrial technology. Thus, he seeks to inject into the nation's institutions a greater productivity, a greater imagination and a greater efficiency.

This may be frowned upon by some but the technological lag of this nation in the past five years now concerns many knowledgeable people who see a loss of foreign markets, a sacrifice of jobs at home and higher retail prices for consumers.

Overall, we fully expect that the argument with Nixon in Congress will center far more on details than on total spending. Congress will very likely spend all that Nixon has asked for, maybe more, but it will seek to change his emphasis.

The debate will center, not on how much we are to spend, but on where we are to spend it. The only certainty at this point is that Nixon has eliminated in total the old GOP battle cry against government spending.



VIRGINIA PAYETTE
Children Worth Fortune Of Cost

NEW YORK — If my arithmetic is correct (and that's always a dangerous assumption), in the past 20 years I have, without any help from anyone, blown a quarter of a million dollars.

If I hadn't tossed away that $250,000, I might now be dripping mink and diamonds. Instead, I exchanged it for dripping mops, 7,839 peanut-butter-and-jelly sandwiches and 15 years of the PTA.

☆ ☆ ☆

What caught my eye, though, was that extra little goodie they tucked in there. The one about how much a family loses when a college-trained wife stays home to raise the kids instead of getting a job.

That's when I averaged out what I would have earned if I'd kept on working and discovered I'd blown a bundle. For the privilege of wiping noses, refereeing sibling squabbles, and agonizing over the fact that it was 10 p.m. and I had to admit to that TV voice that I didn't know where my children were.

And all the while, if I'd just skipped the motherhood bit, I could have saved $340,000 ($45,000 per child, plus those lost pay checks).

The U.S. Commissioners on Population and the American Future, whose report started all this, admit these costs are on the "conservative" side. (I'll say. Old Dad would have settled happily for only $45,000 per.)

Maybe we weren't an average family, but when it came to the "extras" there was always something: braces for two, broken bones, summer camp, special schools, Scout uniforms, music lessons, ballet lessons, football helmets, skis, stereos, radios — even a telescope.

We suspected college and a splashy wedding would be expensive (and we were right!), but do those commissioners realize what teen-age automobile insurance costs??? And that's just for openers; the repair bills come soon after.

☆ ☆ ☆

Add it up, over all the years, and the final total is so big it's scary.

It's also the best investment you'll ever make.

So we could have saved a six-figure fortune by not having children. But who else would have brought me a handful of straggly daisies (liberated from a neighbor's yard) . . . or a lifetime supply of lumpy handmade ashtrays?

Whose pictures would be put in our photograph albums? And what could substitute for the button-bustin' pride when a 14-year-old bakes her first apple pie . . . or college son brings home A's in math, or anything.

Who, but children-turned-friends, would compliment you in your middle age with a Christmas gift of (their words) "sexy satin sheets"?)

And without kids of your own, you miss out on the biggest bonus of all — your first grandchild. I figure, the way the government adds it up, we had to plunk out $310,000 — one way or another—to get Amanda. And she's worth every penny.

Including those second-generation expenses for Snoopy dogs . . . and Raggedy Ann dolls . . . and books . . . and blocks . . . and I think it's time I threw out my adding machine.

Program Board Hears Controversy

Sen. Gerald Stromer's ill-advised LB1271, which would eliminate mandatory student fee collections at state-supported colleges and universities, has earned our opposition because it is based primarily on political narrowmindedness and is too harsh a remedy for problems that can otherwise be solved. Sen. Stromer said he introduced the bill because of the preponderance of leftist or revolutionary outside speakers brought to the University of Nebraska's Lincoln campus and paid out of those fees which students must pay on top of their tuition each semester. If his bill passed, there might not be any speakers on the campus.

At a hearing before the Legislature's Education Committee Monday, another and very practical reason for not approving the measure was offered. NU officials told the committee that the bill would not only cut off funds for student government, activities and newspapers but would also eliminate student fees as a means to retire revenue bonds. If the bill passed, NU representatives said, the university, and, in turn, the state, would default on $26.7 million in outstanding revenue bonds used to construct dormitories, the student union and the student health center at Lincoln. Over one-third of the annual bond retirement payment comes from mandatory student fees.

It would seem that the lawmakers would want to avert a potential financial crisis by defeating the Stromer bill, if for no other reason.

Meanwhile, on the NU campus here, a four-member committee established by the Board of Regents to review controversial student fee-financed programs has set a public hearing for tonight to hear campus and public views on the World in Revolution conference on "justice in America" set for early March.

The "interim program arbitration board," formed by the regents after a month-long freeze on some student fee expenditures, said it would permit 15 minutes for testimony from spokesmen for major groups supporting the conference and 15 minutes for those opposed. Then the floor will be open for oral statements of five minutes or less from any one interested—all members of the campus community, "public officials and any interested persons."

Some of the speakers invited for the justice conference would fit Stromer's loose definition of those presenting a left wing or revolutionary viewpoint. But the tentative program looks to be well-balanced overall. The arbitration board's meeting Wednesday night offers the opportunity for pro and con discussion of a representative sampling of extra-curricular activities. Reaction to the "justice in America conference might blow some holes in Stromer's contentions.

Stuart Plans Eyed

In the Letters to the Editor column on this page Tuesday a Lincoln contributor registered his concern over proposed plans of the new occupants for remodeling of the interior of the Stuart Theater, a downtown Lincoln esthetic landmark.

"In my opinion, altering the Stuart is akin to the desecretaion of a cathedral," the letter writer said. We imagine we'll be hearing similar comments on the subject.

A Sunday Journal and Star story this last weekend told of a newly-organized "Save the Stuart" campaign which will seek to convince the Dubinsky Bros. Theatres group, which will take over the Stuart from Cooper Theatres, that the large stage, cathedral-like ceiling, balconies and stone detail on the walls not be sacrificed in the renovation process.

Lincoln architect Bob Hanna, a spokesman for the "Save the Stuart" committee, believes that architecturally speaking, the Stuart is the "second best building in the state," second only in esthetic qualities to the State Capitol.

We, too, think the Stuart is an imposing edifice, done in a grand style such as is not seen very often any more. It would be a pity if it were needlessly changed. We hope the new managers will listen to any workable alternatives to wholesale renovation.

Hoffa, Hughes Like Ghosts In Nixon's Past; Chain-Rattling Could Be Problem This Year

WASHINGTON — Two ghosts from Richard Nixon's past have chosen an awkward moment to rattle their chains.

Just as the President is preening for his re-election campaign, the disembodied voice of phantom billionaire Howard Hughes and the mouthings of ex-labor lord Jimmy Hoffa have stirred old memories.

We have documentary evidence that the President has had a cozy relationship with both men in the past. The details don't make good political advertising in an election year.

The controversy over Hughes has revived our decade-old revelations about the $205,000 that he loaned to Nixon's brother Don. The loan was secured by a mortgage on Lot 10 on Whittier Boulevard in Whittier, Calif. No bank would have accepted this Nixon family plot as security for a $205,000 loan.

But at the time of the transaction, Richard Nixon was vice president, and Howard Hughes was deep in dealings with the U.S. government. These dealings weren't likely to be hurt by the fact that the Nixon family was beholden to him financially.

Hughes sought to strengthen his ties with Nixon early in 1968 when Nixon was campaigning for the Republican presidential nomination. The subject came up in a hand-written exchange between Hughes and his aide-de-camp in Nevada, Robert Maheu. We have seen the memos, which are supposed to be under court seal in Nevada.

Hughes instructed Maheu on March 14, 1968: "I want you to go to see Nixon as my special confidential emmisary. I feel there is a really valid possibility of a Republican victory this year. If that could be realized under our sponsorship and supervision every inch of the way, then we would be ready to follow with Laxalt as our next candidate."

Hughes referred to Paul Laxalt, then governor of Nevada, whom the billionaire hoped to groom for bigger things.

We have evidence that $100,000 was siphoned off from the Silver Slipper casino and delivered to Nixon's crony, Bebe Rebozo, by Hughes aide, Richard Danner. The Silver Slipper is owned by Hughes as a personal holding, and its cash flow does not have to be recorded in corporate books.

Maheu and Danner refused to comment. Rebozo wouldn't take our calls.

We also have evidence that President Nixon's decision to let Jimmy Hoffa out of jail was the culmination of a long, secret friendship. We have seen correspondence that reveals Nixon was going to bat for the embattled Teamsters leader as far back as 1960.

The letters were written to Hoffa by Nixon's old political crony, Oakley Hunter, who now heads the Federal National Mortgage Association.

In August of 1960, a federal grand jury in Orlando was about to indict Hoffa for misuse of union funds to promote a real estate development. Nixon, then vice president, intervened with William Rogers, then attorney general, to have the indictment held up.

This was political payment for Hoffa's backstage support of Nixon in his presidential race against the late John F. Kennedy. The Teamsters gave Nixon no public support, but Hoffa passed the word to his powerful lieutenants across the country to campaign for Nixon.

Once the election was over, Rogers went ahead with the indictment, and Hoffa was furious. This caused Oakley Hunter to write his secret letters.

"I know for a fact," Hunter wrote to Hoffa, "that your side of the case was put before the vice president and that he discussed the case wih the attorney general."

Hunter added that Nixon "has been sympathetic toward you and has felt that you were being subjected to undue harassment."

Now Nixon, after waiting in vain for the Parole Board to release Hoffa, has granted the tough Teamsters leader a presidential parole.

Footnote: Hughes was careful in 1968 to play both sides of the street. His lieutenants offered to subsidize Larry O'Brien so he could serve without pay as Democratic national chairman during the 1968 campaign. Both Humphrey and O'Brien acknowledge the offer was made, but both insist O'Brien never drew a dime from the Hughes interests during the campaign. Several months later, however, he was retained by Hughes for a "substantial sum." Humphrey's son, Robert, was also employed by a Hughes company as a sales representative.

The Interior Department is investigating millions of acres in mining claims filed by an Oklahoma-based promoter who has tried to sell them for cabins, farms and the like. The promoter is Merle Zweifel, head of Zweifel International Prospectors. Interior's files show Nevada his indicted him "on 17 counts of trying to file false claims," and Interior itself is seeking a ruling that many of his claims are "null and void." Prodded by Sen. Lee Metcalf, D-Mont., Interior is investigating Zweifel's bizarre land schemes in Arizona, Nevada, Montana and Colorado.

ANTHONY LEWIS
The Rhodesian Tragedy

LONDON — After years of repression and stillness, the Africans of Rhodesia have found their voice. Anyone who believes in the integrity of the individual human spirit will be moved by their courage in facing the guns of Ian Smith's policemen and army, in demonstrating, in shouting no to the proposed settlement between Britain and her rebel territory.

But alas, courage is not enough in this world. One has to ask whether the course on which at least a significant number of Rhodesia Africans is now evidently fixed—the rejection of compromise and the struggle for real political power—has any chance of success. The answer is almost certainly no.

Smith, prime minister in the rebel government, leads 250,000 white Rhodesians who are determined to keep control of a country they consider theirs as much as the 5,250,000 blacks. He has 70,000 men under arms, and a trained air force. The Africans are not known to have arms or organization worth mentioning.

Suppose that somehow, miraculously, the Africans overcame the Rhodesian armed forces or seriously challenged them. Can anyone doubt what would follow? South Africa, with its immense power, would intervene. It has already let Rhodesia "borrow" some of its police to put down guerrillas. There is not the slightest reason to think that South Africa would stand by and watch a successful black revolution on its borders.

What help could the Africans expect from outside Rhodesia? Would Britain, which foreswore force when the white minority rebelled in 1965, intervene now? Could the tattered United Nation do anything effective? Or the quarreling independent black states of Africa? The answers can hardly be in doubt.

The course of rejecting compromise makes sense only if a better alternative is in view. The ruthless and brutal tactics of Smith now make it clear, if anyone ever really wondered, that the only alternative for the Rhodesians of Africa is to fight. And the prospect down that road is a grim one.

A man deeply familiar with Rhodesia, and deeply sympathetic with the Africans, remarked that what was happening was a tribute to the powerful appeal of democracy. But he added that it may not be the best time for a people to discover democracy when they are under totalitarian control. He was being sad, not cynical.

The individual may always be right to choose heroic death rather than submit to tyranny. Socrates prevailed in history. The same may be true of a people who live under tyrants. Resistance would be better than acceptance of slow death in concentration camps.

But there is a different moral question when someone counsels others to be heroic, for his own political or ideological reasons. Harold Wilson and other Labor party leaders, who refused to fight the white Rhodesians in 1965 and subsequently offered to settle with them, bear a heavy responsibility for encouraging the Africans to resist this settlement.

The settlement offered the Africans the possibility of slow advancement toward political power, and faster economic gains. By ordinary democratic standards, it was worse than imperfect. But it was something—a beginning. And it was an attempt to deal realistically with the facts, the inescapable facts, of white power in southern Africa.

Those of us who thought this something better than nothing may come to believe that the hope rested on too fragile a base. The African bitterness at exploitation and cruelty was too great to accept compromise and gradualism.

If so, if the Americans reject this settlement, what happens next?

Smith's whites will continue to rule on their own terms. They will be that much more frightened, that much more intransigent, that much more inclined toward South Africa.

The world's effort to affect the white regime by sanctions will fade. The attempt, never very effective, was probably fatally injured by the American chrome lobby's success in getting through legislation last year to resume the purchase of Rhodesian chrome. The agreement on the proposed settlement has now sent the salesmen flocking to Rhodesia, and the remaining inconveniences are likely to disappear.

Everyone who cares will know the hollowness of Smith's claim that his Africans love their life as it is, that only outside agitators are making trouble. But few will care enough to act. White southern Americans used to talk that way, too, and had to change — but they lived in a democratic system, with a constitution and a court to enforce it.

The terrible fact of our century is that totalitarian regimes have immense power to survive. Revolutionary barricades no longer work. In southern Africa the radical view is that the only answer is bloody revolution. That would be easier to accept if one had any confidence. That the death of thousands or millions, mostly black, would add to the sum of human happiness.

The Nebraskan

Lincoln, Neb.

Unlike Gary Seacrest, I can offer no thanks to The Star for the editorial stand or news coverage on LB70, only a comment that Mr. Dobler is continuing his emotional, one-sided and unfounded propaganda campaign on this issue.

I, too, was amazed with the comments of some of our state senators, and even more so with some of their votes. It's too bad they allowed the liberal Lincoln press to brow-beat them into submission on an issue which vitally concerns the Legislature: the use of state-collected monies, which constitutionally they are entrusted to protect, on such worthless trash as the Daily Nebraskan.

Mr. Seacrest claims the Daily Nebraskan is not one-sided, smut, pornography. Nor is it lousy or a disgrace, he says. I must disagree. The senators who made such comments, like all the legislators, have seen the Nebraska because we mailed it to them. These senators are to be congratulated on an honest and, in my opinion, accurate appraisal.

If citizens of the state would like to make up their own minds, they may write to this organization at 509 So. 18th Street in Lincoln and receive free copies of material from the Daily Nebraskan as recent as the last issue. Then they can judge for themselves. A warning, however: Be prepared to receive nude pictures, drawings, radical propaganda and the foulest words in our gutteral vocabulary—all directly from the Nebraskan.

Mr. Seacrest, who as editor of the paper helped lead students down that road of misinformation, tried to lead Star readers to think a one-sided polling of students proved their support of the mandatorily financed paper. Not so.

Mr. Dobler tried to lead readers to believe the university would be without a newspaper if students were not forced to pay for it. Maybe if that is true, the Nebraskan should fold, but even that is highly unlikely unless the newspaper made no effort at all to survive. Many, many campus newspapers across the nation do not have forced subscriptions or subsidies, even some in the Big Eight. According to Sigma Delta Chi's national publication, such moves are the modern trend on campus and result in better publications.

The regents' committee, which lacked anyone opposed to forced subscriptions, came up with a proposal which can accomplish nothing and the committee knows it. Why? Because its enforcement has already been ruled unconstitutional.

It is the hope of many students that voters will look carefully at the Nebraskan and those regents and legislators who support it. Maybe soon they will realize that a free press is a two-edged freedom, one that requires responsibility to the readers. Any maybe students won't be forced to subsidize a filth sheet.

BRUCE WIMMER
Chairman, Students for a Non-Mandatory Nebraskan

The Portrait

Lincoln, Neb.

Contrary to the thoughts so prevalent now, the people of past centuries and especially the great painters did have a very accurate description of Jesus. Jesus was of the lineage of David and many descriptions of David are given, such as: "My beloved is white and ruddy, the chiefest among ten thousand, his head is as the most fine gold." (Song of Solomon 5:10-11 Ferrar Fenton, I Samuel 16:12, I Samuel 17:42)

Jesus was perfect both morally and physically. A roman senator, Lentulus Justimian, while in Palestine saw Jesus and wrote a report to the Roman senate as follows:

". . . At this time there appeared a man who is still living and is endowed with great power. His name is Jesus Christ. His disciples call him the son of God. Others regard him as a powerful prophet. He raises the dead to life and heals the sick of all sorts of diseases and informities. This man is tall and well-proportioned. His expression is severe and full of virtue . . . Merely gazing at him, one fears and loves him. The hair on his head is the color of wine, and from crown to ears straight and brilliant. From ears to shoulders, full and curly. His hair is divided into two parts after the manner of the Nazarenes. His forehead is broad and smooth.

"His face is without a mark and bears a slight flush. His nose and mouth are irreproachable. His beard is abundant, brilliant, his speech amiable and convincing, his expression grave and marvelously gracious. No one has even seen him laugh a single time, but he has been seen to weep. Slight of figure, he has charming hands and arms. His hands are straight and long and his arms are delightful. He is grave and measured in his discourse, conservative of speech. His face is that of the most beautiful of the children of men."

EVENTS
IN PERSPECTIVE

By WILLIAM O. DOBLER

You really can't stand up and cheer for President Nixon's fiscal 1972 and fiscal 1973 budgets because they represent huge expenditures of funds that all of us would like to be spending in our own ways. Governmental budgets are seldom liked but that is not their purpose.

Such budgets represent our responsibilities as citizens—the responsibility to contribute to the defense of the nation so that we can then enjoy its freedoms, the responsibility to help our fellow man and the responsibility to construct a society based on law and order, to use a much maligned term.

How, then, does the President's 1973 budget stack up in comparison with other such documents of the past? Obviously, it is impossible for anyone to say with certainty how valid the details are of a $246.3 billion spending package without giving the document months of study.

It will be the job of Congress to provide that detailed sudy and in his election year, one can rest assured that the study will be painstaking. The Democratic-controlled Congress will do its best to find the weaknesses of that budget.

With the exception of the Department of Agriculture, which will get a little smaller appropriation for 1973 than it did in 1972, the Nixon budget appears to be realistic. Of course, it contains the Mickey Mouse of "full employment" appropriations but that presents an argument in economics, not strict budgeting.

Budgeting and economics are, in a sense, the same but in another sense they are quite different. The Nixon budget is based on a small deficit, if the nation were operating at full employment.

That is a little like the individual making $10,000 a year speeding at the level of $15,000 a year because the higher figure represented, to him, his full potential in the market place of employment. The individual couldn't get away with it but the government might.

Such a federal approach will work if the Nixon domestic economic policies work, a matter in considerable doubt at the moment. Also, the approach will work only if at some time in the future we begin to balance federal budgets and to stop the constant acceleration of the national debt.

What the deadline might be for a balanced budget and debt reduction, nobody really knows for sure, but it would seem inevitable that such an effort be made if the validity of our money and the stability of our federal government are to be maintained.

One area of conflict with Congress that Nixon will face will be in increased defense spending. One wishes that defense spending could be reduced but how is this possible in the fact of world reality?

The facts are that the Soviet Union continues to expand her military hardware and missile muscle and has reached a point in some areas where experts consider her ahead of the U.S. We all know of the futility of the arms race but who knows of any alternative to it?

In contrast to defense, the Nixon budget for 1973 would contain $78.9 billion for the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, some $3 billion more than allocated to the military.

Nixon also seeks to expand research and development in the field of industrial technology. Thus, he seeks to inject into the nation's institutions a greater productivity, a greater imagination and a greater efficiency.

This may be frowned upon by some but the technological lag of this nation in the past five years now concerns many knowledgeable people who see a loss of foreign markets, a sacrifice of jobs at home and higher retail prices for consumers.

Overall, we fully expect that the argument with Nixon in Congress will center far more on details than on total spending. Congress will very likely spend all that Nixon has asked for, maybe more, but it will seek to change his emphasis.

The debate will center, not on how much we are to spend, but on where we are to spend it. The only certainty at this point is that Nixon has eliminated in total the old GOP battle cry against government spending.

Program Board Hears Controversy

Sen. Gerald Stromer's ill-advised LB1271, which would eliminate mandatory student fee collections at state-supported colleges and universities, has earned our opposition because it is based primarily on political narrowmindedness and is too harsh a remedy for problems that can otherwise be solved. Sen. Stromer said he introduced the bill because of the preponderance of leftist or revolutionary outside speakers brought to the University of Nebraska's Lincoln campus and paid out of those fees which students must pay on top of their tuition each semester. If his bill passed, there might not be any speakers on the campus.

At a hearing before the Legislature's Education Committee Monday, another and very practical reason for not approving the measure was offered. NU officials told the committee that the bill would not only cut off funds for student government, activities and newspapers but would also eliminate student fees as a means to retire revenue bonds. If the bill passed, NU representatives said, the university, and, in turn, the state, would default on $26.7 million in outstanding revenue bonds used to construct dormitories, the student union and the student health center at Lincoln. Over one-third of the annual bond retirement payment comes from mandatory student fees.

It would seem that the lawmakers would want to avert a potential financial crisis by defeating the Stromer bill, if for no other reason.

Meanwhile, on the NU campus here, a four-member committee established by the Board of Regents to review controversial student fee-financed programs has set a public hearing for tonight to hear campus and public views on the World in Revolution conference on "justice in America" set for early March.

The "interim program arbitration board," formed by the regents after a month-long freeze on some student fee expenditures, said it would permit 15 minutes for testimony from spokesmen for major groups supporting the conference and 15 minutes for those opposed. Then the floor will be open for oral statements of five minutes or less from any one interested—all members of the campus community, "public officials and any interested persons."

Some of the speakers invited for the justice conference would fit Stromer's loose definition of those presenting a left wing or revolutionary viewpoint. But the tentative program looks to be well-balanced overall. The arbitration board's meeting Wednesday night offers the opportunity for pro and con discussion of a representative sampling of extra-curricular activities. Reaction to the "justice in America conference might blow some holes in Stromer's contentions.

Stuart Plans Eyed

In the Letters to the Editor column on this page Tuesday a Lincoln contributor registered his concern over proposed plans of the new occupants for remodeling of the interior of the Stuart Theater, a downtown Lincoln esthetic landmark.

"In my opinion, altering the Stuart is akin to the desecretaion of a cathedral," the letter writer said. We imagine we'll be hearing similar comments on the subject.

A Sunday Journal and Star story this last weekend told of a newly-organized "Save the Stuart" campaign which will seek to convince the Dubinsky Bros. Theatres group, which will take over the Stuart from Cooper Theatres, that the large stage, cathedral-like ceiling, balconies and stone detail on the walls not be sacrificed in the renovation process.

Lincoln architect Bob Hanna, a spokesman for the "Save the Stuart" committee, believes that architecturally speaking, the Stuart is the "second best building in the state," second only in esthetic qualities to the State Capitol.

We, too, think the Stuart is an imposing edifice, done in a grand style such as is not seen very often any more. It would be a pity if it were needlessly changed. We hope the new managers will listen to any workable alternatives to wholesale renovation.

ANTHONY LEWIS
The Rhodesian Tragedy

LONDON — After years of repression and stillness, the Africans of Rhodesia have found their voice. Anyone who believes in the integrity of the individual human spirit will be moved by their courage in facing the guns of Ian Smith's policemen and army, in demonstrating, in shouting no to the proposed settlement between Britain and her rebel territory.

But alas, courage is not enough in this world. One has to ask whether the course on which at least a significant number of Rhodesia Africans is now evidently fixed—the rejection of compromise and the struggle for real political power—has any chance of success. The answer is almost certainly no.

Smith, prime minister in the rebel government, leads 250,000 white Rhodesians who are determined to keep control of a country they consider theirs as much as the 5,250,000 blacks. He has 70,000 men under arms, and a trained air force. The Africans are not known to have arms or organization worth mentioning.

Suppose that somehow, miraculously, the Africans overcame the Rhodesian armed forces or seriously challenged them. Can anyone doubt what would follow? South Africa, with its immense power, would intervene. It has already let Rhodesia "borrow" some of its police to put down guerrillas. There is not the slightest reason to think that South Africa would stand by and watch a successful black revolution on its borders.

What help could the Africans expect from outside Rhodesia? Would Britain, which foreswore force when the white minority rebelled in 1965, intervene now? Could the tattered United Nation do anything effective? Or the quarreling independent black states of Africa? The answers can hardly be in doubt.

The course of rejecting compromise makes sense only if a better alternative is in view. The ruthless and brutal tactics of Smith now make it clear, if anyone ever really wondered, that the only alternative for the Rhodesians of Africa is to fight. And the prospect down that road is a grim one.

A man deeply familiar with Rhodesia, and deeply sympathetic with the Africans, remarked that what was happening was a tribute to the powerful appeal of democracy. But he added that it may not be the best time for a people to discover democracy when they are under totalitarian control. He was being sad, not cynical.

The individual may always be right to choose heroic death rather than submit to tyranny. Socrates prevailed in history. The same may be true of a people who live under tyrants. Resistance would be better than acceptance of slow death in concentration camps.

But there is a different moral question when someone counsels others to be heroic, for his own political or ideological reasons. Harold Wilson and other Labor party leaders, who refused to fight the white Rhodesians in 1965 and subsequently offered to settle with them, bear a heavy responsibility for encouraging the Africans to resist this settlement.

The settlement offered the Africans the possibility of slow advancement toward political power, and faster economic gains. By ordinary democratic standards, it was worse than imperfect. But it was something—a beginning. And it was an attempt to deal realistically with the facts, the inescapable facts, of white power in southern Africa.

Those of us who thought this something better than nothing may come to believe that the hope rested on too fragile a base. The African bitterness at exploitation and cruelty was too great to accept compromise and gradualism.

If so, if the Americans reject this settlement, what happens next?

Smith's whites will continue to rule on their own terms. They will be that much more frightened, that much more intransigent, that much more inclined toward South Africa.

The world's effort to affect the white regime by sanctions will fade. The attempt, never very effective, was probably fatally injured by the American chrome lobby's success in getting through legislation last year to resume the purchase of Rhodesian chrome. The agreement on the proposed settlement has now sent the salesmen flocking to Rhodesia, and the remaining inconveniences are likely to disappear.

Everyone who cares will know the hollowness of Smith's claim that his Africans love their life as it is, that only outside agitators are making trouble. But few will care enough to act. White southern Americans used to talk that way, too, and had to change — but they lived in a democratic system, with a constitution and a court to enforce it.

The terrible fact of our century is that totalitarian regimes have immense power to survive. Revolutionary barricades no longer work. In southern Africa the radical view is that the only answer is bloody revolution. That would be easier to accept if one had any confidence. That the death of thousands or millions, mostly black, would add to the sum of human happiness.

The Nebraskan

Lincoln, Neb.

Unlike Gary Seacrest, I can offer no thanks to The Star for the editorial stand or news coverage on LB70, only a comment that Mr. Dobler is continuing his emotional, one-sided and unfounded propaganda campaign on this issue.

I, too, was amazed with the comments of some of our state senators, and even more so with some of their votes. It's too bad they allowed the liberal Lincoln press to brow-beat them into submission on an issue which vitally concerns the Legislature: the use of state-collected monies, which constitutionally they are entrusted to protect, on such worthless trash as the Daily Nebraskan.

Mr. Seacrest claims the Daily Nebraskan is not one-sided, smut, pornography. Nor is it lousy or a disgrace, he says. I must disagree. The senators who made such comments, like all the legislators, have seen the Nebraska because we mailed it to them. These senators are to be congratulated on an honest and, in my opinion, accurate appraisal.

If citizens of the state would like to make up their own minds, they may write to this organization at 509 So. 18th Street in Lincoln and receive free copies of material from the Daily Nebraskan as recent as the last issue. Then they can judge for themselves. A warning, however: Be prepared to receive nude pictures, drawings, radical propaganda and the foulest words in our gutteral vocabulary—all directly from the Nebraskan.

Mr. Seacrest, who as editor of the paper helped lead students down that road of misinformation, tried to lead Star readers to think a one-sided polling of students proved their support of the mandatorily financed paper. Not so.

Mr. Dobler tried to lead readers to believe the university would be without a newspaper if students were not forced to pay for it. Maybe if that is true, the Nebraskan should fold, but even that is highly unlikely unless the newspaper made no effort at all to survive. Many, many campus newspapers across the nation do not have forced subscriptions or subsidies, even some in the Big Eight. According to Sigma Delta Chi's national publication, such moves are the modern trend on campus and result in better publications.

The regents' committee, which lacked anyone opposed to forced subscriptions, came up with a proposal which can accomplish nothing and the committee knows it. Why? Because its enforcement has already been ruled unconstitutional.

It is the hope of many students that voters will look carefully at the Nebraskan and those regents and legislators who support it. Maybe soon they will realize that a free press is a two-edged freedom, one that requires responsibility to the readers. Any maybe students won't be forced to subsidize a filth sheet.

The Portrait

Lincoln, Neb.

Contrary to the thoughts so prevalent now, the people of past centuries and especially the great painters did have a very accurate description of Jesus. Jesus was of the lineage of David and many descriptions of David are given, such as: "My beloved is white and ruddy, the chiefest among ten thousand, his head is as the most fine gold." (Song of Solomon 5:10-11 Ferrar Fenton, I Samuel 16:12, I Samuel 17:42)

Jesus was perfect both morally and physically. A roman senator, Lentulus Justinian, while in Palestine saw Jesus and wrote a report to the Roman senate as follows:

Merely gazing at him, one fears and loves him. The hair on his head is the color of wine, and from crown to ears straight and brilliant. From ears to shoulders, full and curly. "His face is without a mark and bears a slight flush. His nose and mouth are irreproachable. VIRGINIA PAYETTE
Children Worth Fortune Of Cost

NEW YORK — If my arithmetic is correct (and that's always a dangerous assumption), in the past 20 years I have, without any help from anyone, blown a quarter of a million dollars.

If I hadn't tossed away that $250,000, I might now be dripping mink and diamonds. Instead, I exchanged it for dripping mops, 7,839 peanut-butter-and-jelly sandwiches and 15 years of the PTA.

What caught my eye, though, was that extra little goodie they tucked in there. The one about how much a family loses when a college-trained wife stays home to raise the kids instead of getting a job.

That's when I averaged out what I would have earned if I'd kept on working and discovered I'd blown a bundle. For the privilege of wiping noses, refereeing sibling squabbles, and agonizing over the fact that it was 10 p.m. and I had to admit to that TV voice that I didn't know where my children were.

And all the while, if I'd just skipped the motherhood bit, I could have saved $340,000 ($45,000 per child, plus those lost pay checks).

The U.S. Commissioners on Population and the American Future, whose report started all this, admit these costs are on the "conservative" side. (I'll say. Old Dad would have settled happily for only $45,000 per.)

Maybe we weren't an average family, but when it came to the "extras" there was always something: braces for two, broken bones, summer camp, special schools, Scout uniforms, music lessons, ballet lessons, football helmets, skis, stereos, radios — even a telescope.

We suspected college and a splashy wedding would be expensive (and we were right!), but do those commissioners realize what teen-age automobile insurance costs??? And that's just for openers: the repair bills come soon after.

☆ ☆ ☆

Add it up, over all the years, and the final total is so big it's scary.

It's also the best investment you'll ever make.

So we could have saved a six-figure fortune by not having children. But who else would have brought me a handful of straggly daisies (liberated from a neighbor's yard) . . . or a lifetime supply of lumpy handmade ashtrays?

Whose pictures would be put in our photograph albums? And what could substitute for the button-bustin' pride when a 14-year-old bakes her first apple pie . . . or college son brings home A's in math, or anything.

Who, but children-turned-friends, would compliment you in your middle age with a Christmas gift of (their words) "sexy satin sheets"?)

And without kids of your own, you miss out on the biggest bonus of all — your first grandchild. I figure, the way the government adds it up, we had to plunk out $310,000 — one way or another—to get Amanda. And she's worth every penny.

Including these second-generation expenses for Snoopy dogs . . . and Raggedy Ann dolls . . . and books . . . and blocks . . . and I think it's time I threw out my adding machine.

JACK ANDERSON
Hoffa, Hughes Like Ghosts In Nixon's Past; Chain-Rattling Could Be Problem This Year

WASHINGTON — Two ghosts from Richard Nixon's past have chosen an awkward moment to rattle their chains.

Just as the President is preening for his re-election campaign, the disembodied voice of phantom billionaire Howard Hughes and the mouthings of ex-labor lord Jimmy Hoffa have stirred old memories.

We have documentary evidence that the President has had a cozy relationship with both men in the past. The details don't make good political advertising in an election year.

The controversy over Hughes has revived our decade-old revelations about the $205,000 that he loaned to Nixon's brother Don. The loan was secured by a mortgage on Lot 10 on Whittier Boulevard in Whittier, Calif. No bank would have accepted this Nixon family plot as security for a $205,000 loan.

But at the time of the transaction, Richard Nixon was vice president, and Howard Hughes was deep in dealings with the U.S. government. These dealings weren't likely to be hurt by the fact that the Nixon family was beholden to him financially.

Hughes sought to strengthen his ties with Nixon early in 1968 when Nixon was campaigning for the Republican presidential nomination. The subject came up in a hand-written exchange between Hughes and his aide-de-camp in Nevada, Robert Maheu. We have seen the memos, which are supposed to be under court seal in Nevada.

Hughes instructed Maheu on March 14, 1968: "I want you to go to see Nixon as my special confidential emmisary. I feel there is a really valid possibility of a Republican victory this year. If that could be realized under our sponsorship and supervision every inch of the way, then we would be ready to follow with Laxalt as our next candidate."

Hughes referred to Paul Laxalt, then governor of Nevada, whom the billionaire hoped to groom for bigger things.

We have evidence that $100,000 was siphoned off from the Silver Slipper casino and delivered to Nixon's crony, Bebe Rebozo, by Hughes aide, Richard Danner. The Silver Slipper is owned by Hughes as a personal holding, and its cash flow does not have to be recorded in corporate books.

Maheu and Danner refused to comment. Rebozo wouldn't take our calls.

We also have evidence that President Nixon's decision to let Jimmy Hoffa out of jail was the culmination of a long, secret friendship. We have seen correspondence that reveals Nixon was going to bat for the embattled Teamsters leader as far back as 1960.

The letters were written to Hoffa by Nixon's old political crony, Oakley Hunter, who now heads the Federal National Mortgage Association.

In August of 1960, a federal grand jury in Orlando was about to indict Hoffa for misuse of union funds to promote a real estate development. Nixon, then vice president, intervened with William Rogers, then attorney general, to have the indictment held up.

This was political payment for Hoffa's backstage support of Nixon in his presidential race against the late John F. Kennedy. The Teamsters gave Nixon no public support, but Hoffa passed the word to his powerful lieutenants across the country to campaign for Nixon.

Once the election was over, Rogers went ahead with the indictment, and Hoffa was furious. This caused Oakley Hunter to write his secret letters.

"I know for a fact," Hunter wrote to Hoffa, "that your side of the case was put before the vice president and that he discussed the case wih the attorney general."

Hunter added that Nixon "has been sympathetic toward you and has felt that you were being subjected to undue harassment."

Now Nixon, after waiting in vain for the Parole Board to release Hoffa, has granted the tough Teamsters leader a presidential parole.

Footnote: Hughes was careful in 1968 to play both sides of the street. His lieutenants offered to subsidize Larry O'Brien so he could serve without pay as Democratic national chairman during the 1968 campaign. Both Humphrey and O'Brien acknowledge the offer was made, but both insist O'Brien never drew a dime from the Hughes interests during the campaign. Several months later, however, he was retained by Hughes for a "substantial sum." Humphrey's son, Robert, was also employed by a Hughes company as a sales representative.

Leahy Expresses Opposition To Repeal Of City Sales Tax

By DON WALTON
Star Staff Writer

Omaha Mayor Eugene Leahy Tuesday told the Legislature's Revenue Committee that Omaha would be placed in "a desperate and critical financial position" if senators repeal the authorization for city sales taxes.

Elimination of Omaha's 1% city sales tax would result in "drastic cutbacks in all essential services," Leahy said in a written fact sheet which he distributed to the committee.

Ralph Nelson also entered his objections to the bill on behalf of the City of Lincoln, noting that without the one-half percent sales tax levy the city would be unable to stay within its charter limit for property taxes.

The one-half percent tax is equivalent to five mills of property tax, Nelson said.

The committee held the bill, LB1134, sponsored by Sen. Willard Waldo of DeWitt, for later action.

Also held for later consideration were bills to increase the corporation income tax and reduce the gasoline tax on commercial aircraft fuel.

Leahy said Omaha's 1% sales tax produced $9.8 million in 1971, or about 27% of the city's general fund support. That is equivalent to 10½ mills of property tax, he said.

Waldo said cities should rely on the property tax for city services such as fire and police protection. But the state should provide some local property tax relief by further increasing state aid to schools, he said.

Corporation representatives opposed LB1103, the legislative tax study committee's proposal to increase the corporate tax rate by 25%.

Sen. Jules Burbach of Crofton said such a boost is "fair, sound and reasonable."

But corporation spokesmen said they have already experienced a 50% hike in the state tax rate as a result of the increase to a 3% rate for 1972.

LB1103 would raise the total increase to 87%, the committee was told.

Airline representatives supported LB1099, another study committee recommendation which would impose a four-cent per gallon tax on non-commercial aviation fuel, and a two-cent tax on commercial fuel.

The current net tax on all aviation fuel is 2½ cents a gallon, assuming consumers apply for available refunds.

State Aeronautics Director Nick Smeloff opposed the bill, arguing that it would reduce revenues for airport improvements.

Omaha Police Union Sues to Get Bargaining

The Omaha Police Union, Local No. 1, has filed suit against the city of Omaha in the Nebraska Court of Industrial Relations.

Sought by the union is a court order either requiring the city to begin "good faith bargaining" for wages and other economic benefits or judicial establishment of a wage rate program for the police.

The union complains, in its petition, that collective bargaining with Omaha was started in mid-1971 for a new contract starting Jan. 1, 1972.

According to the union, the city broke off those negotiations in December. Reportedly the City Council said there would be no adjustment in police salaries for the remainder of the current fiscal year, one which ends in mid-1972.

That declaration, the police union said, constitutes an unfair labor practice, giving the court jurisdiction.

YMCA Detention Center Proposal Examined

Lancaster County Commissioners Tuesday decided to hold up pursuing further possibilities through the state for building a detention facility until after the proposal by the Young Men's Christian Association (YMCA) is examined.

A committee of the YMCA has proposed a lease arrangement with the county for the 10th floor of the YMCA consisting of 21 rooms.

The proposal calls for an agreement of $23,000 per year including heat, lights, water, linens, maid and janitor service, television and 24-hour elevator and telephone service.

The YMCA has also stated that the complete physical department of the YMCA would be made available on a scheduled basis at no additional cost.

Architect Robert Dawson estimated that renovating cost for the area to be used as a detention facility would be about $25,000 which would be paid by the county with possible federal funding assistance.

According to a letter received by the commissioners, the YMCA board of directors will meet Jan. 31 and act on entering into an agreement with the county for a detention facility.

In other action, the commissioners passed a resolution to ask the state to proceed with making improvements on nine railroad crossings on Federal Aid Secondary roads and on 10 other crossings.

Commutation Of Life Term Is Recommended

By The Associated Press

The state Parole Board recommended Tuesday that the life prison sentence given Choice Jackson of Omaha for a 1959 knife slaying be commuted to a definite term of years.

The recommendation will now go to the Pardon Board, which had last year turned down such a request from the Parole Board on Jackson.

Jacksons, 71, was sentenced in the killing of an Omaha man during a fight.

Other cases before the Parole Board Tuesday and the board's action:

Men's Reformatory:

Ronald Barker, 22, Omaha, serving 1½ to 5 years for larceny from person, sentenced from Douglas County, Nov. 1969 deferred.

Dwayne Black, 18, Omaha, 1 to 3 years for burglary, from Douglas County, April 1971, paroled.

Michael M. Lindsley, 22, Omaha, 1½ to 2 years for burglary, from Douglas County, Dec. 1970, paroled.

Marshall D. McClendon, 31, Omaha, 1 to 2 years for burglary, and violation of bench parole, from Douglas County, March 1971, paroled.

John L. Reinhart, 20, Omaha, 1 to 2 years for burglary and violation of bench parole, from Douglas County, April 1971, paroled.

William D. Robinson, 20, Omaha, 2 to 4 years for burglary, from Douglas County, July 1970, paroled.

Steven Walker, 20, Omaha, 2 years for breaking and entering auto, from Douglas County, Dec. 1970, paroled.

Robert Buchsbaum, 20, of Pennsylvania, 1 to 2 years for malicious destruction of property, from Lancaster County, April 1971, paroled.

Jeffrey C. Gunkel, 21, of Wisconsin, 1 to 2 years for malicious destruction of property, from Lancaster County, April 1971, paroled.

Terrance F. La Mere, 22, Omaha, 1 to 2 years for malicious destruction of property and violation of bench parole, from Sarpy County, Jan. 1971, paroled.

Reyes Gevara, 18, Scottsbluff, 2 years for breaking and entering, from Scottsbluff County, Jan. 1971, paroled.

Penitentiary:

Reform Proposal Won't Save Money

By BOB GUENTHER
Star Staff Writer

Lincoln Sen. Roland Luedtke told the Judiciary Committee Tuesday that his judicial reform bill will not save the state money but will bring better administration of justice.

In fact, the 121-page LB1032 would require $619,000 in annual general fund support, according to bill-drafter Jim Dunlevy.

Using Dunlevy's calculations, the consolidated court plan would generate some $1.3 million in revenue but the plan's cost is anticipated at $2 million.

Luedtke's plan would eliminate Justices of the Peace and Magistrate Court and would shrink the number of County Courts from 93 to 21 to coincide with the state's district court system.

Among the measure's other substantive changes are transferring the responsibility for paying the judges to the state and removing them from the ballot making them an appointed position. The bill will also require that the judges be lawyers. Dunlevy's figures revealed that currently two-thirds of the county judges are not lawyers. Whether this would mean replacing current non-lawyer judges is still a moot point.

Luedtke noted the measure "is not something which has come up over night. It goes back 4 years when the committee started studying it."

The committee took no action on the bill.

Opponents appeared before the committee protesting the bill as "too drastic" and undemocratic in its elimination of an elective office. Instead many offered numerous amendments and advocated a piecemeal approach.

Gary Anderson, Kearney County treasurer, admitted the bill "has some good things, such as improving the quality of the judges and instituting a small claims court." But, he said, the reform measure will have an adverse impact on small counties.

Noting that Lancaster and Douglas Counties would be the prime beneficiaries, Anderson said: "We're going to be paying for problems we don't even have.

"It's part of the trend toward more distant government when what we really should do is to come closer to the taxpayer," he said.

The ruralist point of view was also echoed by Duell County Attorney Bob Richard:

"Let's do something palatable for all Nebraskans — not just Douglas and Lancaster Counties. We are getting along quite well despite the Legislature and the study committee.

"What chance do you think a Duell County Republican would have of being appointed under a Democratic governor with this legislation?"

Arnold Ruhnke, executive director of the County Officials Association, said a survey he did disclosed that of the county officials who responded only 3 favored the bill while 43 said they were opposed.

The committee also took under advisement LB1301 which redistricts the state's district court system and adds six judges. The six would go to areas designated as trouble spots in terms of increasing work loads.

The areas which would get the extra judge would be Lincoln, Omaha, Fremont, Grand Island, North Platte and Scottsbluff.

Election Bill Amendment Is Rejected

The Legislature Tuesday refused to amend a pending election reform bill to provide that officeholders other than constitutional officers must resign their positions in order to run for another office.

The action was taken following an hour-long, oftentimes acrimonious debate when a motion by Omaha Sen. Richard Proud to begin the amendment process fell one vote short of success.

Proud had moved to return the bill, LB661, to select file for the adoption of his amendment but the motion, needing 25 votes, was favored only 24-20.

In offering his amendment, Proud had contended officeholders should not spend their time campaigning for another office.

However, the debate took a political turn when Proud, at the urging of two other senators, promised to alter his amendment to include Unicameral members.

That suggestion was made by Sens. Wayne Ziebarth of Wilcox and Terry Carpenter of Scottsbluff, who, along with Sen John DeCamp of Neligh, are running for the Democratic nomination in a U.S. Senate race.

"I would be happy to resign and get on with the campaign," said Ziebarth, while Carpenter promised that should such an amendment pass, "that's the day I'll resign from this body."

Bill Dropping Parental Notification Advances

By United Press International

The Legislature's Health and Welfare Committee sent to the floor Tuesday a measure to drop the required parental notification when minors are treated for venereal disease or drug addiction or incapacitation.

In advancing LB1302, sponsored by Omaha Sen. David Stahmer, the committee decided to let the full Unicameral choose between it and Lincoln Sen. Wally Barnett's less comprehensive measure reported out of committee last week. That bill, LB1096, only concerns treatment of venereal disease without parental notification.

The committee also advanced a measure to provide relief for barbers who had to pay a double fee for their licenses last year because of a change in regulations.

Frank Lanning, president of the Board of Barber Examiners said his group approved of LB1183, but asked that the bill be made more inclusive by also considering fees paid by apprentices, barber colleges and instructors licenses, which were also affected by the change.

LB1220, a measure to permit the sale or transfer or ownership of home beauty shops to a licensed relative and to allow for one door to connect the operator's home and salon, was advanced to the floor on a unanimous vote. Present regulations prohibit transfer of ownership without a reapplication to the Board of Cosmetologist Examiners, and require the operator's home and salon have no connecting doorway.

The committee also took action on two bills held over from Monday's public hearings.

LB1304, which would allow one-year waivers of health or safety regulations in nursing homes, sailed to the floor on a 7-0 vote.

The second measure, however, allowing the Health Department to compile statistics to determine future hospital construction, failed to advance when committee members deadlocked 3-3 on a motion to kill the bill.

Plant To Close

Mountainside, N.J. (UPI) — Worthington Pump International Inc., announced it will soon close its Denver plant, idling 125 workers.

Requests Climb

Houston (UPI) — A 4% rise in the past year in the volume of credit report requests was revealed by Associated Credit Bureaus, Inc. Collection volume increased by 7%.

Controversial Health Ed Bill Held

By The Associated Press

The Legislature's Education Committee Tuesday decided to hold for further study a suddenly-controversial plan for a comprehensive health education program in Nebraska schools after a number of opponents warned it would open the door to "compulsory sex education."

The bill, LB1224, was introduced by an interim study committee on drug abuse and committee member Sen. John DeCamp of Neligh emphasized that the intent of the bill was health education, not sex education.

"But you can't teach a subject by ignoring an entire area," he said. "Venereal disease is on the rise, and gonorrhea and syphilis don't come from dunking apples."

Opponents to the bill generally challenged its "broad language" and noted suspiciously that much of its phrasing seemed drawn from literature backing sex education.

The committee also voted, 6-1, to hold a controversial bill heard Monday which would cut out student fees at the University of Nebraska and the four state colleges. Opponents of Kearney Sen. Gerald Stromer's LB1271 had charged that such a measure would create a financial crisis at the schools.

Advanced without dissent were LB1237, upgrading the University of Nebraska's present school of nursing to a college of nursing, and Omaha Sen. David Stahmer's LB741, which would broaden state aid to education provisions for children with learning disabilities.

The committee killed, 5-1, Lincoln Sen. Harold Simpson's LB1215, which would have provided for extra welfare support to families with junior high and high school children.

3 Proposed Amendments Set For Vote

The Legislature voted Tuesday to place another three constitutional amendments before Nebraska voters this year. Two of the three would go on the November general election ballot; the other, on the May primary ballot.

One of the amendments represents a resubmission of an amendment defeated by voters in 1970, designed to eliminate the technical requirement that each bill be read aloud in full before a final vote on it is taken in the Legislature. The proposition was rejected 222,788 to 70,873 in 1970.

The resubmitted amendment also contains a provision reducing from five days to three days the minimum length of special legislative sessions.

The bill placing the constitutional changes on the November ballot, LB141, was passed 34-13.

A 42-3 approving vote went to LB656, which submits to voters in May a constitutional amendment permitting federal educational grants to be channeled through the state for distribution to parochial as well as public schools. The constitutional ban against use of state and local tax money for the benefit of private or parochial schools would be retained.

The third constitutional amendment bill adopted Tuesday clarifies the right of felony defendants to appeal their cases to the Supreme Court.

Unprecedented Action Yanks Budget Bill From Committee

By DON WALTON
Star Staff Writer

Heeding the wishes of Appropriations Committee Chairman Richard Marvel of Hastings, the Legislature Tuesday yanked the operational budget bill from the committee's hands and placed it on the floor for debate next Tuesday.

The unprecedented act came on a 32-9 vote and represented a signal victory for Marvel and a minority of the committee's members.

The decision negated the wishes of a majority of the committee members who wanted to take further action on the bill at a full committee meeting Tuesday afternoon.

Five of the committee's nine senators — John Savage and David Stahmer, both of Omaha, Fern Hubbard Orme of Lincoln, Wayne Ziebarth of Wilcox and E. Thome Johnson of Fremont — had requested the Legislature to direct Marvel to call the unit into session.

But before their motion could be put to a vote, the Legislature approved an earlier motion from Sen. Harold Simpson of Lincoln to pull the bill out of committee in its present form.

"I'm not sure I'm doing the right thing," Simpson worried as the motion moved toward a vote.

"Senator Nore just told me I did it just right, so I'm really worried now."

In any event, Simpson said, the full Legislature will ultimately settle the battle of philosophies within the committee.

Had the committee been allowed to meet again, it is likely that a majority vote would have removed the program budgetary limits now imposed on state agencies by the bill.

A motion was in the works to give agencies lump sum appropriations, with program limits for guidance only.

Efforts to increase the University of Nebraska budget figure might also have been undertaken by the committee.

Aligned with Marvel in what appeared to be a committee minority were Sens. Herb Nore of Genoa, Robert Clark of Sidney and Ramey Whitney of Chappell.

Marvel has not called a committee meeting since Jan. 13 because, he said, it was "deadlocked" and unable to take action. The last effort to move the bill to the floor on that date failed on a 4-4 vote.

Subsequently, Marvel divided the unit into two subcommittees to study other budgetary matters.

"The fate of the Legislature rests on these motions," Marvel told his colleagues as they debated the Simpson and Savage requests.

The issue is "whether this Legislature will determine its own public policy . . . or throw in the towel," he said.

Gov. J. James Exon "and his subordinates (are) attempting to determine when this Legislature acts on its own appropriations bill," he said.

The governor has advocated budgetary flexibility among programs.

Marvel said the committee completed its work on the operational budget bill last Dec. 15 with "no basic disagreement" on its contents.

"Then there began to be delays," he said. "It was stalled by those now seeking action . . . other meetings were taking place . . . then we fell apart."

Although Marvel did not detail the basic issue now dividing the committee, Sen. Terry Carpenter of Scottsbluff did.

"Some members of the commtitee want to amend the bill to do away with earmarking," he said. "We have two sides, both strong-willed and unwilling to compromise."

Savage said Marvel has engaged in "a stalling process" to avoid a committee meeting.

The subcommittee decision came "as a big surprise . . . in the form of an assignment from a school teacher to do some homework" and as an attempt to "avoid a meeting," he said.

"We've not been treated exactly fairly," Mrs. Orme declared. She characterized the subcommittee assignments as "busywork."

On the final vote, Sens. Calvin Carsten of Avoca, Orval Keyes of Springfield, George Syas of Omaha and Jerome Warner of Waverly joined the five senators who signed the Savage motion in voting against the Simpson request.

Committee OKs 5 Appointments

The Legislature's Committee on Committees Tuesday unanimously voted to recommend that five appointments made last year by Gov. J. J. Exon be confirmed by the Legislature.

The appointments all were each confirmed on 9-0 votes. There was no opposition to any of the five at public hearings.

The five include John Baylor of Lincoln to the Court of Industrial Relations, F. Phillips Giltner and Mrs. Catherine Dahlquist, both of Omaha, to the Advisory Council for the Department of Economic Development; and Joseph Cascio of Omaha and Norman Magnusson of Bellevue, both to the Board of Public Roads Classifications and Standards.

Unprecedented Action Yanks Budget Bill From Committee

By DON WALTON

Heeding the wishes of Appropriations Committee Chairman Richard Marvel of Hastings, the Legislature Tuesday yanked the operational budget bill from the committee's hands and placed it on the floor for debate next Tuesday.

The unprecedented act came on a 32-9 vote and represented a signal victory for Marvel and a minority of the committee's members.

The decision negated the wishes of a majority of the committee members who wanted to take further action on the bill at a full committee meeting Tuesday afternoon.

Five of the committee's nine senators — John Savage and David Stahmer, both of Omaha, Fern Hubbard Orme of Lincoln, Wayne Ziebarth of Wilcox and E. Thome Johnson of Fremont — had requested the Legislature to direct Marvel to call the unit into session.

In any event, Simpson said, the full Legislature will ultimately settle the battle of philosophies within the committee.

Had the committee been allowed to meet again, it is likely that a majority vote would have removed the program budgetary limits now imposed on state agencies by the bill.

A motion was in the works to give agencies lump sum appropriations, with program limits for guidance only.

The subcommittee decision came "as a big surprise . . . in the form of an assignment from a school teacher to do some homework" and as an attempt to "avoid a meeting," he said.

"We've not been treated exactly fairly," Mrs. Orme declared. She characterized the subcommittee assignments as "busywork."

On the final vote, Sens. Calvin Carsten of Avoca, Orval Keyes of Springfield, George Syas of Omaha and Jerome Warner of Waverly joined the five senators who signed the Savage motion in voting against the Simpson request.

Committee OKs 5 Appointments

The Legislature's Committee on Committees Tuesday unanimously voted to recommend that five appointments made last year by Gov. J. J. Exon be confirmed by the Legislature.

The appointments all were each confirmed on 9-0 votes. There was no opposition to any of the five at public hearings.

The five include John Baylor of Lincoln to the Court of Industrial Relations, F. Phillips Giltner and Mrs. Catherine Dahlquist, both of Omaha, to the Advisory Council for the Department of Economic Development; and Joseph Cascio of Omaha and Norman Magnusson of Bellevue, both to the Board of Public Roads Classifications and Standards.

Pre-Inventory Sale

Sunday is Inventory Day at Magee's. That's the day we have to count all the merchandise in the store. The less we have to count, the quicker we can get through. And the quicker we get through, the better. To achieve this goal, we're slashing prices again to entice bargain shoppers to buy and therefore to reduce our inventories before Inventory Day. Same sale rules are in effect: all sales final; no mail or phone orders; alterations extra; all items subject to prior sale.

Reform Proposal Won't Save Money

By BOB GUENTHER
Star Staff Writer

Lincoln Sen. Roland Luedtke told the Judiciary Committee Tuesday that his judicial reform bill will not save the state money but will bring better administration of justice.

In fact, the 121-page LB1032 would require $619,000 in annual general fund support, according to bill-drafter Jim Dunlevy.

Using Dunlevy's calculations, the consolidated court plan would generate some $1.3 million in revenue but the plan's cost is anticipated at $2 million.

Luedtke's plan would eliminate Justices of the Peace and Magistrate Court and would shrink the number of County Courts from 93 to 21 to coincide with the state's district court system.

Among the measure's other substantive changes are transferring the responsibility for paying the judges to the state and removing them from the ballot making them an appointed position. The bill will also require that the judges be lawyers. Dunlevy's figures revealed that currently two-thirds of the county judges are not lawyers. Whether this would mean replacing current non-lawyer judges is still a moot point.

Luedtke noted the measure "is not something which has come up over night. It goes back 4 years when the committee started studying it."

The committee took no action on the bill.

Opponents appeared before the committee protesting the bill as "too drastic" and undemocratic in its elimination of an elective office. Instead many offered numerous amendments and advocated a piecemeal approach.

Gary Anderson, Kearney County treasurer, admitted the bill "has some good things, such as improving the quality of the judges and instituting a small claims court." But, he said, the reform measure will have an adverse impact on small counties.

Noting that Lancaster and Douglas Counties would be the prime beneficiaries, Anderson said: "We're going to be paying for problems we don't even have.

"It's part of the trend toward more distant government when what we really should do is to come closer to the taxpayer," he said.

The ruralist point of view was also echoed by Duell County Attorney Bob Richard:

"Let's do something palatable for all Nebraskans — not just Douglas and Lancaster Counties. We are getting along quite well despite the Legislature and the study committee.

"What chance do you think a Duell County Republican would have of being appointed under a Democratic governor with this legislation?"

Arnold Ruhnke, executive director of the County Officials Association, said a survey he did disclosed that of the county officials who responded only 3 favored the bill while 43 said they were opposed.

The committee also took under advisement LB1301 which redistricts the state's district court system and adds six judges. The six would go to areas designated as trouble spots in terms of increasing work loads.

The areas which would get the extra judge would be Lincoln, Omaha, Fremont, Grand Island, North Platte and Scottsbluff.

Election Bill Amendment Is Rejected

The Legislature Tuesday refused to amend a pending election reform bill to provide that officeholders other than constitutional officers must resign their positions in order to run for another office.

The action was taken following an hour-long, oftentimes acrimonious debate when a motion by Omaha Sen. Richard Proud to begin the amendment process fell one vote short of success.

Proud had moved to return the bill, LB661, to select file for the adoption of his amendment but the motion, needing 25 votes, was favored only 24-20.

In offering his amendment, Proud had contended officeholders should not spend their time campaigning for another office.

However, the debate took a political turn when Proud, at the urging of two other senators, promised to alter his amendment to include Unicameral members.

That suggestion was made by Sens. Wayne Ziebarth of Wilcox and Terry Carpenter of Scottsbluff, who, along with Sen. John DeCamp of Neligh, are running for the Democratic nomination in a U.S. Senate race.

"I would be happy to resign and get on with the campaign," said Ziebarth, while Carpenter promised that should such an amendment pass, "that's the day I'll resign from this body."

Bill Dropping Parental Notification Advances

By United Press International

The Legislature's Health and Welfare Committee sent to the floor Tuesday a measure to drop the required parental notification when minors are treated for venereal disease or drug addiction or incapacitation.

In advancing LB1302, sponsored by Omaha Sen. David Stahmer, the committee decided to let the full Unicameral choose between it and Lincoln Sen. Wally Barnett's less comprehensive measure reported out of committee last week. That bill, LB1096, only concerns treatment of venereal disease without parental notification.

The committee also advanced a measure to provide relief for barbers who had to pay a double fee for their licenses last year because of a change in regulations.

Frank Lanning, president of the Board of Barber Examiners said his group approved of LB1183, but asked that the bill be made more inclusive by also considering fees paid by apprentices, barber colleges and instructors licenses, which were also affected by the change.

LB1220, a measure to permit the sale or transfer or ownership of home beauty shops to a licensed relative and to allow for one door to connect the operator's home and salon, was advanced to the floor on a unanimous vote. Present regulations prohibit transfer of ownership without a reapplication to the Board of Cosmetologist Examiners, and require the operator's home and salon have no connecting doorway.

The committee also took action on two bills held over from Monday's public hearings.

LB1304, which would allow one-year waivers of health or safety regulations in nursing homes, sailed to the floor on a 7-0 vote.

The second measure, however, allowing the Health Department to compile statistics to determine future hospital construction, failed to advance when committee members deadlocked 3-3 on a motion to kill the bill.

Controversial Health Ed Bill Held

By The Associated Press

The Legislature's Education Committee Tuesday decided to hold for further study a suddenly-controversial plan for a comprehensive health education program in Nebraska schools after a number of opponents warned it would open the door to "compulsory sex education."

The bill, LB1224, was introduced by an interim study committee on drug abuse and committee member Sen. John DeCamp of Neligh emphasized that the intent of the bill was health education, not sex education.

"But you can't teach a subject by ignoring an entire area," he said. "Venereal disease is on the rise, and gonorrhea and syphilis don't come from dunking apples."

Opponents to the bill generally challenged its "broad language" and noted suspiciously that much of its phrasing seemed drawn from literature backing sex education.

The committee also voted, 6-1, to hold a controversial bill heard Monday which would cut out student fees at the University of Nebraska and the four state colleges. Opponents of Kearney Sen. Gerald Stromer's LB1271 had charged that such a measure would create a financial crisis at the schools.

Advanced without dissent were LB1237, upgrading the University of Nebraska's present school of nursing to a college of nursing, and Omaha Sen. David Stahmer's LB741, which would broaden state aid to education provisions for children with learning disabilities.

The committee killed, 5-1, Lincoln Sen. Harold Simpson's LB1215, which would have provided for extra welfare support to families with junior high and high school children.

3 Proposed Amendments Set For Vote

The Legislature voted Tuesday to place another three constitutional amendments before Nebraska voters this year. Two of the three would go on the November general election ballot; the other, on the May primary ballot.

One of the amendments represents a resubmission of an amendment defeated by voters in 1970, designed to eliminate the technical requirement that each bill be read aloud in full before a final vote on it is taken in the Legislature. The proposition was rejected 222,788 to 170,873 in 1970.

The resubmitted amendment also contains a provision reducing from five days to three days the minimum length of special legislative sessions.

The bill placing the constitutional changes on the November ballot, LB141, was passed 34-13.

A 42-3 approving vote went to LB656, which submits to voters in May a constitutional amendment permitting federal educational grants to be channeled through the state for distribution to parochial as well as public schools. The constitutional ban against use of state and local tax money for the benefit of private or parochial schools would be retained.

The third constitutional amendment bill adopted Tuesday clarifies the right of felony defendants to appeal their cases to the Supreme Court.

Lincoln Students Do Well On Achievement Tests

By MILAN WALL
Star Staff Writer

Lincoln Public Schools' students generally score slightly higher than national averages on standardized achievement tests, the Lincoln Board of Education was told Tuesday.

At the same time, however, the board was told the most recent round of tests show Lincoln students are not scoring as high as their ability ratings indicate they might in English skills, reading and mathematics.

A report on the test scores was summarized for the board at a regular meeting by Ronald Brandt, associate superintendent for instruction, and Rudy Fredstrom, supervisor of guidance.

The reports include analysis of test scores on the Iowa Test of Basic Skills on grades five, six and seven and the Metropolitan test (used this year for the first time in Lincoln) for grades two, three and four.

Brandt told the board the tests show Lincoln students scored excellent ratings in study skills, such as map reading, graphs and tables and references.

Reading and math scores were "considerably higher than the national average," he said, "but not as much above (the national average) as the ability tests indicate they might be."

In English skills, said Brandt, the Lincoln students scored "about the same as the national average, although the scores on the ability test indicate we should have more students above average on the national norms."

Those skills, he said, include such things as spelling, punctuation and capitalization, and he added the scores may reflect the results of recent de-emphasis on basic skills in English courses.

Brandt said moves are already under way to change the approaches in those areas where the scores are not up to ability ratings.

He said, for example, that new math materials have been selected for grades one and two, and changes are expected in grades three through six within the next couple of years.

He also said a committee is now at work to select new reading materials, and he noted that a new textbook series to supplement the Nebraska Curriculum in English is being tried.

The result in English, he indicated, will be a new emphasis on the more basic skills, although the schools will not abandon the creative-learning aspects of the Nebraska Curriculum, either.

That is a direction that has the strong support of the school board and Supt. John Prasch. Several board members have been critical of the de-emphasis on English skills.

Fredstrom told the board a "baseline to measure all programs . . . (was) in mind for this round of tests."

In a discussion on the value of such tests, Prasch cautioned that an overemphasis on the capability of the tests will "destroy them" as valuable tools for measuring quality.

He noted that "one of the problems of educators is that we expect every kid to be above average," but he said the concept of average scores means half of the youngsters tested will always fall below "average."

Brandt also suggested the schools should be careful not to encourage teachers merely to raise test scores, since that might suggest they should teach only those skills that are tested.

He said the tests permit the schools to "see generally where the programs are weak and generally where they are strong."

Bryan School OK'd For Tech Classes

The Lincoln Board of Education Tuesday approved the use, beginning next fall, of the Bryan Elementary School building for all health-related programs of the Lincoln Technical College.

The change was approved without dissent after administrators assured the board that the building could handle the health programs for several years.

Board members Ed Copple and John Lux said such a change should be considered a "long-term" one that would not require another move within three to five years.

Supt. John Prasch said he believes the building will serve present programs well, and he added he believes it could be expanded to handle future growth if necessary.

Prasch said he estimated the costs for remodeling the building for next fall at $65,000, including air-conditioning and electrical work and a 300-car parking lot.

The school, located at 1701 So. 40th, currently houses the Lincoln district's only "abbreviated" elementary program — grades kindergarten through four — and has the smallest elementary enrollment. All other schools have students from kindergarten through sixth grades.

The change means those youngsters (136 this year) will be split next year among other nearby elementary schools (Randolph, Holmes and Sheridan), while health-related programs of the tech college will be consolidated in one building.

The health programs are currently scattered among three other buildings — Whittier Junior High, East High, and Lefler Junior High.

The move out of East and Lefler will free space in those buildings for the regular school programs.

Tech College Director James Lightbody said following the board's action that the change will provide the college with both "educational and economic advantages."

He said it will mean the college has the capability of "joint use of faculty and staff members" in one building, and he said he believes it will provide a "psychological advantage" for students who will be able to study and work in labs in a single facility.

The programs involved are practical nursing, dental assisting, operating room technician, mental health technician and nurse aide.

Lightbody said he hopes classes in all those programs can start in the Bryan building in the fall.

STORY AT RIGHT

GRIZZLY BEAR CUB . . . gets tender care at feeding time.

Doorly Zoo Optimistic About Cub

Omaha (AP) — Officials at Henry Doorly Zoo are optimistic about a one pound, eight ounce baby bear making it.

Right now, the grizzly bear cub is just a comfortable handful. But Zoo Director Lee Simmons noted the bear is really something of a heavyweight, since the last such baby born at the zoo weighed only eight ounces. The animal, born a week ago, has gained five ounces.

Dr. Simmons calls the first week of birth a milestone, as for the first four or five days, cubs are very vulnerable. To improve the cub's chances, it was taken from the mother and placed in the care of the staff of the zoo's clinic.

The male cub was injected with antibiotics for added protection.

Patrick Appointed To Ed Service Unit Post

Scottsbluff — Appointment of Vaughn Patrick to the position of contract procurement specialist for Educational Service Unit No. 13 was announced by Udell Hughes, service unit director. Hughes said Patrick will work with the State Office of Mental Retardation program at Scottsbluff in seeking out jobs and contracts that can be filled by the trainable mentally retarded, some of whom are being trained in the SOMR unit at Scottsbluff. Hughes said Patrick will contact manufacturers and processors and arrange for production that can be carried out in the adult development centers in the Panhandle area of the state.

$1.8 Million Bellevue Road Program OKd

Bellevue (AP) — A road program expected to cost $1.8 million was approved by the City Council. Officials said about $1,090,000 of the total cost would be paid by the city, with the remainder coming from state and federal funds.

Housing Survey Planned For Kimball

Kimball (AP) — A representative of the Boeing Co. is to conduct a housing survey in the Kimball area this week in preparation for the arrival of Boeing employes involved in a $145 million updating of Minuteman missile sites. The two-year project to replace Minuteman I missiles with Minuteman III missiles and to harden silos in southeastern Wyoming, northeastern Colorado and southwestern Nebraska is expected to begin July 1.

Sumner Fire Causes Under Investigation

Sumner (AP) — Dawson County Sheriff John Rohnert said he and a representative of the state fire marshal Tuesday investigated the cause of a fire which Monday destroyed the long-closed theater owned by Herbert Vermass in Sumner. The cause has not as yet been determined.

Valparaiso OKs Agreement With NPPD

Columbus (UPI) — Valparaiso has become the latest Nebraska community to approve an electrical distribution system lease agreement with the Nebraska Public Power District. Under the agreement, Valparaiso will own its system and NPPD will operate it, making the community annual lease payments totaling 10% of the adjusted gross revenue.

62 Housing Projects Seen For Third District

Washington (AP) — Rep. Dave Martin, R-Neb., reports that public housing units in Nebraska's Third Congressional District will surpass 2,000 in number when construction of projects recently given program reservations is completed. He said the total of 2,162 units will be located in 62 housing projects in 63 communities in the district.

Rev. Brandt Resigns Alliance Post

Alliance (AP) — The Rev. James H. Brandt has resigned as minister of the First Christian Church in Alliance to accept the post of assistant treasurer of the United Christian Missionary Society based in Indianapolis, Ind. He has been here since 1969 and has been president of the Alliance Ministerial Association, chairman of the local Salvation Army, a member of the board of the Panhandle Rehabilitation Center and a member of the Alliance Lions Club. He and his wife, an Alliance school teacher, are co-presidents of the Nebraska Christian Ministers and wives Fellowship.

Two Charged In Slaying Of Omaha Pair

Channing, Tex. (AP) — A couple from Michigan were arraigned here Tuesday before Justice of Peace Floyd Roberts and charged, each on two counts of murder, in connection with the slaying of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Holm of Omaha, whose bodies were found in a roadside park south of Dalhart Oct. 8.

Held in the Hartley County jail were Sandra Webber, 28, of Traverse City, Mich., and William Sharon, 31, of Kalkaska, Mich. Both were arrested in Michigan and brought to Texas.

A spokesman for the sheriff's department said three other people would be brought from Michigan in connection with the case. Two are being held in custody and one is on bond on burglary charges, he said.

Decrease In Dairy Cattle Is Slowed

By DOMINICK COSTELLO
Farm Editor

Better farm prices for milk has slowed the steady decrease in dairy cattle numbers in Nebraska and increased milk production nationally, according to T. A. Evans, NU Extension Economist.

"The producers have increased the supply of milk at a rate somewhat faster than the consumer is willing to consume it," Evans said.

"Consumption of milk is still rising due to the increase in population. However, there is a drop in per capita consumption and the government is buying more dairy products for its surplus programs," he said.

Evans speculated that eventually some sort of supply management control would be needed. "The United States Department of Agriculture (USDA) might be forced to shut off the increased supply by lowering the support price," he said.

To reverse the longtime trend in consumption decline of the majority of dairy foods, the dairy industry has taken action during the past year to increase the national push on dairy promotion. "We have got to reverse the downward trend in consumption of dairy products if we are to have a healthy and prosperous dairy industry," Evans said.

Evans said the outlook for the next year at least is for a continuation of a favorable price level for milk produced on the farm. "If dairymen can reverse the downward trend in consumption of dairy products the long term outlook for the dairy industry is also highly favorable," he said.

Evans held out the hope that cheese production would provide a market for increasing quantities of milk. American cheese production in Nebraska is up 20% this year, and while state figures for Italian types of cheese are not available, it is known to be increasing.

"The popularity of pizza has boomed the popularity of Italian-type cheese. The most popular types are mozzarella, parmesan, provolone, Romano, and Asiago," Evans said.

"Nebraska's dairy industry would appear to be on a more solid footing with this change to the production of both cheese and butter, rather than depending entirely on butter as a outlet for milk that cannot be used in the higher return fluid form," Evans said.

Dairymen attending the fieldman's conference in Lincoln were reminded that every livestock operation including dairy operations are faced with a deadline of Dec. 31, 1972, to comply with Nebraska's runoff control regulations.

"The first and most important step in controlling dairy waste successfully is to get competent assistance in the design of facilities," Dr. Phil Cole, NU extension dairyman said.

"A number of dairies because of their size or location will not need any runoff facilities but others may require elaborate facilities," Cole said.

Cole suggested a seven step procedure to dairymen beginning with a visit to their county extension office or Soil Conservation Service office to receive information on what they needed to do to comply with the regulations.

Every dairyman will have to comply with the law and cannot expect any extra time to complete his facility," Cole warned.

Illness Believed Linked To Sunday Night Banquet

Oamah (AP) — An estimated 40 to 50% of those who attended a Sunday night banquet honoring midget football players have been victims of an illness apparently caused by the food, the Omaha-Douglas County Health Department said Tuesday.

Justin Dierks, chief of the department food and drink program, said he knows of no one who has been hospitalized.

He said the department was surveying the estimated 750 persons, many of them members of the same families, who attended the Li'l Vikes Association banquet at Peony Park.

Charles Malec, Peony Park manager, said the catering service is cooperating with the department in its investigation and contacted health officials after the first complaints Monday morning.

He said food samples have been sent to the department to be analyzed and inspectors were asked to check out cooking procedures.

In addition, the Health Department was asked to instruct all catering department employes in proper food handling procedures, Malec said.

Dierks said most victims reported headaches, abdominal cramps and diarrhea. Most became ill Monday, with many of the children being sent home from school, he said.

He said investigators still are trying to determine the exact cause of the illness.

A spokesman for the L'il Vikes Association said the menu consisted of roast beef, mashed potatoes and gravy, tossed salad, corn, rolls, cherry pie, milk and coffee.

Omahan Killed In Maryland

Hagerstown, Md. (AP) — Randall L. Ceselski, 19, Omaha, Neb., was killed Tuesday when the car he was driving rammed the rear of a parked truck, Maryland State Police said.

Mr. Ceselski, lone occupant of the vehicle, was dead on arrival at Washington County Hospital of massive internal injuries, police said.

Mr. Ceselski apparently fell asleep at the wheel, police said.

Conservationists Open 4-Day Meet In Lincoln

The first statewide meeting of Soil Conservation Service (SCS) conservationists in six years has brought more than 1,800 years of environmental experience into one room in Lincoln, according to Keith Myers, state conservationist for the United States Department of Agriculture SCS office in Lincoln.

The four-day meeting will include several in-service training sessions covering everything from personnel management to livestock pollution.

"This is the third such meeting in the past 30 years. We are really covering everything in the book. The theme of the meeting is soil and water conservation for a better environment," Myers said.

The SCS men will hear from a representative of the state department of environmental control. "SCS plays a major role in the design of many of the livestock pollution abatement projects but we are short of men. We are going to have a problem getting everything completed by Dec. 31 of this year which is the current deadline, particularly for the farmers who presist in waiting until the last moment," Myers warned.

The conservationists will also hear from a panel on the new Natural Resource Districts and how they will affect the completion of programs of present resource districts.

A second panel will discuss the role of the Soil Conservation Service in rural development Friday morning. The panel will include Dr. Paul Gessaman, asst. Prof. of Agriculture Economics at NU, Stanley Matzke, director of the Nebraska Department of Economic Development and Donald Nelson, director of the State Office of Planning and Programming.

Woman, 57, Gets Kidney Transplant

Omaha (AP) — A 57-year-old Omaha woman was reported in satisfactory condition Tuesday afternoon following a kidney transplant at Clarkson Hospital made possible by the national kidney registry.

The transplanted organ came from 21-year-old Richard Zeigler of Omaha, a Creighton University student, who died in an Omaha hospital Monday night of injuries suffered in an automobile accident near Audubon, Iowa Saturday night.

The Omaha kidney recipient is Miss E. Mareen Pettit who had been receiving regular dialysis treatments at Clarkson Hospital since April, 1971.

Zeigler's other kidney was flown by the Air Force to the Boston area Tuesday afternoon for a second transplant operation.

This is the second such transplant performed at Clarkson Hospital this month, since Clarkson joined the nationwide cadaver exchange program.

This program allows doctors to match kidney tissue to increase the probability of success when transplant operations involve non-related donors and recipients.

A Clarkson Hospital spokesman said Edwin E. Klimper, 20, of Gibbon, who received a transplanted organ Jan. 20, was in satisfactory condition Tuesday.

Dr. Robert Haag Is Named St. Elizabeth Chief Of Staff

Dr. Robert L. Haag was named medical chief of staff for the St. Elizabeth Community Health Center at the staff's quarterly meeting Tuesday.

The 37-year-old Lincoln internist succeeds Dr. Lesley G. Tomhave who was chief of staff the past year.

In medical staff elections, Dr. John F. Porterfield was chosen vice chief of staff, and Dr. Harold E. Cahoy was named secretary-treasurer.

Dr. J. G. Rogers was named chairman of the department of obstetrics and gynecology. Dr. Charles G. Erickson was elected chairman of pediatrics and Dr. O. S. Trocster was re-elected chairman of the radiology department. Dr. E. D. Zeman was re-elected head of the pathology department.

Continuing as department chairman are Dr. Russell Brauer, anesthesiology; Dr. H. A. Dinsdale, eyes, ears, nose and throat specialist; Dr. William Dean, general practice; Dr. Roland R. F. Mueller, surgery; Dr. Paul Goetowski, orthopedics.

Dr. Haag has been in private practice in internal medicine in Lincoln since 1956. A Phi Beta Kappa undergraduate of the University of Nebraska, he received his doctorate from the university in 1959.

Meeting Slated

The grant review committee of the Nebraska Commission on Law Enforcement and Criminal Justice will meet at 9 a.m. Saturday in the lower level conference room of the Occidental Life Insurance Building, 1620 M.

Trans-Nebraska Can Continue At North Platte

North Platte (AP) — The North Platte Airport Authority Monday voted to cancel the lease and airport agreement with Trans-Nebraska Airlines of Alliance because of nonpayment of rent and landing fees, Chairman Rush Clarke said.

In Alliance Don Brown, Trans-Nebraska president, said:

"Trans - Nebraska Airlines desires to continue with good commuter service with North Platte with the full cooperation of the North Platte community. It is unfortunate that the payment for the current month's lease and landing fees did not arrive prior to the airport authority meeting Monday.

"Payment was in the mail and Trans-Nebraska Airlines had no knowledge of any problem until the North Platte authority announced their action. If there has been any misunderstanding in regard to the lease with the airport authority, it has been resolved."

Trans-Nebraska officials Monday sent a check for $122.59 to the authority and the funds were received Tuesday. The authority will vote Feb. 7 on reinstating the agreement with the airline, and the airline will be permitted to continue operating at the airport in the interim, officials said.

Clarke also reported the state will pay $11,280 of the approximate $28,200 cost of constructing additional parking space and other paving work at the airport.

Fair Managers Re-Elect Orville Koch President

The Nebraska Association of Fair Managers re-elected Orville Koch of Dunbar as president at the close of its annual two-day meeting Tuesday.

Also re-elected were Roy Moeller of Wisner as vice president and Al Bahe of Wayne as secretary-treasurer.

Ray Conrad of Osceola and Ellis Ruby of Lisco were elected to the board of directors, and W. L. Bostner of Beaver City was re-elected.

The attending delegates were told that Ak-Sar-Ben presented aid to every county fair either in improvement grants or 4-H and FFA premiums in 1971 for the 18th consecutive year, bringing the total to nearly $2.7 million.

Bob Volk of Ak-Sar-Ben said 85 counties took advantage of $79,300 in improvement and spruce-up grants while $24,046 in special premiums were provided.

In an earlier session, all officers of the executive board of the State Board of Agriculture were returned to office for another year in the organization's annual meeting in Lincoln.

Don Thompson of McCook continues as president; Dan Seibold of Papillion as first vice president, Don Clement of Kearney as second vice president and Wallace Thorson of Mead as secretary-treasurer.

William Denker of Lexington was elected to the 29-member board, the governing body of the Nebraska State Fair, replacing Monte Kiffin of Lexington, who is retiring.

Omaha Transit Won't Halt Operations

Omaha (UPI) — The Omaha Transit Co. will not seek immediate authority to halt operations April 1, its attorney said.

Instead, it will urge the State Railway Commission to reconsider its rejection of the firm's requested five-cent fare increase, attorney Robert Skochdopole said.

If the commission rejects the company's request for reconsideration, the company could appeal to the Supreme Court and probably will seek discontinuance of service, he said.

F. Schueller, Bee-Line Inc. Owner, Dies

Omaha (AP) — Funeral services will be Thursday for Firmin L. Schueller, owner of one of the largest Nebraska-based trucking lines.

The 48-year-old Omaha man, owner of Bee-Line Motor Freight, Inc., died in a hospital Monday after suffering a cerebral hemmorrhage.

A Carroll, Iowa, native who attended Creighton University, Mr. Schueller worked for Independent Truckers, Inc., and for Haeckl's Express, Inc., before buying with D. V. Clark, the Bee-Line firm in 1959.

Mr. Schueller, past president of the Nebraska Motor Carriers Association and active in other trucking groups, bought out Clark's interest last year.

Survivors include Schueller's widow, Velma; four daughters, Joan, Joyce and Jennifer, and Mrs. Fred Nesler, all of Omaha; parents, Mr. and Mrs. Leo Schueller of Carroll, Iowa, and two sisters, Mrs. James Benson, Flagstaff, Ariz., and Mrs. Leann Bauer, Omaha.

Services will be at 11 a.m. Thursday at Christ the King Catholic Church, with burial at Calvary Cemetery.

Lincoln Students Do Well On Achievement Tests

By MILAN WALL
Star Staff Writer

Lincoln Public Schools' students generally score slightly higher than national averages on standardized achievement tests, the Lincoln Board of Education was told Tuesday.

At the same time, however, the board was told the most recent round of tests show Lincoln students are not scoring as high as their ability ratings indicate they might in English skills, reading and mathematics.

A report on the test scores was summarized for the board at a regular meeting by Ronald Brandt, associate superintendent for instruction, and Rudy Fredstrom, supervisor of guidance.

The reports include analysis of test scores on the Iowa Test of Basic Skills on grades five, six and seven and the Metropolitan test (used this year for the first time in Lincoln) for grades two, three and four.

Brandt told the board the tests show Lincoln students scored excellent ratings in study skills, such as map reading, graphs and tables and references.

Reading and math scores were "considerably higher than the national average," he said, "but not as much above (the national average) as the ability tests indicate they might be."

In English skills, said Brandt, the Lincoln students scored "about the same as the national average, although the scores on the ability test indicate we should have more students above average on the national norms."

Those skills, he said, include such things as spelling, punctuation and capitalization, and he added the scores may reflect the results of recent de-emphasis on basic skills in English courses.

Brandt said moves are already under way to change the approaches in those areas where the scores are not up to ability ratings.

He said, for example, that new math materials have been selected for grades one and two, and changes are expected in grades three through six within the next couple of years.

He also said a committee is now at work to select new reading materials, and he noted that a new textbook series to supplement the Nebraska Curriculum in English is being tried.

The result in English, he indicated, will be a new emphasis on the more basic skills, although the schools will not abandon the creative-learning aspects of the Nebraska Curriculum, either.

That is a direction that has the strong support of the school board and Supt. John Prasch. Several board members have been critical of the de-emphasis on English skills.

Fredstrom told the board a "baseline to measure all programs . . . (was) in mind for this round of tests."

In a discussion on the value of such tests, Prasch cautioned that an overemphasis on the capability of the tests will "destroy them" as valuable tools for measuring quality.

He noted that "one of the problems of educators is that we expect every kid to be above average," but he said the concept of average scores means half of the youngsters tested will always fall below "average."

Brandt also suggested the schools should be careful not to encourage teachers merely to raise test scores, since that might suggest they should teach only those skills that are tested.

He said the tests permit the schools to "see generally where the programs are weak and generally where they are strong."

Bryan School OK'd For Tech Classes

The Lincoln Board of Education Tuesday approved the use, beginning next fall, of the Bryan Elementary School building for all health-related programs of the Lincoln Technical College.

The change was approved without dissent after administrators assured the board that the building could handle the health programs for several years.

Board members Ed Copple and John Lux said such a change should be considered a "long-term"one that would not require another move within three to five years.

Supt. John Prasch said he believes the building will serve present programs well, and he added he believes it could be expanded to handle future growth if necessary.

Prasch said he estimated the costs for remodeling the building for next fall at $65,000, including air-conditioning and electrical work and a 300-car parking lot.

The school, located at 1701 So. 40th, currently houses the Lincoln district's only "abbreviated" elementary program — grades kindergarten through four — and has the smallest elementary enrollment. All other schools have students from kindergarten through sixth grades.

The change means those youngsters (136 this year) will be split next year among other nearby elementary schools (Randolph, Holmes and Sheridan), while health-related programs of the tech college will be consolidated in one building.

The health programs are currently scattered among three other buildings — Whittier Junior High, East High, and Lefler Junior High.

The move out of East and Lefler will free space in those buildings for the regular school programs.

Tech College Director James Lightbody said following the board's action that the change will provide the college with both "educational and economic advantages."

He said it will mean the college has the capability of "joint use of faculty and staff members" in one building, and he said he believes it will provide a "psychological advantage" for students who will be able to study and work in labs in a single facility.

The programs involved are practical nursing, dental assisting, operating room technician, mental health technician and nurse aide.

Lightbody said he hopes classes in all those programs can start in the Bryan building in the fall.

Two Charged In Slaying Of Omaha Pair

Channing, Tex. (AP) — A couple from Michigan were arraigned here Tuesday before Justice of Peace Floyd Roberts and charged, each on two counts of murder, in connection with the slaying of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Holm of Omaha, whose bodies were found in a roadside park south of Dalhart Oct. 8.

Held in the Hartley County jail were Sandra Webber, 28, of Traverse City, Mich., and William Sharon, 31, of Kalkaska, Mich. Both were arrested in Michigan and brought to Texas.

A spokesman for the sheriff's department said three other people would be brought from Michigan in connection with the case. Two are being held in custody and one is on bond on burglary charges, he said.

GRIZZLY BEAR CUB . . . gets tender care at feeding time.

Doorly Zoo Optimistic About Cub

Omaha (AP) — Officials at Henry Doorly Zoo are optimistic about a one pound, eight ounce baby bear making it.

Right now, the grizzly bear cub is just a comfortable handful. But Zoo Director Lee Simmons noted the bear is really something of a heavyweight, since the last such baby born at the zoo weighed only eight ounces. The animal, born a week ago, has gained five ounces.

Dr. Simmons calls the first week of birth a milestone, as for the first four or five days, cubs are very vulnerable. To improve the cub's chances, it was taken from the mother and placed in the care of the staff of the zoo's clinic.

The male cub was injected with antibiotics for added protection.

Decrease In Dairy Cattle Is Slowed

By DOMINICK COSTELLO
Farm Editor

Better farm prices for milk has slowed the steady decrease in dairy cattle numbers in Nebraska and increased milk production nationally, according to T. A. Evans, NU Extension Economist.

"The producers have increased the supply of milk at a rate somewhat faster than the consumer is willing to consume it," Evans said.

"Consumption of milk is still rising due to the increase in population. However, there is a drop in per capita consumption and the government is buying more dairy products for its surplus programs," he said.

Evans speculated that eventually some sort of supply management control would be needed. "The United States Department of Agriculture (USDA) might be forced to shut off the increased supply by lowering the support price," he said.

To reverse the longtime trend in consumption decline of the majority of dairy foods, the dairy industry has taken action during the past year to increase the national push on dairy promotion. "We have got to reverse the downward trend in consumption of dairy products if we are to have a healthy and prosperous dairy industry," Evans said.

Evans said the outlook for the next year at least is for a continuation of a favorable price level for milk produced on the farm. "If dairymen can reverse the downward trend in consumption of dairy products the long term outlook for the dairy industry is also highly favorable," he said.

Evans held out the hope that cheese production would provide a market for increasing quantities of milk. American cheese production in Nebraska is up 20% this year, and while state figures for Italian types of cheese are not available, it is known to be increasing.

"The popularity of pizza has boomed the popularity of Italian-type cheese. The most popular types are mozzarella, parmesan, provolone, Romano and Asiago," Evans said.

"Nebraska's dairy industry would appear to be on a more solid footing with this change to the production of both cheese and butter, rather than depending entirely on butter as a outlet for milk that cannot be used in the higher return fluid form," Evans said.

Dairymen attending the fieldman's conference in Lincoln were reminded that every livestock operation including dairy operations are faced with a deadline of Dec. 31, 1972, to comply with Nebraska's runoff control regulations.

"The first and most important step in controlling dairy waste successfully is to get competent assistance in the design of facilities." Dr. Phil Cole, NU extension dairyman said.

"A number of dairies because of their size or location will not need any runoff facilities but others may require elaborate facilities," Cole said.

Cole suggested a seven step procedure to dairymen beginning with a visit to their county extension office or Soil Conservation Service office to receive information on what they needed to do to comply with the regulations.

Every dairyman will have to comply with the law and cannot expect any extra time to complete his facility," Cole warned.

Illness Believed Linked To Sunday Night Banquet

Oamah (AP) — An estimated 40 to 50% of those who attended a Sunday night banquet honoring midget football players have been victims of an illness apparently caused by the food, the Omaha-Douglas County Health Department said Tuesday.

Justin Dierks, chief of the department food and drink program, said he knows of no one who has been hospitalized.

He said the department was surveying the estimated 750 persons, many of them members of the same families, who attended the Li'l Vikes Association banquet at Peony Park.

Charles Malec, Peony Park manager, said the catering service is cooperating with the department in its investigation and contacted health officials after the first complaints Monday morning.

He said food samples have been sent to the department to be analyzed and inspectors were asked to check out cooking procedures.

In addition, the Health Department was asked to instruct all catering department employes in proper food handling procedures, Malec said.

Dierks said most victims reported headaches, abdominal cramps and diarrhea. Most became ill Monday, with many of the children being sent home from school, he said.

He said investigators still are trying to determine the exact cause of the illness.

A spokesman for the L'il Vikes Association said the menu consisted of roast beef, mashed potatoes and gravy, tossed salad, corn, rolls, cherry pie, milk and coffee.

Omahan Killed In Maryland

Hagerstown, Md. (AP) — Randall L. Ceselski, 19, Omaha, Neb., was killed Tuesday when the car he was driving rammed the rear of a parked truck, Maryland State Police said.

Mr. Ceselski, lone occupant of the vehicle, was dead on arrival at Washington County Hospital of massive internal injuries, police said.

Mr. Ceselski apparently fell asleep at the wheel, police said.

Woman, 57, Gets Kidney Transplant

Omaha (AP) — A 57-year-old Omaha woman was reported in satisfactory condition Tuesday afternoon following a kidney transplant at Clarkson Hospital made possible by the national kidney registry.

The transplanted organ came from 21-year-old Richard Zeigler of Omaha, a Creighton University student, who died in an Omaha hospital Monday night of injuries suffered in an automobile accident near Audubon, Iowa Saturday night.

The Omaha kidney recipient is Miss E. Mareen Pettit who had been receiving regular dialysis treatments at Clarkson Hospital since April, 1971.

Zeigler's other kidney was flown by the Air Force to the Boston area Tuesday afternoon for a second transplant operation.

This is the second such transplant performed at Clarkson Hospital this month, since Clarkson joined the nationwide cadaver exchange program.

This program allows doctors to match kidney tissue to increase the probability of success when transplant operations involve non-related donors and recipients.

A Clarkson Hospital spokesman said Edwin E. Klimper, 20, of Gibbon, who received a transplanted organ Jan. 20, was in satisfactory condition Tuesday.

Conservationists Open 4-Day Meet In Lincoln

The first statewide meeting of Soil Conservation Service (SCS) conservationists in six years has brought more than 1,800 years of environmental experience into one room in Lincoln, according to Keith Myers, state conservationist for the United States Department of Agriculture SCS office in Lincoln.

The four-day meeting will include several in-service training sessions covering everything from personnel management to livestock pollution.

"This is the third such meeting in the past 30 years. We are really covering everything in the book. The theme of the meeting is soil and water conservation for a better environment," Myers said.

The SCS men will hear from a representative of the state department of environmental control. "SCS plays a major role in the design of many of the livestock pollution abatment projects but we are short of men. We are going to have a problem getting everything completed by Dec. 31 of this year which is the current deadline, particularly for the farmers who presist in waiting until the last moment," Myers warned.

The conservationists will also hear from a panel on the new Natural Resource Districts and how they will affect the completion of programs of present resource districts.

A second panel will discuss the role of the Soil Conservation Service in rural development Friday morning. The panel will include Dr. Paul Gessaman, asst. Prof. of Agriculture Economics at NU, Stanley Matzke, director of the Nebraska Department of Economic Development and Donald Nelson, director of the State Office of Planning and Programming.

Dr. Robert Haag Is Named St. Elizabeth Chief Of Staff

Dr. Robert L. Haag was named medical chief of staff for the St. Elizabeth Community Health Center at the staff's quarterly meeting Tuesday.

The 37-year-old Lincoln internist succeeds Dr. Lesley G. Tomhave who was chief of staff the past year.

In medical staff elections, Dr. John F. Porterfield was chosen vice chief of staff, and Dr. Harold E. Cahoy was named secretary-treasurer.

Dr. J. G. Rogers was named chairman of the department of obstetrics and gynecology. Dr. Charles G. Erickson was elected chairman of pediatrics and Dr. O. S. Troester was re-elected chairman of the radiology department. Dr. E. D. Zeman was re-elected head of the pathology department.

Continuing as department chairman are Dr. Russell Brauer, anesthesiology; Dr. H. A. Dinsdale, eyes, ears, nose and throat specialist; Dr. William Dean, general practice; Dr. Roland R. F. Mueller, surgery; Dr. Paul Goetowski, orthopedics.

Dr. Haag has been in private practice in internal medicine in Lincoln since 1956. A Phi Beta Kappa undergraduate of the University of Nebraska, he received his doctorate from the university in 1959.

Meeting Slated

The grant review committee of the Nebraska Commission on Law Enforcement and Criminal Justice will meet at 9 a.m. Saturday in the lower level conference room of the Occidental Life Insurance Building, 1620 M.

Trans-Nebraska Can Continue At North Platte

North Platte (AP) — The North Platte Airport Authority Monday voted to cancel the lease and airport agreement with Trans-Nebraska Airlines of Alliance because of nonpayment of rent and landing fees, Chairman Rush Clarke said.

In Alliance Don Brown, Trans-Nebraska president, said:

"Trans - Nebraska Airlines desires to continue with good commuter service with North Platte with the full cooperation of the North Platte community. It is unfortunate that the payment for the current month's lease and landing fees did not arrive prior to the airport authority meeting Monday.

"Payment was in the mail and Trans-Nebraska Airlines had no knowledge of any problem until the North Platte authority announced their action. If there has been any misunderstanding in regard to the lease with the airport authority, it has been resolved."

Trans-Nebraska officials Monday sent a check for $122.59 to the authority and the funds were received Tuesday. The authority will vote Feb. 7 on reinstating the agreement with the airline, and the airline will be permitted to continue operating at the airport in the interim, officials said.

Clarke also reported the state will pay $11,280 of the approximate $28,200 cost of constructing additional parking space and other paving work at the airport.

Omaha Transit Won't Halt Operations

Omaha (UPI) — The Omaha Transit Co. will not seek immediate authority to halt operations April 1, its attorney said.

Instead, it will urge the State Railway Commission to reconsider its rejection of the firm's requested five-cent fare increase, attorney Robert Skochdopole said.

If the commission rejects the company's request for reconsideration, the company could appeal to the Supreme Court and probably will seek discontinuance of service, he said.

$5,859 Science Grant Goes To Concordia

Seward — Dr. W. Th. Janzow, president of Concordia Teachers College here, announced the institution is the recipient of a $5,859 institutional grant for science awarded by the National Science Foundation. Funds awarded to Concordia under this grant, as amended, now total $16,859.

Patrick Appointed To Ed Service Unit Post

Scottsbluff — Appointment of Vaughn Patrick to the position of contract procurement specialist for Educational Service Unit No. 13 was announced by Udell Hughes, service unit director. Hughes said Patrick will work with the State Office of Mental Retardation program at Scottsbluff in seeking out jobs and contracts that can be filled by the trainable mentally retarded, some of whom are being trained in the SOMR unit at Scottsbluff. Hughes said Patrick will contact manufacturers and processors and arrange for production that can be carried out in the adult development centers in the Panhandle area of the state.

$1.8 Million Bellevue Road Program OKd

Bellevue (AP) — A road program expected to cost $1.8 million was approved by the City Council. Officials said about $1,090,000 of the total cost would be paid by the city, with the remainder coming from state and federal funds.

Housing Survey Planned For Kimball

Kimball (AP) — A representative of the Boeing Co. is to conduct a housing survey in the Kimball area this week in preparation for the arrival of Boeing employes involved in a $145 million updating of Minuteman missile sites. The two-year project to replace Minuteman I missiles with Minuteman III missiles and to harden silos in southeastern Wyoming, northeastern Colorado and southwestern Nebraska is expected to begin July 1.

Sumner Fire Causes Under Investigation

Sumner (AP) — Dawson County Sheriff John Rohnert said he and a representative of the state fire marshal Tuesday investigated the cause of a fire which Monday destroyed the long-closed theater owned by Herbert Vermass in Sumner. The cause has not as yet been determined.

Sale Of Bulls Set For Alliance

Alliance (UPI) — A sale of bulls just off the range will be held under auspices of the Western Nebraska Hereford Association at the Alliance Livestock Auction Co. Feb. 21. Sale manager Jack Henderson announced that 45 bulls have been consigned and more are expected.

Valparaiso OKs Agreement With NPPD

Columbus (UPI) — Valparaiso has become the latest Nebraska community to approve an electrical distribution system lease agreement with the Nebraska Public Power District. Under the agreement, Valparaiso will own its system and NPPD will operate it, making the community annual lease payments totaling 10% of the adjusted gross revenue.

62 Housing Projects Seen For Third District

Washington (AP) — Rep. Dave Martin, R-Neb., reports that public housing units in Nebraska's Third Congressional District will surpass 2,000 in number when construction of projects recently given program reservations is completed. He said the total of 2,162 units will be located in 62 housing projects in 63 communities in the district.

Rev. Brandt Resigns Alliance Post

Alliance (AP) — The Rev. James H. Brandt has resigned as minister of the First Christian Church in Alliance to accept the post of assistant treasurer of the United Christian Missionary Society based in Indianapolis, Ind. He has been here since 1969 and has been president of the Alliance Ministerial Association, chairman of the local Salvation Army, a member of the board of the Panhandle Rehabilitation Center and a member of the Alliance Lions Club. He and his wife, an Alliance school teacher, are co-presidents of the Nebraska Christian Ministers and wives Fellowship.

Fair Managers Re-Elect Orville Koch President

The Nebraska Association of Fair Managers re-elected Orville Koch of Dunbar as president at the close of its annual two-day meeting Tuesday.

Also re-elected were Roy Moeller of Wisner as vice president and Al Bahe of Wayne as secretary-treasurer.

Ray Conrad of Osceola and Ellis Ruby of Lisco were elected to the board of directors, and W. L. Bostner of Beaver City was re-elected.

The attending delegates were told that Ak-Sar-Ben presented aid to every county fair either in improvement grants or 4-H and FFA premiums in 1971 for the 18th consecutive year, bringing the total to nearly $2.7 million.

Bob Volk of Ak-Sar-Ben said 85 counties took advantage of $79,300 in improvement and spruce-up grants while $24,046 in special premiums were provided.

In an earlier session, all officers of the executive board of the State Board of Agriculture were returned to office for another year in the organization's annual meeting in Lincoln.

Don Thompson of McCook continues as president; Dan Seibold of Papillion as first vice president, Don Clement of Kearney as second vice president and Wallace Thorson of Mead as secretary-treasurer.

William Denker of Lexington was elected to the 29-member board, the governing body of the Nebraska State Fair, replacing Monte Kiffin of Lexington, who is retiring.

F. Schueller, Bee-Line Inc. Owner, Dies

Omaha (AP) — Funeral services will be Thursday for Firmin L. Schueller, owner of one of the largest Nebraska-based trucking lines.

The 48-year-old Omaha man, owner of Bee-Line Motor Freight, Inc., died in a hospital Monday after suffering a cerebral hemmorrhage.

A Carroll, Iowa, native who attended Creighton University, Mr. Schueller worked for Independent Truckers, Inc., and for Haeckl's Express, Inc., before buying with D. V. Clark, the Bee-Line firm in 1959.

Mr. Schueller, past president of the Nebraska Motor Carriers Association and active in other trucking groups, bought out Clark's interest last year.

Survivors include Schueller's widow, Velma; four daughters, Joan, Joyce and Jennifer, and Mrs. Fred Nesler, all of Omaha; parents, Mr. and Mrs. Leo Schueller of Carroll, Iowa, and two sisters, Mrs. James Benson, Flagstaff, Ariz., and Mrs. Leann Bauer, Omaha.

Services will be at 11 a.m. Thursday at Christ the King Catholic Church, with burial at Calvary Cemetery.

5 Groups Ask Report Be Released

Spokesmen for five Lincoln organizations Tuesday issued public pleas for Mayor Sam Schwartzkopf to release the Human Rights Commission report on the Cleveland Randolph case.

Randolph charged in October that he was beaten by police following his arrest on warrants for two bicycle violations.

"We strongly urge the mayor to release the report in toto immediately," Earl Barnawell said at a press conference called by his group. "Suspicions feed on a lack of accurate information."

"We recognize that both the arrested person and the police are human beings with human reactions to stress," Barnawell said. "We expect the report will show human reactions which may not be complimentary to either party."

Lenore Letcher, president of the Lincoln chapter of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People said it had taken the Human Rights Commission four weeks to compile the report.

With community feeling the way it is I don't think it's wise to sit on it any longer," she said.

Nick Meinhardt, of Nebraskans for Peace, said the report should be released immediately whether it had good or bad implications.

Meinhardt said the mayor was sitting on his dignity and added, "He should begin to listen."

A spoktsman for the Lincoln Society of Friends (Quakers) said, "Release of this report is unlikely to cause as much difficulty as continued ignorance, with its associated doubts regarding police activities."

"Fairness and justice cannot prevail in such an atmosphere," the spokesman said.

Sharon Crosby of the Lancaster County Welfare Rights Committee said. "Whatever it (the report) shows it will set the community at ease that it is nothing so dreadful that the community cannot know about it."

Barnawell said his group called the press conference as a "means to state the will of the people," rather than as a pressure move.

According to membership totals given by representatives at the press conference the groups represent about 600 people.

Barnawell said that if the mayor did not release the report, the organizations would "seek for still wider ways to illustrate the will of the community."

L. Cooper Suspended From Post

Louis Cooper, Human Rights Coordinator for the Lincoln Action Program (LAP), has been suspended with pay from his position, effective Tuesday.

At a special meeting Monday night the LAP Board of Directors agreed to suspend Cooper pending the outcome of his district court trial on a felony charge.

According to LAP information officer Susan Bauer the suspension was necessary due to Cooper's "sensitive position" as Human Rights Coordinator.

She added, "The board was operating under the philosophy that a person is innocent until proven guilty — thus, Cooper is suspended with pay until a decision into the charges is determined."

Cooper, 24, was arraigned in Lancaster County District Court Monday on two felony counts in connection with the alleged sale of narcotics. He was arrested at his home Friday night.

Earlier on Friday Cooper held a press conference in which he charged city government with whitewashing the Human Rights Commission report into alleged police brutality. He said he had been assured a federal investigation into Lincoln's civil rights relations.

Mrs Bauer added that in accordance with Office of Economic Opportunity (OEO) guidelines that Cooper is eligible to receive pay for 50% of his time with LAP. He began work Nov. 1st.

The Equal Opportunity Committee of LAP appointed Mrs. Bauer as acting Human Rights Coordinator. Currently she is public information officer and is past chairman of the Equal Opportunity Committee.

Mrs. Bauer noted that the committee has urged Mavor Sam Schwartzkopf and the City Council to release the Human Rights Commission report as soon as possible.

Nixon Budget Will Assist Papio Project

Omaha (UPI) — A Papio Watershed Association official said Tuesday Nixon administration backing of the Papillion Creek and tributaries construction project greatly enhances the chances of completing flood protection in the Omaha area.

Merlon England, general manager of the association, said the $4 million allocation in the president's budget message was the first time any administration has included a specific budgetary request for the Papio Watershed Project.

The project, which includes the Little and Big Papillion Creeks, has a price tag of $58 million. So far, including the Nixon budget allotment, England said the total funds stipulated for the project are $7.9 million.

"Most of this has gone for planning and acquisition," he said.

The project is designed to bring flood protection to the greater Omaha area, while at the same time, providing recreation lakes. An estimated 20 dams and levees are involved in the program.

Trailer Home Blaze Claims Family Cat As Only Victim

A white cat perished in a trailer home fire at the Shamrock Trailer Court at 2545 Theresa, according to fire officials.

No one was in the trailer home, owned by Mrs. Joan Panagiotis, except the family cat, according to District Fire Chief Curtis Kadlick.

Cause of the fire, which apparently broke out in the utility room, was not immediately determined by fire officials.

Firemen quickly extinguished the blaze after being summoned by the occupant of a neighboring trailer, but one end of the trailer sustained considerable smoke and fire damage, according to Kadlick.

Controversy On Campuses Will Be Topic Of Meeting

"War Between the Campuses —Fact or Myth" will be discussed by two members of the University of Nebraska Board of Regents at a meeting of the Nebraska Campus Chapter of Sigma Delta Chi Wednesday night.

The Regents — Ed Schwartzkopf of Lincoln and Kermit Hansen of Omaha — will speak and answer questions at the meeting, slated for 8 p.m. in the Nebraska Union.

There has occasionally been controversy on the Board of Regents over the merger authorized by an act of the Legislature several years ago.

Sigma Delta Chi is a national society of journalists. The Nebraska Campus Chapter, composed of sophomore, junior and senior men and women in journalism at the University of Nebraska Lincoln, has about 85 members.

300 Will Attend Model UN Meet On City Campus

More than 300 American and foreign students from several midwestern schools representing about 70 countries will attend the fifth annual session of the University of Nebraska Model United Nations Jan. 27-29.

Delegates will learn more about NU activities and attempt to gain an understanding of problems involved in international relations by discussing world issues such as the Middle East, international monetary reform and drug control, university spokesmen said

An evening of international entertainment, including American rock music, will wrap up the activities Saturday.

The model UN is sponsored by the University's Nebraska Student Union Program Office.

Earnings Rise, Sales Dip Told By U.S. Steel

New York (AP) — United States Steel Corp. reported Tuesday that earnings for the quarter ended Dec. 31, totaled $46.6 million or 85 cents a share, up from $39.0 million or 72 cents a share in 1970.

Sales for the quarter fell, however, to $1.084 billion from $1 143 billion the previous year.

For the year, total income climbed to $154.5 million or $2.85 a share, from $147.5 million or $2.72 a share in 1970. Sales for 1971 totalled $4.963 billion, up from 1970's $4.883 billion.

The nation's largest steelmaker said financial results during the second half of 1971 were unsatisfactory, due to a low volume of business and expenses of shutting down operations as a result of labor negotiations. It also cited the 44-day coal strike in the fourth quarter as another earnings depressant.

Ralston Purina Executive Quits

St. Louis, Mo. (AP) — Donald Danforth Jr., executive vice president and a director of Ralston Purina Co., announced Tuesday that he was resigning as an officer of the company to explore other business ventures.

Danforth, grandson of the Ralston Purina founder, said his resignation was effective April 15. He will remain as a member of the company's board of directors.

Danforth, had been president of the company's Agricultural Products Group and headed a group which tried unsuccessfully to buy the egg and broiler business being sold by Ralston Purina.

State 35th In Population

Washington (UPI) — A final U.S. census report indicates there was an 11% decrease in the population of rural areas of Nebraska between 1960 and 1970, while at the same time the population of urban areas was hiked 19%.

The state had 1,483,791 residents, or .7% of the total U.S. population and ranking Nebraska 35th among the states in that respect.

There was a 5% population increase in Nebraska during the decade, compared with a 13.3% rise in the national figure.

By congressional districts the 1970 population compared with that of 1960 showed: First District, up 1.1%; Second, up 19%; and Third, down 2.4%.

Omaha, the state's largest city, showed a metropolitan population of 346,629 in 1970. Total for Douglas County was 389,455, up 13.4% over the decade.

Omaha was ranked the 41st largest city in the country, while Lincoln was 91st, with a population of 154,250.

Felony Charges Lodged Against Richard Cornett

A 31-year-old Lincoln man was charged Tuesday with two felony offenses in connection with an alleged stabbing of a Lincoln woman and beating of her 20-month-old son.

Richard Edward Cornett of 2250 So. 9th, was specifically charged with stabbing with intent to kill, wound or maim in connection with the alleged stabbing of Violet Weems and with assault with intent to inflict great bodily injury in connection with the alleged beating of the child.

Judge Ralph Slocum set preliminary hearing Feb. 10 and bond was set at $5,000.

Mrs. Weems, 26, was treated for bruises, abrasions, and multiple cuts, while the child was treated for bruises and abrasions. Both were released, according to reports.

Puerto Rico Given Peking's 'Firm Support'

Tokyo (AP) — A ranking Chinese official was reported Wednesday to have expressed Peking's "firm support" for "the Puerto Rican people against the U.S. imperialist colonial rule and for national independence and liberation."

Wang Kuo-chuan, a leading member of the Chinese People's Association for Friendship with Foreign Countries, said the Puerto Rican people "will win final victory ... provided they unite themselves and unit with the other Latin-American people and the people of the world."

Peking's New China News Agency said Wang's remarks were in reply to a report made at a rally Tuesday in Peking by Juan Mari Bras, general secretary of Puerto Rico's Socialist party, who led a Socialist delegation to Peking.

Longshormen, Shippers Agree To Resume Talks

San Francisco (UPI) — Striking longshoremen and West Coast shippers agreed Tuesday to resume negotiations next week in the 108-day walkout.

Federal mediator Edwin W. Scott announced that the International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Union (ILWU) and Pacific Maritime Association (PMA) would meet Monday at PMA headquarters in San Francisco.

"The two parties set up the talks themselves without our help," Scott added.

5 Groups Ask Report Be Released

Spokesmen for five Lincoln organizations Tuesday issued public pleas for Mayor Sam Schwartzkopf to release the Human Rights Commission report on the Cleveland Randolph case.

Randolph charged in October that he was beaten by police following his arrest on warrants for two bicycle violations.

"We strongly urge the mayor to release the report in toto immediately," Earl Barnawell said at a press conference called by his group. "Suspicions feed on a lack of accurate information."

"We recognize that both the arrested person and the police are human beings with human reactions to stress," Barnawell said. "We expect the report will show human reactions which may not be complimentary to either party."

Lenore Letcher, president of the Lincoln chapter of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People said it had taken the Human Rights Commission four weeks to compile the report.

With community feeling the way it is I don't think it's wise to sit on it any longer," she said.

Nick Meinhardt, of Nebraskans for Peace, said the report should be released immediately whether it had good or bad implications.

Meinhardt said the mayor was sitting on his dignity and added, "He should begin to listen."

A spoktsman for the Lincoln Society of Friends (Quakers) said, "Release of this report is unlikely to cause as much difficulty as continued ignorance, with its associated doubts regarding police activities."

"Fairness and justice cannot prevail in such an atmosphere," the spokesman said.

Sharon Crosby of the Lancaster County Welfare Rights Committee said. "Whatever it (the report) shows it will set the community at ease that it is nothing so dreadful that the community cannot know about it."

Barnawell said his group called the press conference as a "means to state the will of the people," rather than as a pressure move.

According to membership totals given by representatives at the press conference the groups represent about 600 people.

Barnawell said that if the mayor did not release the report, the organizations would "seek for still wider ways to illustrate the will of the community."

L. Cooper Suspended From Post

Louis Cooper, Human Rights Coordinator for the Lincoln Action Program (LAP), has been suspended with pay from his position, effective Tuesday.

At a special meeting Monday night the LAP Board of Directors agreed to suspend Cooper pending the outcome of his district court trial on a felony charge.

According to LAP information officer Susan Bauer the suspension was necessary due to Cooper's "sensitive position" as Human Rights Coordinator.

She added, "The board was operating under the philosophy that a person is innocent until proven guilty — thus, Cooper is suspended with pay until a decision into the charges is determined."

Cooper, 24, was arraigned in Lancaster County District Court Monday on two felony counts in connection with the alleged sale of narcotics. He was arrested at his home Friday night.

Earlier on Friday Cooper held a press conference in which he charged city government with whitewashing the Human Rights Commission report into alleged police brutality. He said he had been assured a federal investigation into Lincoln's civil rights relations.

Mrs. Bauer added that in accordance with Office of Economic Opportunity (OEO) guidelines that Cooper is eligible to receive pay for 50% of his time with LAP. He began work Nov. 1st.

The Equal Opportunity Committee of LAP appointed Mrs. Bauer as acting Human Rights Coordinator. Currently she is public information officer and is past chairman of the Equal Opportunity Committee.

Mrs. Bauer noted that the committee has urged Mayor Sam Schwartzkopf and the City Council to release the Human Rights Commission report as soon as possible.

Nixon Budget Will Assist Papio Project

Omaha (UPI) — A Papio Watershed Association official said Tuesday Nixon administration backing of the Papillion Creek and tributaries construction project greatly enhances the chances of completing flood protection in the Omaha area.

Merlon England, general manager of the association, said the $4 million allocation in the president's budget message was the first time any administration has included a specific budgetary request for the Papio Watershed Project.

The project, which includes the Little and Big Papillion Creeks, has a price tag of $58 million. So far, including the Nixon budget allotment, England said the total funds stipulated for the project are $7.9 million.

"Most of this has gone for planning and acquisition," he said.

The project is designed to bring flood protection to the greater Omaha area, while at the same time, providing recreation lakes. An estimated 20 dams and levees are involved in the program.

Trailer Home Blaze Claims Family Cat As Only Victim

A white cat perished in a trailer home fire at the Shamrock Trailer Court at 2545 Theresa, according to fire officials.

No one was in the trailer home, owned by Mrs. Joan Panagiotis, except the family cat, according to District Fire Chief Curtis Kadlick.

Cause of the fire, which apparently broke out in the utility room, was not immediately determined by fire officials.

Firemen quickly extinguished the blaze after being summoned by the occupant of a neighboring trailer, but one end of the trailer sustained considerable smoke and fire damage, according to Kadlick.

Controversy On Campuses Will Be Topic Of Meeting

"War Between the Campuses —Fact or Myth" will be discussed by two members of the University of Nebraska Board of Regents at a meeting of the Nebraska Campus Chapter of Sigma Delta Chi Wednesday night.

The Regents — Ed Schwartzkopf of Lincoln and Kermit Hansen of Omaha — will speak and answer questions at the meeting, slated for 8 p.m. in the Nebraska Union.

There has occasionally been controversy on the Board of Regents over the merger authorized by an act of the Legislature several years ago.

Sigma Delta Chi is a national society of journalists. The Nebraska Campus Chapter, composed of sophomore, junior and senior men and women in journalism at the University of Nebraska Lincoln, has about 85 members.

300 Will Attend Model UN Meet On City Campus

More than 300 American and foreign students from several midwestern schools representing about 70 countries will attend the fifth annual session of the University of Nebraska Model United Nations Jan. 27-29.

Delegates will learn more about NU activities and attempt to gain an understanding of problems involved in international relations by discussing world issues such as the Middle East, international monetary reform and drug control, university spokesmen said.

An evening of international entertainment, including American rock music, will wrap up the activities Saturday.

The model UN is sponsored by the University's Nebraska Student Union Program Office.

Earnings Rise, Sales Dip Told By U.S. Steel

New York (AP) — United States Steel Corp. reported Tuesday that earnings for the quarter ended Dec. 31, totaled $46.6 million or 85 cents a share, up from $39.0 million or 72 cents a share in 1970.

Sales for the quarter fell, however, to $1.084 billion from $1.143 billion the previous year.

For the year, total income climbed to $154.5 million or $2.85 a share, from $147.5 million or $2.72 a share in 1970. Sales for 1971 totalled $4.963 billion, up from 1970's $4.883 billion.

The nation's largest steelmaker said financial results during the second half of 1971 were unsatisfactory, due to a low volume of business and expenses of shutting down operations as a result of labor negotiations. It also cited the 44-day coal strike in the fourth quarter as another earnings depressant.

Ralston Purina Executive Quits

St. Louis, Mo. (AP) — Donald Danforth Jr., executive vice president and a director of Ralston Purina Co., announced Tuesday that he was resigning as an officer of the company to explore other business ventures.

Danforth, grandson of the Ralston Purina founder, said his resignation was effective April 15. He will remain as a member of the company's board of directors.

Danforth, had been president of the company's Agricultural Products Group and headed a group which tried unsuccessfully to buy the egg and broiler business being sold by Ralston Purina.

State 35th In Population

Washington (UPI) — A final U.S. census report indicates there was an 11% decrease in the population of rural areas of Nebraska between 1960 and 1970, while at the same time the population of urban areas was hiked 19%.

The state had 1,483,791 residents, or .7% of the total U.S. population and ranking Nebraska 35th among the states in that respect.

There was a 5% population increase in Nebraska during the decade, compared with a 13.3% rise in the national figure.

By congressional districts the 1970 population compared with that of 1960 showed: First District, up 1.1%; Second, up 19%; and Third, down 2.4%.

Omaha, the state's largest city, showed a metropolitan population of 346,629 in 1970. Total for Douglas County was 389,455, up 13.4% over the decade.

Omaha was ranked the 41st largest city in the country, while Lincoln was 91st, with a population of 154,250.

Felony Charges Lodged Against Richard Cornett

A 31-year-old Lincoln man was charged Tuesday with two felony offenses in connection with an alleged stabbing of a Lincoln woman and beating of her 20-month-old son.

Richard Edward Cornett of 2250 So. 9th, was specifically charged with stabbing with intent to kill, wound or maim in connection with the alleged stabbing of Violet Weems and with assault with intent to inflict great bodily injury in connection with the alleged beating of the child.

Judge Ralph Slocum set preliminary hearing Feb. 10 and bond was set at $5,000.

Mrs. Weems, 26, was treated for bruises, abrasions, and multiple cuts, while the child was treated for bruises and abrasions. Both were released, according to reports.

Puerto Rico Given Peking's 'Firm Support'

Tokyo (AP) — A ranking Chinese official was reported Wednesday to have expressed Peking's "firm support" for "the Puerto Rican people against the U.S. imperialist colonial rule and for national independence and liberation."

Wang Kuo-chuan, a leading member of the Chinese People's Association for Friendship with Foreign Countries, said the Puerto Rican people "will win final victory ... provided they unite themselves and unit with the other Latin-American people and the people of the world."

Peking's New China News Agency said Wang's remarks were in reply to a report made at a rally Tuesday in Peking by Juan Mari Bras, general secretary of Puerto Rico's Socialist party, who led a Socialist delegation to Peking.

Longshormen, Shippers Agree To Resume Talks

San Francisco (UPI) — Striking longshoremen and West Coast shippers agreed Tuesday to resume negotiations next week in the 108-day walkout.

Federal mediator Edwin W. Scott announced that the International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Union (ILWU) and Pacific Maritime Association (PMA) would meet Monday at PMA headquarters in San Francisco.

"The two parties set up the talks themselves without our held," Scott added.

Views On Nixon's Offer Mixed

Washington (AP) — Accenting mixed but mostly favorable congressional views of President Nixon's peace plans, the chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee said Tuesday night he understands the offer also includes a halt to all U.S. bombing.

Sen. John Stennis, D-Miss., who said he approves the offer as "both reasonable and honorable," was countered by some longtime critics of the war including Sen. George McGovern, D-S.D., a Democratic presidential contender, who said he does not think the new Nixon formula will work.

Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., another of the large field of Democratic seekers of their party's presidential nomination, said the President's course of negotiation and action is "close to what I've been emphasizing."

"By making his proposals public the President has laid a useful foundation for his visit to China," Jackson said. "I hope he will make every effort to get Peking to use its good offices in getting the release of our prisoners and a standstill cease-fire."

McGovern recommended that a Senate panel of four Republicans and four Democrats be set up "to find a way to end this miserable war we shouldn't have gotten into in the first place."

Many long-time congressional critics of Vietnam war policy maintained silence — at least temporarily. But some expressed caution or out-and-out disapproval.

Sen Jacob Javits, R-N.Y., said he believes the President's action in making his secret proposals public "indicates there is little hope for near-term acceptance."

If that is true, Javits said, the only real question is the national interest of the United States and that, he said, "still requires complete U.S. withdrawal."

Sen. Robert Packwood, R-Ore., said that while he doesn't disbelieve the President's outline of secret negotiations he does not think the offer would satisfy the South Vietnamese.

Sen. J. W Fulbright, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, said the proposal appears "fair to Western eyes," but probably seems unfair to the North Vietnamese.

"I think there is very little hope of it being accepted," he said "I believe I would go further than the President I think we're going to have to do more to mabe the North Vietnamese respond"

Fulbright continued. "For us to get out and leave Mr Thieu to his own devices is what I think is a minimum" He said Nixon's proposal "is not quite that," despite Thieu's pledge to resign a month before new presidential elections, as Nixon related

From another side, the President was scolded by feminist Rep Bella Abzug, D-N Y, for conducting negotiations in secret. She said the credibility of the statement was strained by being coupled with a joint announcement by the Thieu regime

Rep Paul N McCloskey, R-Calif, an antiwar Republican opposing Nixon in presidential primaries, said the proposal appears to be more for domestic consumption than for the Paris bargaining table

Thieu Willing To Resign

Saigon (AP) — President Nguyen Van Thieu said Wednesday he agreed to the secret allied peace proposal that calls for his resignation and a major concession—new elections with Communist participation

Thieu proposed internationally supervised elections in 1969 with Communist participation, but he has always insisted in the past that the Communists should lay down their arms and renounce violent revolution before such elections

Allowing Communist candidates in new elections was seen as a concession.

While Thieu did not refer to the demand for the Communists to renounce violence in his broadcast speech to the nation Wednesday, some observers felt this was implicit in the provision for international supervision

His expressed willingness to permit the National Liberation Front — or Viet Cong — to take part in a new election was tantamount to acceptance of a coalition government including them

"All of the political parties in South Vietnam, including the so-called National Liberation Front, can participate in the election and present candidates," Thieu said.

Although the election plan calls for the president and his vice president, Tran Van Huong, to resign a month before the vote, Thieu did not rule himself out as a candidate.

His removal from office has been a major Communist demand in the Paris peace talks

Thieu spoke minutes after President Nixon completed his own detailed report on the eight-point plan Nixon said had been offered in secret to the North Vietnamese and thus far rejected.

Damage To Fuel Tank May Mean Another Month Delay For Apollo 16

Cape Kennedy (UPI) — A fuel tank in the Apollo 16 command ship was damaged by a launch pad testing failure Tuesday, threatening another month's delay in the start of the nation's next-to-last moon expedition

The entire rocket and spacecraft will be moved 3½ miles back to its assembly building and then the command module will be taken apart for repairs

It will mark the first time an Apollo has been removed from the launch pad during preparations for a manned space mission

A spokesman said it was possible the problem could cause another delay in the launch of the nation's next-to-last moon landing mission, now scheduled for April 16

"NASA is assessing the impact of the problem on the April 16 launch date the agency said in a statement "This assessment is expected to be completed in one to two days"

Apollo 16 astronauts John W Young, Thomas K Mattingly and Charles M Duke were originally scheduled for launch March 17 The launch then was delayed one month because of a spacecraft separation system problem, troubles with spacecraft batteries and a spacesuit

The 363-foot rocket-spacecraft combination will be moved from its oceanside launch pad to the rocket assembly building Thursday Then the command module will be removed and taken to the spacecraft operations building

There engineers will remove the ship's heat shield to gain access to the command module's control jet system One of two propellant tanks must be replaced

The spacecraft then must be reassembled and put through additional time-consuming tests.

An agency spokesman said the leak occurred when the command module's control jet system was being put through a routine pressure test

A plastic bladder normally fuelled with propellant was pressurized with helium The bladder is inside a titanium tank which also was pressurized with helium At that point, a leak developed in the ground equipment feeding helium to the tank and the tank pressure dropped

With the pressure resistance gone the bladder ruptured like a popped balloon

22 Sought In $150 Million Mail Fraud

Miami, Fla. (AP) — Authorities were rounding up 22 persons in seven states Tuesday after indictments by a federal grand jury in what the government says was a $150 million mail fraud conspiracy.

"This is one of the largest mail fraud conspiracy cases in history and perhaps the largest," said Asst. U.S. Atty. Arthur Tifford of Miami.

Tifford and Asst. U.S. Atty. Richard Kirschner of Los Angeles said losses totaling about $150 million were suffered by hundreds of corporations and individuals. They said the scheme involved payments of advance fees for obtaining permanent loan commitments for business purposes even though no loans were later provided.

In addition to individuals, the Trans-Continental Casualty Insurance Company Ltd., was named a defendant. The government claims TCI is a "shell" company without assets whose address is a post office box in Nassau and whose name is listed on a shingle on a garage attached to a home in Nassau.

Postal Inspector John Davis of the Miami office and John Brady, assistant inspector in charge of the Atlanta regional office, testified before the grand jury last Thursday and Friday, and in a session Monday lasting until 5 p.m.

Premium Required

Tifford and Kirschner quoted the indictment as saying the defendants participated in a scheme under which individuals or companies seeking business loans were assured they could get commitments from TCI upon payment of a premium 4 to 10 "points" of interest to TCI in advance

The indictment said the scheme had been going on since September 1968. The investigation began after persons all over the country began complaining, Tifford said.

Tifford and Kirschner said advertisements offering permanent and interim loans would be sent through the mails to victims by a broker.

After various meetings with a broker, the government attorneys said, the prospective borrower would be required to deposit "point money" and would receive a worthless loan commitment and a spurious financial statement.

The borrower could theoretically take this loan commitment to a bank or other lending institution and use it to obtain iterim financing.

In one case, Tifford said, a building company paid $160,000 for eight "points" as a prepayment on a $2 million permanent loan commitment.

Tifford said the duped companies were facing a tight money market when they went to TCI for loan backing. He said the firms apparently had sought and had been refused loans by their local lending houses but felt the loans would be approved with a TCI commitment.

However, the lending houses investigating the backing discovered that "the commitment was worthless, or the company issuing it was worthless," Tifford said, and consequently no loans were made. These discoveries are what prompted the investigation.

Eleven of those indicted were residents of Fort Lauderdale, Fla. Authorities said the other defendants were from St. Louis, Mo.; New York; Alabama; Los Angeles; Atlanta, Ga., and Albuquerque, N.M.

After Hiding 28 Years, He'd Like To Meditate

Shoichi Yokoi

He Hid Out 28 Years

Agana, Guam (UPI) — A Japanese army sergeant who hid in the jungles of Guam for 28 years said Tuesday that after he returned home he would like to "go up on a mountain and meditate."

Shoichi Yokoi, 56, was incredulous at the new world of jet planes and color television which he discovered after he was apprehended by two hunters Monday night. Yokoi had lived in a cave for 28 years knowing the war was over, but fearing execution if he gave himself up.

Although officials said Yokoi could immigrate to the United States, the former soldier said he wanted to return to Japan where he has relatives in Nagoya.

'Meditate'

"I'd like to be reunited with my family and then go up on a mountain and meditate for a long time," the thickly bearded Yokoi told newsmen. He expressed his hope to return to Japan soon, but refused to believe he could be back home in only three hours by jet plane.

In Tokyo, the Japanese government said the Japanese Consulate in Guam had been ordered to arrange Yokoi's air passage home as soon as the ex-soldier's health permits.

Yokoi said he had lived 28 years on a diet of wild nuts, breadfruit, mangos, papaya, shrimps, snails, rats and frogs.

Doctors at Guam Memorial Hospital, where Yokoi was taken, said the former sergeants blood pressure and heart pulse are normal. They said he appeared to be anemic because of a salt-free diet.

3rd Soldier Found

He was the third former Japanese soldier found on Guam after the war. Two others identified as Bunzo Minagawa, 52, and Tadashi Ito, 51, both of Tokyo, were discovered 16 years ago.

Yokoi told the press that he fled into the jungle with two other Japanese soldiers when American troops overran the island in 1944. He said his comrades died eight years ago.

He was drafted into the defunct Imperial Army in August, 1941, and later sent to Manchuria. His unit was transferred to Guam in February, 1943, a few months before the island was recaptured by the Americans. His family was notified in 1944 that he had died in action.

His parents now are dead.

Views On Nixon's Offer Mixed

Washington (AP) — Accenting mixed but mostly favorable congressional views of President Nixon's peace plans, the chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee said Tuesday night he understands the offer also includes a halt to all U.S. bombing.

Sen. John Stennis, D-Miss., who said he approves the offer as "both reasonable and honorable," was countered by some longtime critics of the war including Sen. George McGovern, D-S.D., a Democratic presidential contender, who said he does not think the new Nixon formula will work.

Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., another of the large field of Democratic seekers of their party's presidential nomination, said the President's course of negotiation and action is "close to what I've been emphasizing."

"By making his proposals public the President has laid a useful foundation for his visit to China," Jackson said. "I hope he will make every effort to get Peking to use its good offices in getting the release of our prisoners and a standstill cease-fire."

McGovern recommended that a Senate panel of four Republicans and four Democrats be set up "to find a way to end this miserable war we shouldn't have gotten into in the first place."

Many long-time congressional critics of Vietnam war policy maintained silence — at least temporarily. But some expressed caution or out-and-out disapproval.

Sen. Jacob Javits, R-N.Y., said he believes the President's action in making his secret proposals public "indicates there is little hope for near-term acceptance."

If that is true, Javits said, the only real question is the national interest of the United States and that, he said, "still requires complete U.S. withdrawal."

Sen. Robert Packwood, R-Ore., said that while he doesn't disbelieve the President's outline of secret negotiations he does not think the offer would satisfy the South Vietnamese.

Sen. J. W. Fulbright, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, said the proposal appears "fair to Western eyes," but probably seems unfair to the North Vietnamese.

"I thinv there is very little hope of it being accepted," he said. "I believe I would go further than the President. I think we're going to have to do more . . . to mabe the North Vietnamese respond."

Fulbright continued, "For us to get out and leave Mr. Thieu to his own devices is what I think is a minimum." He said Nixon's proposal "is not quite that," despite Thieu's pledge to resign a month before new presidential elections, as Nixon related.

From another side, the President was scolded by feminist Rep. Bella Abzug, D-N.Y., for conducting negotiations in secret. She said the credibility of the statement was strained by being coupled with a joint announcement by the Thieu regime.

Rep. Paul N. McCloskey, R-Calif., an antiwar Republican opposing Nixon in presidential primaries, said the proposal appears to be more for domestic consumption than for the Paris bargaining table.

Thieu Willing To Resign

Saigon (AP) — President Nguyen Van Thieu said Wednesday he agreed to the secret allied peace proposal that calls for his resignation and a major concession—new elections with Communist participation.

Thieu proposed internationally supervised elections in 1969 with Communist participation, but he has always insisted in the past that the Communists should lay down their arms and renounce violent revolution before such elections.

Allowing Communist candidates in new elections was seen as a concession.

While Thieu did not refer to the demand for the Communists to renounce violence in his broadcast speech to the nation Wednesday, some observers felt this was implicit in the provision for international supervision.

His expressed willingness to permit the National Liberation Front — or Viet Cong — to take part in a new election was tantamount to acceptance of a coalition government including them.

"All of the political parties in South Vietnam, including the so-called National Liberation Front, can participate in the election and present candidates," Thieu said.

Although the election plan calls for the president and his vice president, Tran Van Huong, to resign a month before the vote, Thieu did not rule himself out as a candidate.

His removal from office has been a major Communist demand in the Paris peace talks.

Thieu spoke minutes after President Nixon completed his own detailed report on the eight-point plan Nixon said had been offered in secret to the North Vietnamese and thus far rejected.

Damage To Fuel Tank May Mean Another Month Delay For Apollo 16

Cape Kennedy (UPI) — A fuel tank in the Apollo 16 command ship was damaged by a launch pad testing failure Tuesday, threatening another month's delay in the start of the nation's next-to-last moon expedtion.

The entire rocket and spacecraft will be moved 3½ miles back to its assembly building and then the command module will be taken apart for repairs.

It will mark the first time an Apollo has been removed from the launch pad during preparations for a manned space mission.

A spokesman said it was possible the problem could cause another delay in the launch of the nation's next-to-last moon landing mission, now scheduled for April 16.

"NASA is assessing the impact of the problem on the April 16 launch date," the agency said in a statement. "This assessment is expected to be completed in one to two days."

Apollo 16 astronauts John W. Young, Thomas K. Mattingly and Charles M. Duke were originally scheduled for launch March 17. The launch then was delayed one month because of a spacecraft separation system problem, troubles with spacecraft batteries and a spacesuit.

The 363-foot rocket-spacecraft combination will be moved from its oceanside launch pad to the rocket assembly building Thursday. Then the command module will be removed and taken to the spacecraft operations building.

There, engineers will remove the ship's heat shield to gain access to the command module's control jet system. One of two propellant tanks must be replaced.

The spacecraft then must be reassembled and put through additional time-consuming tests.

An agency spokesman said the leak occurred when the command module's control jet system was being put through a routine pressure test.

A plastic bladder normally fuelled with propellant was pressurized with helium. The bladder is inside a titanium tank which also was pressurized with helium. At that point, a leak developed in the ground equipment feeding helium to the tank and the tank pressure dropped.

With the pressure resistance gone, the bladder ruptured like a popped balloon.

The jets are used to control the command ship's attitude during re-entry into Earth's atmosphere.

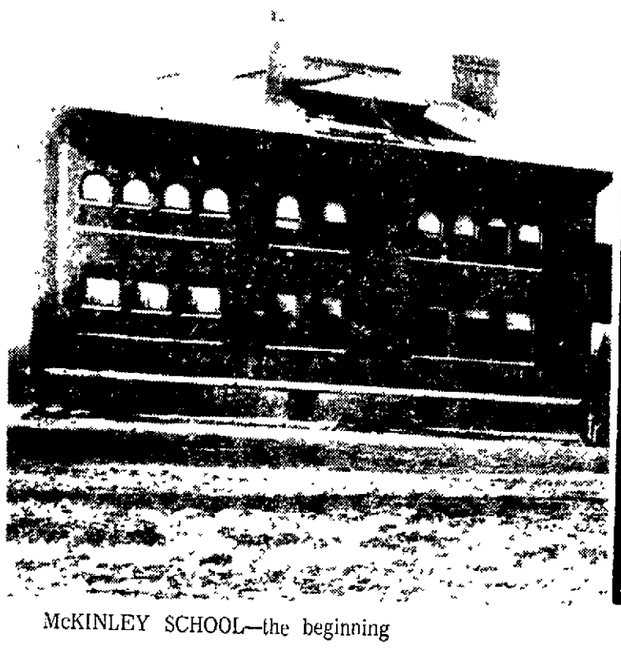
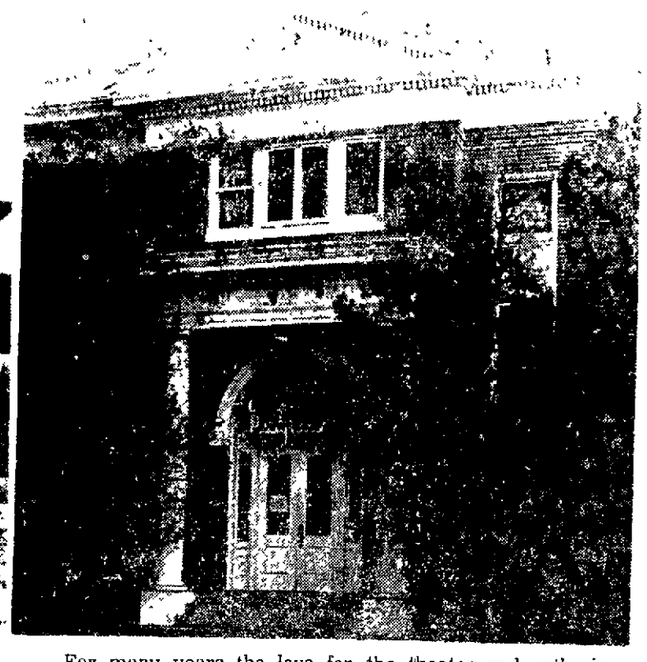
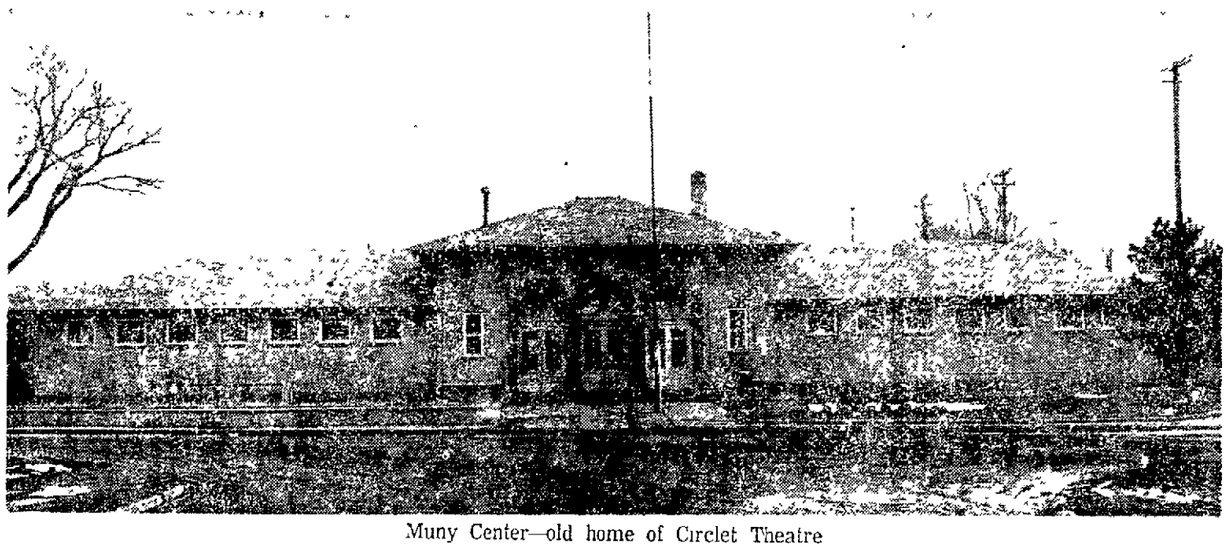
NOSTALGIC YESTERDAYS—THE PLAYHOUSE



McKINLEY SCHOOL—the beginning



For many years the love for the theater and enthusiasm for the Lincoln Community Theater lingered here — at 18th and L Streets.



Muny Center—old home of Circlet Theatre

BY PHYLLIS WOOLLEN

The biggest talk in threatre circles these first months of 1972 will be the grand opening of the Lincoln Community Playhouse on Friday evening, Feb 4, with the production of the musical play, "The Boyfriend."

For the past 17 years, the Lincoln Community Playhouse has not only sustained itself, but matured, in less than convenient facilities at 18th and L Sts The growth of the Playhouse as an organization of top repute among the community theatres has been maintained through an onslaught of high spirit, determination and inspiration—not a superstructure. The Lincoln Community Playhouse placed in the top 10 at the American Community Theatre Association Play Festival in 1971 in Chicago.

A community threatre group is hardly a strange entity to Lincoln. The first little threatre group was organized in 1936, and appropriately was called Community Theatre It met in the old McKinley School Building, presenting the first community plays, among them, "George Washington Slept Here."

In 1946, the Circlet Theatre was chartered. Original plans called for a center stage type theatre, with three rows of seats encircling the stage. The new home of the Circlet Theatre became the Muny Center, where the seating capacity was 162 persons

By 1953, the group felt that they had outgrown the Muny quarters, and architectural plans were drawn for a new theatre However, the new theatre never materialized, and in 1954 the Circlet Community Theater became the Lincoln Community Playhouse and opened its season in a newly remodeled $42,500 structure that was formerly Tifereth Israel Synagogue. This was the theatre at 18th and L Sts. that will be closing its doors this month.

Brick and mortar, however, never made an organization what it is Top flight community support in combination with the fine talents of Playhouse staff have been the supreme forces in our community theatre.

Nevertheless, just reward for outstanding endeavors is due, and has been achieved in the form of the new half-million dollar Community Playhouse. We are promised not only finer surroundings, but improved quality with the facilities to provide such.

In the weeks to come there will be much concentration in the mass media on the Playhouse history and future. Too often, however, many of the people and groups who have made the total outcome possible are overlooked. Within the Playhouse operation there are a host of separate bodies who have contributed greatly throughout its history. The groups include the Theatre Guild, the Backstage Club, the Youth Wing, the Puppet Theatre and the Academy.

The function of each group is unique to itself, and yet each works towards the single purpose of contributing to the operations of the Playhouse.

The Theatre Guild is fundamentally a women's organization designed to raise funds for the Playhouse and provide services for the staff and Board of Directors. Among the functions undertaken each year since its inception in 1967 are the annual Beaux Arts Ball and the Halloween Haunted House.

On June 2, 1967, the Theatre Guild was conceived at a luncheon at the University Club. Fifty women were on hand to lend their support, and hear a speech of inspiration by Kendrick Wilson who was then with the Omaha Community Playhouse. Since that time, thanks to the nucleus of women who met at that luncheon, interest and enthusiasm increased at a rapid rate and the guild continues to lend full support to its theatre endeavors.

With the onset of the new Playhouse campaign, the membership of the Guild totaled 91 and has now risen to 275. This year's activities are centered on the opening of the Playhouse and functions have included a two-night party for donors in the shell of the new facility, and planning for the Gala Opening Benefit on Feb. 4.

In September of this year, the Guild sponsored Wilson's Raiders gigantic garage sale. The Haunted House and the garage sale netted $3,500 of the building fund, which will be used for the pledge of six seats for the new theatre and the quadruple-purpose thrust stage that will enhance future productions. Furthermore, money has been pledged for wood-panelling the auditorium, a deluxe touch that was dropped from original plans for economy's sake.

The Guild manages the school reading troupes who read selected stories and poems to first through sixth graders at 27 public schools, five parochial schools, Orthopedic hospital and Whitehall during the year. They arrange, through the Lincoln Artists' Guild, the art exhibitions which were held in the lobby and Greenroom at every production and are the coffee hostesses in the Greenroom at every performance.

The Backstage Club has heretofore concentrated on social and financial areas such as four parties for members and casts each season. They also manage the Volunteer Entertainment Group, producing one-act plays and variety shows for civic clubs, conventions, schools and so forth.

In the new Playhouse they will supply each production with a pair of competent producers to arrange the details backstage, such as running the two-scene pre-set lightboard with 100 dimmers which will be one of the great prides of the new Playhouse.

The Backstage Club also was responsible for producing the final debut at the old Playhouse, "One More Time," a musical review of production numbers from the past which was held Jan. 14 and 15.

The future of the Community Playhouse will one day be in the hands of those who now participate in the Youth Wing, a group of energetic teenage Playhouse enthusiasts. Members of the Youth Wing usher at every performance.

In the new Playhouse they will meet weekly in the Studio Theatre to participate in an experimental improvisational theatre endeavor. The Wing was also responsible for producing "The Prime of Miss Jean Brodie" in the summer of 1971.

The Children's Theatre, under the direction of Pat Dickenson, has produced two summer shows and one winter show annually at the theatre at 18th and L Sts.

Another important division of the Playhouse is the Puppet Theatre directed by puppeteer and playwright, Lee Riage. Under Mrs. Ridge's talented direction, the group presents 20 performances each year.

Because of its very nature, the Playhouse depends upon the support of a volunteer community to help sustain it. That, in no way, demeans the undying effort of the Playhouse staff which combine talent with true dedication.

On the evening of Feb. 4, the curtain will go up for the first time at the new Playhouse. It will signify a wonderful beginning and a continuance of a tradition of which our community can be proud.

AAUW Group

The members of the American Association of University Women's Current Literature group will be treated to a salad luncheon on Wednesday afternoon, Jan. 26.

Hostesses for the 12:30 o'clock event to be held in the lounge of the Pioneer Apartments, 1130 H St., will be Mrs A H Atzenhoffer, Mrs. Rex D Bailey, Mrs L. N. Berger, and Mrs. Earl G. Maxwell.

Noel Gerson's biographic novel of Teddy Roosevelt, "T. R.," will be reviewed by Mrs. T J. Thompson.

Baby Shower

Mrs. Charles Salem, a head start teacher at Belmont School Annex No. 3, was the guest of honor at a baby shower presented to her at the school's parent meeting on Wednesday afternoon, Jan. 19.

town talk

Another month looms up on the horizon, and it begins with considerable vim and vigor, socially speaking.

The 100 Club, for instance, has a party planned for February's very first Saturday — Feb. 5. It is to be a carnival and although costumes are optional, masks are not. Everybody attending the party must have one even though it is worn with casual dress.

Anyway — the affair is a dinner dance at the Radisson-Cornhusker Hotel, and planning the details is a committee composed of Mr. and Mrs. William Wiley, chairmen; Mr. and Mrs. Roy Blazek, Mr. and Mrs. James Critchfield, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Harrington, Mr. and Mrs. Claude Hof and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Smith.

* * *

The approaching month will make its debut on Tuesday — That, according to the calendar, is Feb. 1. And that also is the date of the Fifty Fifty Club dinner and bridge at Radisson-Cornhusker Hotel.

We hear that there will be a valentine theme, and that in charge of all of the party planning are Dr. and Mrs. Charles Bucy and Dr. and Mrs. Hubert Capek.

If a person is ticketed for a moving violation outside Nebraska, will applicable points normally assessed in the other state be assessed against the person's Nebraska driver's license?
—K.F., Lincoln

ACTION LINE: According to the Nebraska State Patrol, if the state in which the person is ticketed is a member of the Drivers License Compact States, then points assessed in that state can be assessed against the Nebraska license.

States along with Nebraska that are members of that elite group: Alabama, Arizona, Arkansas, California, Colorado, Delaware, Florida, Hawaii, Idaho, Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Kansas, Louisiana, Maine, Mississippi, Montana, Nevada, New Jersey, New Mexico, New York, Oklahoma, Oregon, Tennessee, Utah, Virginia and Washington.

The State Motor Vehicle Dept. says on minor traffic violations such as speeding or running a traffic signal, no report is made to the home state. But, on a serious offense like drunk driving or motor vehicle homicide the home state is immediately contacted.

What's being done along Antelope Creek in the park? It seems the trees and brush are being cut along the banks of the creek and I feel this destroys cover for animals and birds.
—Mrs. J.D.A., Lincoln

ACTION LINE: Hal Schroeder, general manager of the Salt Valley Watershed Dist., says the $398,000 project to which you refer is designed to stabilize the banks of Antelope Creek along Capitol Parkway near the Children's Zoo and junior golf course; to increase capacity of the channel to carry water; and to reduce erosion that has taken place along the creek banks causing silt deposits in the channel.

The project does require clearing the weeds that have made it necessary for frequent, expensive clearing in the past in order to keep the brush from clogging the channel. There will be installation of baskets filled with rock and grass plantings on the banks to thwart erosion.

The work is being done in cooperation with the City Park Department which will plant trees in the area to further beautify it. Plans call for a possible bike path nearby. An additional benefit is to eliminate some of the dangerous creek bank drop-offs, replacing them with sloping, grassy banks.

After seeing the movie "Dirty Harry," I wondered what happened to the person going by the name "Scorpio" in the San Francisco, Calif., area who allegedly contacted police and others about murders; and to the man that hijacked an airplane and parachuted into the night and was not seen again.
—K.W.A., Lincoln

ACTION LINE: The man calling himself "Scorpio" has not been heard from since about a year ago, according to law enforcement officials in San Francisco. Psychiatrists fear he may have harmed himself since they theorize his calls to police about allegedly planning to murder people were pleas of help to save himself from himself.

Another blank has been drawn by law officials in the case in which a man last November received $200,000 in loot and parachuted over barren western territory. He had threatened to blow up the airplane.

However plans to deal with that stunt have apparently been found. Last week a man tried the same parachute gimmick after receiving $50,000, but he was tracked by two Air Force fighter planes. The pilots successfully pinpointed the man and he was captured.

What can be done to get the railroad to maintain the tracks east of Denton?
—A. U., Denton

ACTION LINE: Lancaster County Commissioner Kenneth Bourne says he will inspect the matter personally within a day. After that, County Engineer Walter Hoppe will be directed to contact the railroad concerning constant and proper maintenance of the crossing.

Work Exhibited By Italian Artist

The first international exhibit of etchings and serigraths by an Italian artist, Ave Fornari, is on exhibition in Sheldon Memorial Art Gallery at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln.

Miss Fornari of Bari, Italy, has a group of 24 prints on display. She is a graduate of the Academy of Art in Rome and attended the International Etchings School in Urbino, Italy.

She has had numerous art exhibitions and has won gold medals at two International Exhibitions of the Academies.

Miss Fornari's showing will end on Jan. 31.

POSTCARD by Stan Delaplane

Since life has been up and down like a yo-yo, I went out and bought a whole bunch of new clothes. Go for broke.

Otherwise OK. "You're in great shape," said the medic. He hit me a few licks on the knee. My foot came up like George Blanda kicking one in from 50 yards out.

He listened to my chest — hey, that tickles! He said: "Hmmm."

I said: "What does that mean? The old medical school varsity cheer?"

☆ ☆ ☆

A couple of years ago, I came down with a back like a pretzel. Man, it was murder. But now I am limber as a kitten.

"Try not to worry about things," said the medic. "Take things easy."

Now there's where we don't come together.

I am a positive picture of a man who should be swinging on a chandelier. (Yet no one can tell it from my outward calm demeanor.)

Alas, the cost of living goes up and up. For what you used to get for one C note, you now shell out $125.

This is sad news since I am in process of refurnishing the scatter at suburban Snug Harbor. A decorator is looking into it.

The quoted price is enough to send Job up the blooming wall.

I said: "Buy it for me. Bill me later."

It is my idea to shuffle off some cheery day, leaving a gaggle of creditors squabbling over the loot.

"The dice don't know who's throwing them," said Nick the Greek.

As any gambler knows, the house beats the best of chargers eventually. The point is to get much action as possible before they rack you back.

Why do we play? A Nevada gambler told me: "You'll never believe this, but a professor from an Eastern college — a psychologist type — wanted to find out why dames will sit all day pulling a slot machine until the money runs out.

"So he got a bunch of chimpanzees. He set them up a bank of slots and gave them coins to play with."

"Well, the prof got the chimps to playing good. The machines paid off in bananas. Jackpot — the chimp got a couple of bananas. To get them interested, the machines were gaffed to they paid off every play.

"Now when the chimps get interested, they tightened the machines. A banana every 10 plays.

"Then he fixed it so the machine paid off poker chips. No bananas of any kind. What does a chimp want a poker chip for?

"The chimps went right on pulling those slots. It was playing that hooked them. No matter about what it paid off."

True story, he said. The story of our life.

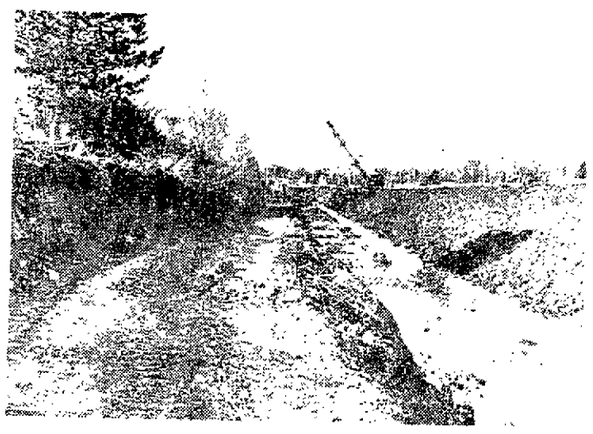
What's being done along Antelope Creek in the park? It seems the trees and brush are being cut along the banks of the creek and I feel this destroys cover for animals and birds.

—Mrs. J.D.A., Lincoln



ACTION LINE: Hal Schroeder, general manager of the Salt Valley Watershed Dist., says the $398,000 project to which you refer is designed to stabilize the banks of Antelope Creek along Capitol Parkway near the Children's Zoo and junior golf course; to increase capacity of the channel to carry water; and to reduce erosion that has taken place along the creek banks causing silt deposits in the channel.

The project does require clearing the weeds that have made it necessary for frequent, expensive clearing in the past in order to keep the brush from clogging the channel. There will be installation of baskets filled with rock and grass plantings on the banks to thwart erosion.

The work is being done in cooperation with the City Park Department which will plant trees in the area to further beautify it. Plans call for a possible bike path nearby. An additional benefit is to eliminate some of the dangerous creek bank drop-offs, replacing them with sloping, grassy banks.

After seeing the movie "Dirty Harry," I wondered what happened to the person going by the name "Scorpio" in the San Francisco, Calif., area who allegedly contacted police and others about murders; and to the man that hijacked an airplane and parachuted into the night and was not seen again.

—K.W.A., Lincoln

ACTION LINE: The man calling himself "Scorpio" has not been heard from since about a year ago, according to law enforcement officials in San Francisco. Psychiatrists fear he may have harmed himself since they theorize his calls to police about allegedly planning to murder people were pleas of help to save himself from himself.

Another blank has been drawn by law officials in the case in which a man last November received $200,000 in loot and parachuted over barren western territory. He had threatened to blow up the airplane.

However plans to deal with that stunt have apparently been found. Last week a man tried the same parachute gimmick after receiving $50,000, but he was tracked by two Air Force fighter planes. The pilots successfully pinpointed the man and he was captured.

What can be done to get the railroad to maintain the tracks east of Denton?

—A. U., Denton

ACTION LINE: Lancaster County Commissioner Kenneth Bourne says he will inspect the matter personally within a day. After that, County Engineer Walter Hoppe will be directed to contact the railroad concerning constant and proper maintenance of the crossing.

POSTCARD by Stan Delaplane

Since life has been up and down like a yo-yo, I went out and bought a whole bunch of new clothes. Go for broke.

Otherwise OK. "You're in great shape," said the medic. He hit me a few licks on the knee. My foot came up like George Blanda kicking one in from 50 yards out.

He listened to my chest — hey, that tickles! He said: "Hmmm."

I said: "What does that mean? The old medical school varsity cheer?"

☆ ☆ ☆

A couple of years ago, I came down with a back like a pretzel. Man, it was murder. But now I am limber as a kitten.

"Try not to worry about things," said the medic. "Take things easy."

Now there's where we don't come together.

I am a positive picture of a man who should be swinging on a chandelier. (Yet no one can tell it from my outward calm demeanor.)

Alas, the cost of living goes up and up. For what you used to get for one C note, you now shell out $125.

This is sad news since I am in process of refurnishing the scatter at suburban Snug Harbor. A decorator is looking into it.

The quoted price is enough to send Job up the blooming wall.

I said: "Buy it for me. Bill me later."

It is my idea to shuffle off some cheery day, leaving a gaggle of creditors squabbling over the loot.

"The dice don't know who's throwing them," said Nick the Greek.

As any gambler knows, the house beats the best of chargers eventually. The point is to get much action as possible before they rack you back.

Why do we play? A Nevada gambler told me: "You'll never believe this, but a professor from an Eastern college — a psychologist type — wanted to find out why dames will sit all day pulling a slot machine until the money runs out.

"So he got a bunch of chimpanzees. He set them up a bank of slots and gave them coins to play with."

"Well, the prof got the chimps to playing good. The machines paid off in bananas. Jackpot — the chimp got a couple of bananas. To get them interested, the machines were gaffed to they paid off every play.

"Now when the chimps get interested, they tightened the machines. A banana every 10 plays.

"Then he fixed it so the machine paid off poker chips. No bananas of any kind. What does a chimp want a poker chip for?

"The chimps went right on pulling those slots. It was playing that hooked them. No matter about what it paid off."

True story, he said. The story of our life.

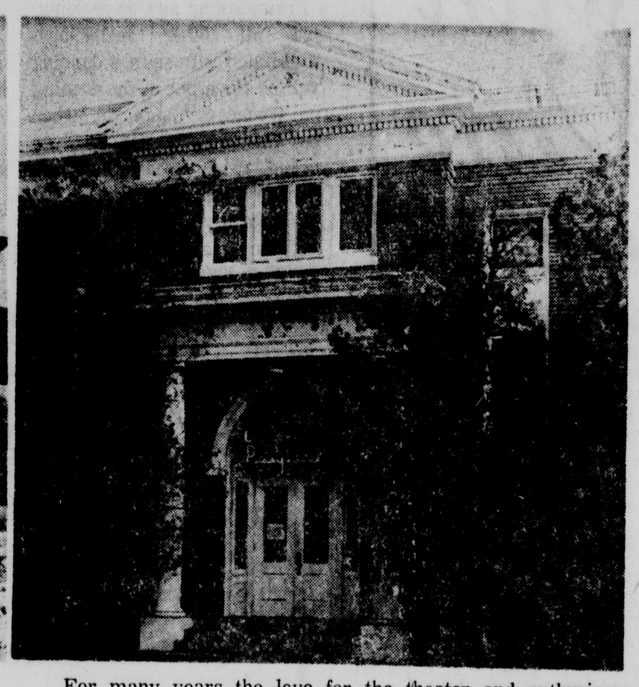
NOSTALGIC YESTERDAYS—THE PLAYHOUSE

McKINLEY SCHOOL—the beginning



For many years the love for the theater and enthusiasm for the Lincoln Community Theater lingered here — at 18th and L Streets.

Muny Center—old home of Circlet Theatre

BY PHYLLIS WOOLLEN

The biggest talk in threatre circles these first months of 1972 will be the grand opening of the Lincoln Community Playhouse on Friday evening, Feb. 4, with the production of the musical play, "The Boyfriend."

For the past 17 years, the Lincoln Community Playhouse has not only sustained itself, but matured, in less than convenient facilities at 18th and L Sts. The growth of the Playhouse as an organization of top repute among the community theatres has been maintained through an onslaught of high spirit, determination and inspiration—not a superstructure. The Lincoln Community Playhouse placed in the top 10 at the American Community Theatre Association Play Festival in 1971 in Chicago.

A community threatre group is hardly a strange entity to Lincoln. The first little threatre group was organized in 1936, and appropriately was called Community Theatre. It met in the old McKinley School Building, presenting the first community plays, among them, "George Washington Slept Here."

In 1946, the Circlet Theatre was chartered. Original plans called for a center stage type theatre, with three rows of seats encircling the stage. The new home of the Circlet Theatre became the Muny Center, where the seating capacity was 162 persons.

By 1953, the group felt that they had outgrown the Muny quarters, and architectural plans were drawn for a new theatre. However, the new theatre never materialized, and in 1954 the Circlet Community Theater became the Lincoln Community Playhouse and opened its season in a newly remodeled $42,500 structure that was formerly Tifereth Israel Synagogue. This was the theatre at 18th and L Sts. that will be closing its doors this month.

Brick and mortar, however, never made an organization what it is. Top flight community support in combination with the fine talents of Playhouse staff have been the supreme forces in our community theatre.

Nevertheless, just reward for outstanding endeavors is due, and has been achieved in the form of the new half-million dollar Community Playhouse. We are promised not only finer surroundings, but improved quality with the facilities to provide such.

In the weeks to come there will be much concentration in the mass media on the Playhouse history and future. Too often, however, many of the people and groups who have made the total outcome possible are overlooked. Within the Playhouse operation there are a host of separate bodies who have contributed greatly throughout its history. The groups include the Theatre Guild, the Backstage Club, the Youth Wing, the Puppet Theatre and the Academy.

The function of each group is unique to itself, and yet each works towards the single purpose of contributing to the operations of the Playhouse.

The Theatre Guild is fundamentally a women's organization designed to raise funds for the Playhouse and provide services for the staff and Board of Directors. Among the functions undertaken each year since its inception in 1967 are the annual Beaux Arts Ball and the Halloween Haunted House.

On June 2, 1967, the Theatre Guild was conceived at a luncheon at the University Club. Fifty women were on hand to lend their support, and hear a speech of inspiration by Kendrick Wilson who was then with the Omaha Community Playhouse. Since that time, thanks to the nucleus of women who met at that luncheon, interest and enthusiasm increased at a rapid rate and the guild continues to lend full support to its theatre endeavors.

With the onset of the new Playhouse campaign, the membership of the Guild totaled 91 and has now risen to 275. This year's activities are centered on the opening of the Playhouse and functions have included a two-night party for donors in the shell of the new facility, and planning for the Gala Opening Benefit on Feb. 4.

In September of this year, the Guild sponsored Wilson's Raiders gigantic garage sale. The Haunted House and the garage sale netted $3,500 of the building fund, which will be used for the pledge of six seats for the new theatre and the quadruple-purpose thrust stage that will enhance future productions. Furthermore, money has been pledged for wood-panelling the auditorium, a deluxe touch that was dropped from original plans for economy's sake.

The Guild manages the school reading troupes who read selected stories and poems to first through sixth graders at 27 public schools, five parochial schools, Orthopedic hospital and Whitehall during the year. They arrange, through the Lincoln Artists' Guild, the art exhibitions which were held in the lobby and Greenroom at every production and are the coffee hostesses in the Greenroom at every performance.

The Backstage Club has heretofore concentrated on social and financial areas such as four parties for members and casts each season. They also manage the Volunteer Entertainment Group, producing one-act plays and variety shows for civic clubs, conventions, schools and so forth.

In the new Playhouse they will supply each production with a pair of competent producers to arrange the details backstage, such as running the two-scene pre-set lightboard with 100 dimmers which will be one of the great prides of the new Playhouse.

The Backstage Club also was responsible for producing the final debut at the old Playhouse, "One More Time," a musical review of production numbers from the past which was held Jan. 14 and 15.

The future of the Community Playhouse will one day lie in the hands of those who now participate in the Youth Wing, a group of energetic teenage Playhouse enthusiasts. Members of the Youth Wing usher at every performance.

In the new Playhouse they will meet weekly in the Studio Theatre to participate in an experimental improvisational theatre endeavor. The Wing was also responsible for producing "The Prime of Miss Jean Brodie" in the summer of 1971.

The Children's Theatre, under the direction of Pat Dickenson, has produced two summer shows and one winter show annually at the theatre at 18th and L Sts.

Another important division of the Playhouse is the Puppet Theatre directed by puppeteer and playwright, Lee Ridge. Under Mrs. Ridge's talented direction, the group presents 20 performances each year.

Because of its very nature, the Playhouse depends upon the support of a volunteer community to help sustain it. That, in no way, demeans the undying effort of the Playhouse staff which combine talent with true dedication.

On the evening of Feb. 4, the curtain will go up for the first time at the new Playhouse. It will signify a wonderful beginning and a continuance of a tradition of which our community can be proud.

AAUW Group

The members of the American Association of University Women's Current Literature group will be treated to a salad luncheon on Wednesday afternoon, Jan. 26.

Hostesses for the 12:30 o'clock event to be held in the lounge of the Pioneer Apartments, 1130 H St., will be Mrs. A. H. Atzenhoffer, Mrs. Rex D. Bailey, Mrs. L. N. Berger, and Mrs. Earl G. Maxwell.

Noel Gerson's biographic novel of Teddy Roosevelt, "T. R.," will be reviewed by Mrs. T. J. Thompson.

town talk

Another month looms up on the horizon, and it begins with considerable vim and vigor, socially speaking.

The 100 Club, for instance, has a party planned for February's very first Saturday — Feb. 5. It is to be a carnival and although costumes are optional, masks are not. Everybody attending the party must have one even though it is worn with casual dress.

Anyway — the affair is a dinner dance at the Radisson-Cornhusker Hotel, and planning the details is a committee composed of Mr. and Mrs. William Wiley, chairmen; Mr. and Mrs. Roy Blazek, Mr. and Mrs. James Critchfield, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Harrington, Mr. and Mrs. Claude Hof and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Smith.

* * *

The approaching month will make its debut on Tuesday — That, according to the calendar, is Feb. 1. And that also is the date of the Fifty Fifty Club dinner and bridge at Radisson-Cornhusker Hotel.

We hear that there will be a valentine theme, and that in charge of all of the party planning are Dr. and Mrs. Charles Bucy and Dr. and Mrs. Hubert Capek.

Opening lead — king of hearts.

Declarer must eye with suspicion any play a defender makes that permits him to win a trick he would otherwise lose. He should play on the basis that the enemy is trying to do him in, and he should never assume that the opponents have suddenly switched allegiance and are trying to help him out.

Take this case where West leads the king of hearts and shifts to a low spade.

It may be tempting to play low from dummy in the hope that West has the king, but this would be the wrong thing to do. In the actual case, playing low from dummy would cost South the contract. East would win with the king and would later score the setting trick in the form of a club.

West is bound to have a safer play at trick two than to lead away from the king of spades, if he has it. It is therefore unwise to conclude that West has either gone berserk or become a kindly benefactor, for the odds against both are over whelming, and South should consequently deduce that East has the king of spades.

But beyond that, there is an even more compelling reason to play the ace. The ace play guarantees the contract 100%, no matter how the remaining cards are divided.

South insures eleven tricks by winning with the ace of spades, playing a diamond to the king, ruffing a heart, playing a diamond to the ace, and ruffing the last heart. Then, after cashing the king of clubs, he exits with a spade.

Whoever wins the trick must yield a ruff and discard or lead a club, either of which hands declarer the rest of the tricks. If the player with the king of spades started with the J-10-x-of clubs, any club he returns will cost him his club trick.

ABBY

DEAR ABBY: I have just returned from an interview for a secretarial position. The boss himself interviewed me, and I must say, I was surprised at some of the questions he asked me.

He wanted to know if I was on "the Pill." (I had already told him I was recently divorced.)

Then he asked, "Do you drink?" I told him I didn't. Then he smiled and added, "Not even a little social drinking once in a while?" I said "No. I just don't care for it." Then he looked at me like I was some kind of oddball.

He also asked me if I ever "turned on" with drugs. By that time I had had it, and replied, "Good grief, no!"

I doubt if that interview will result in a job offer. But if it does, I shall turn it down.

Not having sought employment for 10 years, perhaps I am out of touch with today's scene. But I'd like to know if these questions are routine in an interview today? Or did this particular man have something else in mind?

SHOCKED IN MANHATTAN

DEAR SHOCKED: The questions you were asked were not routine, and I suspect the man who interviewed you had fringe benefits in mind. For HIM — not you.

DEAR ABBY: My husband is a long distance truck driver. I told him a few weeks ago that I worried a lot about his driving at night because I was afraid he might doze off, and he told me I shouldn't worry because one of the other drivers gave him some "stay awake" pills.

I begged him not to take any pills unless he knows what is in them, and suggested that he go to our family doctor if he felt he needed something to help him stay awake.

He said I was "dumb" to worry, but I love him, and I'm afraid he might get hooked on drugs. Is this possible, and what can I do?

SO WORRIED

DEAR WORRIED: Yes, it's possible. Keep after him until he goes to his family doctor. It is dangerous for anyone to take pills which have not been prescribed especially for him.

If you meet...

your best-dressed friend at H-S today, just act nonchalant.
Maybe you can still be friends after you know her secret.

After all, you're both at H-S

Know Your Antiques

John Wilkes defended the colonists against the King in the days of the Revolution even though he was an Englishman. The Derby porcelain works made this figure of him about 1770. It is 12 inches high.

(Wadsworth Atheneum, Hartford, Conn.)

By RALPH AND TERRY KOVEL

The china problem for antique collectors is different than that of the porcelain. It has often been a mystery where a piece of porcelain was made. Even the design can represent a puzzle.

A famous English 18th century porcelain figure shows a man leaning on a stand holding the Bill of Rights and the Magna Charta. Research shows the figure was made at the English Derby factory about 1770. The imposing politician is John Wilkes.

Wilkes was a strong supporter of liberty in his country. He argued against the King to protect the rights of the commoners. Wilkes even thought that the colonists were right to have started the Revolution. He was Lord Mayor of London for many years and also Chamberlain of London. He was known for his honesty in office and he died insolvent.

John Wilkes was also known for his success with the ladies, his sense of humor, extravagance and practical jokes. History records show that he was extremely ugly and had a squint. The artist who made his porcelain likeness must have admired his politics and glamorized his looks.

Q. How old is the teabag? I collect teabag tags, tea canisters, tins that held tea for stores, large boxes that held tea in stores or anything related to tea leaves.

A. Teabags were first sold in 1904. A New York tea merchant sent out samples in small bags and his customers began to order it that way. W. A. Upham began to promote the idea of selling advertising on the teabag tag in 1919. He convinced the Lipton Tea Company and the first collector's teabag tags were made. The old tags are hard to find. Many collectors seem to favor the foreign tags.

Q. When did they make a whiskey bottle with a combination lock on the bottle?

A. Even in the 19th century whiskey was hard to keep in the bottle. A patent was issued for the Hayner Lock Stopper in 1897. It was made to keep the servants, children or others from the whiskey. The only way to open the bottle was to know the combination on the lock.

Dining with Wine

A gradual, but definite change in the drinking habits of Americans, has developed in the past few years. The practice of consuming hi-balls or cocktails made with liquors of high alcohol content, especially before dining, has been slowly losing favor. Today, more and more people are learning to enjoy the aperitif (before dining) wines; and are finding dining pleasures they never knew existed. It is an established scientific fact that strong alcoholic drinks such as hi-balls or cocktails dull the taste buds which lessens the pleasures of dining. Whereas, a glass of pale dry sherry will stimulate and whet the appetite. This is especially important when the apertif is followed by a dinner wine.

Perhaps the most popular apertif wine in use today is Sherry. It is a fortified wine to which brandy has been added to raise its alcohol content to 17 to 18%. It is made primarily — (about 90%) from the great Palomino grape; which, by the way, is one of the very few wine grapes which is also a very delicious table or "eating grape."

Sherry ranges in color from a pale straw color to almost dark mahogony. In taste, it ranges from an almost crisp dryness to very sweet. It is not a natural wine such as the German or French wines but is always treated to reach its varying degrees of sweetness and color. Genuine Sherry is made by the Solera system in which the casks are stacked and connected in 3 or more layers. As the top cask is filled last the wine passes thru all of the casks in the tier before it is withdrawn from the bottom cask. In this way the younger wines are blended with the older wines in a continuous manner. There is no vintage Sherry — the date appearing on a bottle merely indicates the date on which the lower cask in the tier (or Solera) was filled.

A true Sherry comes only from Spain and the Sherry vineyards are located in and around the town of Jerez-de-la-Frontera, south of Seville. The wine, which plays an extremely important part in the life of the city, takes its name from the Latin Xeres and the Arabian Sherrisch. The term "Sherry" is an Americanized version of the name. Vineyards have been cultivated in this area since the Phoenicians founded the city over 1000 years before Christ. The region was fought over by many invaders for several hundred years and it wasn't until near the end of the 13th Century that it came under its present Spanish domination.

Most of the Spanish Sherry is exported and England is, by far, the world's largest consumer — using about 60% of Spain's production. The taste for Sherry is growing rapidly in America and connoiseurs agree that a dry Sherry is the perfect apertif. The flavor of Sherry has best been described as "nutty," and it is available in varying degrees of sweetness.

The various types of Sherry, especially those marketed in the United States include: Fina, Manzanilla, Amontillado, Palma, Oloroso and Cream. Cream Sherry is a heavily sweetened wine; developed by and for the British taste, and has become very popular in America as a dessert wine. American wine makers produce vast quantities of wine labelled Sherry — actually, about four times as much as that made in Spain, but the American version of this wine suffers greatly when compared with that of Spain.

An excellent value in a Spanish Sherry is the Pale Dry Cocktail Sherry offered by the Bodegas Alberti and the Rare Cream Sherry of the Plaza Vieja.

Discussion On Housing

The members of the Soroptimist Club of Lincoln will gather at Hotel Radisson-Cornhusker on Wednesday evening, Jan. 26.

"The Housing Situation in Lincoln" will be the title of the program which will follow the 7 o'clock family-style dinner.

The guest speaker will be Thomas L. Carroll, executive director of the Better Lincoln Committee, which was formed in 1962 by private citizens and groups interested in a community betterment program of low-and -moderate - income housing.

Mr. Carroll's speech will include a progress report, suggestions of possible action, and a report of community support by private and public sectors.

Know Your Antiques

John Wilkes defended the colonists against the King in the days of the Revolution even though he was an Englishman The Derby porcelain works made this figure of him about 1770 It is 12 inches high

(Wadsworth Atheneum, Hartford Conn.)

By RALPH AND TERRY KOVEL

The china problem for antique collectors is different than that of the porcelain It has often been a mystery where a piece of porcelain was made Even the design can represent a puzzle

A famous English 18th century porcelain figure shows a man leaning on a stand holding the Bill of Rights and the Magna Charta Research shows the figure was made at the English Derby factory about 1770 The imposing politician is John Wilkes

Wilkes was a strong supporter of liberty in his country. He argued against the King to protect the rights of the commoners Wilkes even thought that the colonists were right to have started the Revolution He was Lord Mayor of London for many years and also Chamberlain of London He was known for his honesty in office and he died insolvent.

John Wilkes was also known for his success with the ladies, his sense of humor, extravagance and practical jokes History records show that he was extremely ugly and had a squint The artist who made his porcelain likeness must have admired his politics and glamorized his looks

Q How old is the teabag? I collect teabag tags, tea canisters, tins that held tea for stores large boxes that held tea in stores or anything related to tea leaves

A Teabags were first sold in 1904 A New York tea merchant sent out samples in small bags and his customers began to order it that way. W. A. Upham began to promote the idea of selling advertising on the teabag tag in 1919 He convinced the Lipton Tea Company and the first collector's teabag tags were made The old tags are hard to find Many collectors seem to favor the foreign tags

Q When did they make a whiskey bottle with a combination lock on the bottle?

A Even in the 19th century whiskey was hard to keep in the bottle A patent was issued for the Hayner Lock Stopper in 1897. It was made to keep the servants, children or others from the whiskey. The only way to open the bottle was to know the combination on the lock.

Dining with Wine

A gradual, but definite change in the drinking habits of Americans, has developed in the past few years The practice of consuming hi-balls or cocktails made with liquors of high alcohol content, especially before dining, has been slowly losing favor. Today, more and more people are learning to enjoy the aperitif (before dining) wines, and are finding dining pleasures they never knew existed It is an established scientific fact that strong alcoholic drinks such as hi-balls or cocktails dull the taste buds which lessens the pleasures of dining Whereas, a glass of pale dry sherry will stimulate and whet the appetite This is especially important when the aperitif is followed by a dinner wine.

Perhaps the most popular aperitif wine in use today is Sherry. It is a fortified wine to which brandy has been added to raise its alcohol content to 17 to 18%. It is made primarily — (about 90%) from the great Palomino grape; which, by the way, is one of the very few wine grapes which is also a very delicious table or "eating grape"

Sherry ranges in color from a pale straw color to almost dark mahogony. In taste, it ranges from an almost crisp dryness to very sweet It is not a natural wine such as the German or French wines but is always treated to reach its varying degrees of sweetness and color Genuine Sherry is made by the Solera system in which the casks are stacked and connected in 3 or more layers. As the top cask is filled last the wine passes thru all of the casks in the tier before it is withdrawn from the bottom cask. In this way the younger wines are blended with the older wines in a continuous manner There is no vintage Sherry — the date appearing on a bottle merely indicates the date on which the lower cask in the tier (or Solera) was filled.

A true Sherry comes only from Spain and the Sherry vineyards are located in and around the town of Jerez-de-la-Frontera, south of Seville. The wine, which plays an extremely important part in the life of the city, takes its name from the Latin Xeres and the Arabian Sherrisch. The term "Sherry" is an Americanized version of the name. Vineyards have been cultivated in this area since the Phoenicians founded the city over 1000 years before Christ The region was fought over by many invaders for several hundred years and it wasn't until near the end of the 13th Century that it came under its present Spanish domination.

Most of the Spanish Sherry is exported and England is, by far, the world's largest consumer — using about 60% of Spain's production. The taste for Sherry is growing rapidly in America and connoisseurs agree that a dry Sherry is the perfect aperitif. The flavor of Sherry has best been described as "nutty," and it is available in varying degrees of sweetness

The various types of Sherry, especially those marketed in the United States include Fina, Manzanilla, Amontillado, Palma, Oloroso and Cream. Cream Sherry is a heavily sweetened wine: developed by and for the British taste, and has become very popular in America as a dessert wine American wine makers produce vast quantities of wine labelled Sherry — actually, about four times as much as that made in Spain, but the American version of this wine suffers greatly when compared with that of Spain.

An excellent value in a Spanish Sherry is the Pale Dry Cocktail Sherry offered by the Bodegas Alberti and the Rare Cream Sherry of the Plaza Vieja.

Opening lead — king of hearts.

Declarer must eye with suspicion any play a defender makes that permits him to win a trick he would otherwise lose. He should play on the basis that the enemy is trying to do him in, and he should never assume that the opponents have suddenly switched allegiance and are trying to help him out.

Take this case where West leads the king of hearts and shifts to a low spade.

It may be tempting to play low from dummy in the hope that West has the king, but this would be the wrong thing to do. In the actual case, playing low from dummy would cost South the contract. East would win with the king and would later score the setting trick in the form of a club.

West is bound to have a safer play at trick two than to lead away from the king of spades, if he has it. It is therefore unwise to conclude that West has either gone berserk or become a kindly benefactor, for the odds against both are over whelming, and South should consequently deduce that East has the king of spades.

But beyond that, there is an even more compelling reason to play the ace. The ace play guarantees the contract 100%, no matter how the remaining cards are divided.

South insures eleven tricks by winning with the ace of spades, playing a diamond to the king, ruffing a heart, playing a diamond to the ace, and ruffing the last heart. Then, after cashing the king of clubs, he exits with a spade.

Whoever wins the trick must yield a ruff and discard or lead a club, either of which hands declarer the rest of the tricks. If the player with the king of spades started with the J-10-x-of clubs, any club he returns will cost him his club trick.

ABBY

DEAR ABBY: I have just returned from an interview for a secretarial position. The boss himself interviewed me, and I must say, I was surprised at some of the questions he asked me.

He wanted to know if I was on "the Pill." (I had already told him I was recently divorced.)

Then he asked, "Do you drink?" I told him I didn't. Then he smiled and added, "Not even a little social drinking once in a while?" I said "No. I just don't care for it." Then he looked at me like I was some kind of oddball.

He also asked me if I ever "turned on" with drugs. By that time I had had it, and replied, "Good grief, no!"

I doubt if that interview will result in a job offer. But if it does, I shall turn it down.

Not having sought employment for 10 years, perhaps I am out of touch with today's scene. But I'd like to know if these questions are routine in an interview today? Or did this particular man have something else in mind?

SHOCKED IN MANHATTAN

DEAR SHOCKED: The questions you were asked were not routine, and I suspect the man who interviewed you had fringe benefits in mind. For HIM — not you.

DEAR ABBY: My husband is a long distance truck driver. I told him a few weeks ago that I worried a lot about his driving at night because I was afraid he might doze off, and he told me I shouldn't worry because one of the other drivers gave him some "stay awake" pills.

I begged him not to take any pills unless he knows what is in them, and suggested that he go to our family doctor if he felt he needed something to help him stay awake.

He said I was "dumb" to worry, but I love him, and I'm afraid he might get hooked on drugs. Is this possible, and what can I do?

SO WORRIED

DEAR WORRIED: Yes, it's possible. Keep after him until he goes to his family doctor. It is dangerous for anyone to take pills which have not been prescribed especially for him.

If you meet...

your best-dressed friend at H-S today, just act nonchalant.

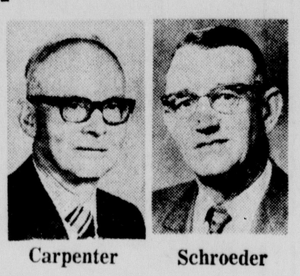
Gangwish, Kuskie Are Elected To Crop Improvement Association

Ogallala — Leland Gangwish of Gibbon and Bernard Kuskie of Grant were elected new directors for the Nebraska Crop Improvement Association Board at the group's annual meeting here Tuesday. The newly-elected directors will serve for three year terms.

Ray Siffring of Rising City was also elected president of the Board; Leland Cantrell of Merna was named vice president; and newly-elected director Gangwish was elected treasurer.

Clint Carlson of the Holdrege Seed and Supply Co., Holdrege, was appointed as an ex-officio member of the Board, representing the Nebraska Seedsmen's Association.



Carpenter

Schroeder

Holdover directors that will continue to serve on the NCIA Board in various crop districts are Willard Waldo, DeWitt; Kenneth Larson, Gurley; Wayne Campbell, Lodgepole; and two ex-officio members, D. G. Hanway and Earle Raun, both of Lincoln.

Meanwhile two Nebraska certified seed producers received Premier Seed Grower awards here at the Nebraska Crop Improvement Days awards banquet.

Kenneth Carpenter of Lyman and Ralph Schroeder of Elwood were honored for their outstanding efforts as certified seed growers.

Carpenter has been farming for 32 years and has been a certified seed grower for over 20 years. He currently farms about 1,200 acres and feeds approximately 1,800 head of cattle yearly. His major crops are sugar beets, beans, corn, wheat, alfalfa, hay, barley and oats.

Technical College Board Approves 14% Budget Hike

Hastings (AP) — The board of governors of the Central Nebraska Technical College gave tentative approval to a budget of $3,366,838 for the 1972-1973 school year.

This is about 14% over the last budget and anticipates an enrollment increase of about 30%.

The board also gave tentative approval to an additional budget of $1,040,000 for the Central Nebraska Tech Community College area, developed after its merger with Platte College of Columbus. This will go in part for additional retirement services, sinking funds, construction, etc., both in Columbus and Hastings.

20 Embassies Notified Of NU Meet

U.S. Secretary of State William P. Rogers has notified embassies in 20 South American countries of a conference on the scientific and technological gap in Latin America at the University of Nebraska this spring, university officials said Tuesday.

The special conference April 17-18 is the subject of the 1972 Montgomery Lecture program, according to Dr. Roberto Esquenazi-Mayo, director of the NU Institute of Latin American and International Studies.

LOMR To Seek 'Program Depth'

The Lancaster Office of Mental Retardation will work to provide "program depth" in the coming year, John Luebs, director of LOMR said Tuesday.

Speaking at a meeting of the Nebraska Welfare Association Chapter Five, he said LOMR would operate under the concept that it should "pull in its horns" and evaluate the services it could realistically provide.

Luebs noted that since LOMR was created almost two years ago it had grown to an agency with an annual budget of $700,000.

"We've grown rapidly, perhaps too rapidly," he said.

He said that although LOMR had developed a "broad spectrum of services," it has not been able to develop a control or evaluative mechanism to go along with them.

Luebs . . . tells plans.

Working for depth in existing programs could lead to solving problems which lead to investigations, he said.

LOMR activities are currently being reviewed by a committee established by the Lancaster County Commissioners.

Luebs said training would be a key issue in the coming year.

He noted that house parents for LOMR hostels for retarded children and adults "receive darn little training."

"Their training is that provided by a caseworker already burdened with job requirements," he said.

NWU Board Approves New Residence Hall Program

The Board of Governors of Nebraska Wesleyan University has approved a program to encourage responsibility and self-government in residence halls and to integrate freshmen into the university community.

The "policy statement for selft-government" calls for a pilot project for the Centennial Hall living unit that would provide rooms for faculty and persons outside the Wesleyan community to live temporarily in the residence hall to encourage discussion and dialogue.

The policy statement, which was submitted to the board by a special committee of students, faculty, alumni and parents, also called for smaller, more cohesive self-government units in Centennial Hall.

The board also accepted a proposal that freshmen be integrated into the residence halls instead of putting freshmen together in one dormitory as is now the practice.

Stander Goes Out Of Town

A couple of years ago after watching Council Bluffs heavyweight Ron Stander score what he thought was an impressive victory in a preliminary bout on an Omaha fight card, an Omaha radio man, hoping to give Stander a boost via the air waves to the local folks, leaned back in his chair at ringside.

The reason he was leaning back was to ask former light heavyweight champion Archie Moore, seated behind him, if he'd mind saying a few words for public consumption.

Moore obviously wasn't as impressed with Stander as the radio man had hoped he would be with Stander's performance.

"I understand he's got a good record," Moore said, speaking into the microphone of the tape record, "But I didn't seen enough of him tonight to tell how good he is

"There's a hundred heavyweights around with good records, who haven't been out of town yet."

Stander went out of town last weekend and out the window went his unbeaten record, losing a split decision to some guy from Phoenix, Ariz., by the name of Reco Brooks.

An Unimpressive Performance

Not only did Stander lose a decision, but he didn't do much to impress folks in Denver, who viewed the action

"Ron Stander, the roly poly, undefeated, eighth-ranked heavyweight, was a shocking disappointment in his split decision loss to Reco Brooks, a neophyte in pro ring techniques," Leonard Cahn of the Rocky Mountain News wrote.

That's an observation from Cahn's Pro And Cahn column In his story on the fights which included Denver's own heavyweight Ron Lyle extending his unbeaten string, Cahn allowed

"There's no doubt about Lyle being the all-time drawing card in Denver boxing and his performance by comparison with the other heavyweights on the card merely enhanced his appeal for the worshipping home folk

"Stander, a rotund 220 pounder with a mauling style, was a big disappointment in a bout which during the late stages had the fans stamping their feet and booing to show their disapproval.

"Brooks, a 210 pounder out of Phoenix and short on experience landed the most clean punches as the two fought nearly all the way at close range

"Stander, tucking his head under his 6-2 opponent's chin, concentrated on the body and did land frequently with left hooks He was most effective when he had Brooks backing into the ropes

"At the finish Brooks, who won his 12th fight against a single loss and one draw, had a swelling over his right eye"

Brooks Also Unhappy

United Press International's Tracy Ringolsby Jr noted that the fans weren't the only ones disgusted with the fight

Brooks was disgusted with his bout against the highly-touted Stander," the UPI scribe wrote. "Stander left his head virtually unguarded and went straight for the taller Brooks' mid-section.

"But Brooks, who had an 11-inch reach advantage on Stander, wasn't phased and appeared more relaxed when the fight came to an end

"Stander was bleeding badly from the face when the bout ended, suffering from a sixth-round gash over his right eye and bleeding from both nostrils"

Last week Stander boasted to a Denver Post writer that he was the biggest drawing card in the Midwest.

After Saturday night, the Midwest on his map has shrunk to include only that area bordered by the streets surrounding the Omaha Civic Auditorium

Huskers To Put Big Eight Lead To Road Test

. . . NEBRASKA TAKES 3-0 MARK AGAINST LAST-PLACE COWBOYS

Stillwater, Okla. — Oklahoma State epitomizes the unpredictability of Big Eight basketball.

"Every game for the past three or four they've changed the tempo at halftime," says Nebraska coach Joe Cipriano whose first-place Huskers meet last-place Oklahoma State at 7:35 p.m. here at Gallagher Hall Wednesday.

"When they played us at home (a 73-59 NU triumph), they got us up and down the court and it was 47-35 at the half," Cipriano recalls, "Then in the second half they used their slow-down game and we only scored 26 points."

Against Missouri, the Cowboys took just 54 shots in dropping a 74-67 decision to the Tigers, but OSU had 67 shots against a Kansas State zone in a 66-64 defeat.

"He (coach Sam Aubrey) can just about sell them on anything at this stage," Cipriano noted. "But I would think that they'd use more of an open offense against us and use one-on-one situations."

Carrying a five-game winning streak and a league record of 3-0 and an overall mark of 10-5, Nebraska could travel here with overconfidence. OSU is winless in five league contests and has dropped 15 of 17 games.

"You could go down to Stillwater and overlook them," Cipriano adds, "But we're in a position to stay on top and I don't think we'll be overconfident."

Terming the key to the seasons third meeting (NU claimed a 64-56 Big Eight Tournament verdict in Kansas City) as defense and rebounding, Cipriano noted two contrasting points.

"I hope that their playing three games in five days might be a point in our favor, but were also coming off an 11-day layoff," Cipriano said.

Nebraska has been idle since Jan. 15 when it stopped Colorado in the Coliseum. However, NU has drilled on timing, presses and improving some of its offensive situations.

The lack of playing dates also gave guards Al Nissen and Tony Riehl time to recuperate from their ankle injuries.

Although both Nissen and Riehl may start Wednesday, junior Tom Gregory will get the starter's position if the injuries prevail.

The southern trip is NU's first road encounter of the young Big Eight season

—SE DISTRICT GLOVES TOURNEY OPENS—

Four Past Champs Eyeing Another Title

By RANDY EICKHOFF
Star Sports Writer

Some defending champions and one entire boxing club will be missing from the lineup as the Southeast District Golden Gloves Tournament begins Wednesday at 8 p.m. at Pershing Auditorium.

Easterday Boxing Club, coached by Ivan Slosson and last year's team champion, will be missing from the lineup because "the fighters don't want to train," according to Slosson.

Slosson says he doubts if Easterday will field any fighters for the district tournament and adds that he hasn't seen defending 178-pound champion Dave Hill for "about six weeks"

Last year, the Easterday Boxing Club had seven boxers who won titles and nine who made the finals with Hill winning the outstanding sportsmanship trophy.

But this year it appears that the team trophy will be a toss-up between the Randy Nelsen-coached Lincoln Saylor Boxing Club and the Branding Iron stable.

Nelsen, 26, last year's 165-pound champion, has won three tickets to the Midwest Golden Gloves in Omaha during past tournaments and will be seeking a fourth trip thanks to 1972 being an "Olympic year" where the age limit is raised to 29

But one stumbling block in Nelsen's path is Dan Griffin of Fairbury, last year's 156-pound champion.

Griffin, who lost a decision to Nelsen during the last Lincoln boxing smoker, moved up another weight class to 165.

Branding Iron's Mike Wilson, who fought last year for the now-defunct Roberts club, is defending champion at 132 and past three-time winner trying to win another ticket to the Midwest Championships while stablemate Monte Cady will be after his third trip

Cady was decisioned in the semifinals by Hill last year, but feels that he is stronger this year and more experienced.

With the exception of these fighters, however, the weight classes appear open unless one of the defending champions decides to try again as an independent or teams up with another club at the last minute.

Weigh-ins for the tournament will be from 3 to 5 p.m. in Room 124 at the auditorium.

NWU HITS CONCORDIA Strain Sparks 82-72 Triumph

. . . PLAINSMEN REACH .500

By STEVE GILLISPIE
Star Sports Writer

Seward — The Nebraska Wesleyan basketball team cleared a big hurdle here Tuesday night.

The Plainsmen defeated Concordia, 82-72, in a Nebraska Intercollegiate Athletic Conference game. The win not only keeps NWU unbeaten in NIAC games, 2-0, but gives the team a .500 mark, 8-8, for the first time this season.

The victory, which stretches over two seasons, broke a three-game losing streak, against the Bulldogs.

Concordia took both regular season games from the Plainsmen last year and won an overtime contest at the pre-season NIAC tournament in December. The last time NWU had beaten the Bulldogs was in December, 1970, at Hastings in the pre-season NIAC meet.

And the Plainsmen didn't have an easy time against a team which was trying to break a five-game losing streak.

The lead changed back and forth in the first half until NWU's John Strain hit a field goal and was fouled with 5:55 left That basket tied the score, 25-all, but Strain completed a three-point play and Wesleyan never trailed after that

The Plainsmen then untracked their fast break and raced to a 41-32 halftime advantage.

Earlier in the first half, Concordia had shut off NWU's running game by hustling back on defense when it was evident a Wesleyan player had the rebound However, the Bulldogs became a little lax as the intermission neared and the Plainsmen took advantage

NWU widened its margin in the second half to 63-47 with 10:47 remaining but then Concordia started a rally.

As Wesleyan went into a ball control game, the Bulldogs scored eight straight points The Plainsmen finally scored when Reidell Lintz connected a fielder with 6.42 remaining

That made the score 65-54, but Concordia didn't falter and whittled down the lead to six, 68-62, with 4.23 left

That was as close as the Bulldogs came. Strain sank two free throws with four minutes to go upping NWU's lead to eight, 70-62. A basket by Mike Benken and two free throws by Lintz pushed the Plainsmen's advantage to 12, 74-62, at the 2:55 mark.

The teams then almost traded points until the game ended.

Strain, after missing his first four field goal attempts, finished with a game-high of 27 points. Teammate Renken turned in one of his best performances with 22 rebounds and 18 points, including eight of 14 from the field.

Dick French and Lyle Hiatt added 13 and 12 points for Wesleyan respectively.

The Bulldogs' Ron Schroeder proved to be a thorn for the Plainsmen, making 12 of 19 from the field and two of two free throws. His 26 points was high for Concordia with Kevin Kreger next with 15 points.

The Bulldogs drop to a 6-11 record and next travel to Crete for a clash with Doane on Saturday.

The Plainsmen play Midland at Fremont on Friday.

NU Football Staff Rift Disputed By Corgan

Some Nebraska football staff members may have been disappointed, but not discontented, following the recent elevation of Tom Osborne to an assistant head coach position

Offensive line coach Carl Selmer, speaking at the McCook Jaycees Bosses Night banquet Friday night indicated that older members of the staff were "certainly disappointed" by the move.

Selmer added that he hoped the naming of Osborne as heir apparent to head coach Bob Devaney would not hurt the quality of the coaching staff. "If I'm going to coach, I'm going to coach good" he said.

The report of a post-banquet question and answer session was made by Gene Morris of the McCook Gazette.

In Lincoln, offensive backfield coach Mike Corgan said, "speaking for myself, I don't feel that way

Corgan indicted he didn't feel he had been in the picture as Devaney's successor

Linebacker coach John Melton noted that a real estate salesman had contacted him about selling his house "the very night Beb made the announcement," but that a move wasn't on his mind at the present.

"The big thing is to win that third national championship. That's all I'm thinking. After that I guess we'll just have to wait and see All I know is that we (assistants) are on one-year contracts and I have a contract until January"

—STEIGER ACCUSES CINCINNATI'S JACOBS—

Kennedy: NBA Taking Action

Washington (AP) — The commissioner of the National Basketball Association said Tuesday his office is not ignoring accusations that a club owner is linked to organized crime.

"We're not turning our back on it," commissioner Walter Kennedy declared before the Senate subcommittee on anti-trust and monopoly.

Kennedy's assertion followed allegations by Rep. Sam Steiger, R-Ariz., that Cincinnati Royals owner Jerry Jacobs has organized crime links through a holding company called Emprise Corp.

The exchange came as the subcommittee continued its hearings on a bill to permit merger of the two professional basketball leagues.

Steiger said Emprise operates a number of subsidiaries known as "Sportservices."

"Their history," he said of Jerry Jacobs and his brother, Max, the operating head of the Royals, "is replete with reports of business associations with underworld and organized crime figures.

"The moral is clear," said Steiger, a long-time foe of Emprise and its owner. "It's all right to do business with organized crime, provided you do enough business with the standard setters of organized sports"

Under questioning by Sen. Sam J Ervin Jr., D-N.C. about what action was being taken, Kennedy replied, "I deeply resent the inference that the office of commissioner of the NBA is totally unaware of what is going on and not doing anything about."

Testifying on the merger bill, American Basketball Association Commissioner Jack Dolph declared that pro basketball's troubles have moved beyond the mere serious to the critical stage.

"And to lose sight of the main issue at hand, the merits of the merger, can sound the death knell of professional league basketball as we know it today, as surely as if relief were denied," Dolph said.

He said every ABA franchise has operated at a loss every season. He named as the chief culprit "the intense interleague fight to sign college superstars . . ."

The merger, with its common draft, he said, would end "the bidding war for untested rookies" and eliminate "the single, most destructive economic factor to the well-being of professional league basketball . . ."

Unbeaten Mead Still Leads Class D Basketball Ratings

By VIRGIL PARKER
Prep Sports Writer

While unbeaten Mead continues to pace the Class D high school basketball top ten ratings, three new teams join the small school's select group this week.

Byron, Hampton and Giltner make their initial appearance of the season as they are ranked seventh, eighth and ninth. The trio replaces Sidney St. Patrick, Silver Creek and Chester-Hubbell.

One other change occurs as Palmer, previously in the runnerup spot, slides to fourth after losing its first game of the season to Class C Stromsburg in the Goldenrod Conference tourney last week.

That allows Yutan, a loser twice in 11 starts — but both times to Mead — to take over the No. 2 position. Adams, which has dropped only encounters with Class C Tri-County and Yutan, becomes third.

When Sidney St. Pat's fell out from fifth place after losing to unranked Harrisburg and Dix in Minuteman Conference play, Bartlett and Niobrara both moved up one notch.

Silver Creek, eighth last week, dropped two in the Goldenrod Conference tourney to lose its place, while Chester-Hubbell lost by 15 points to Friend, a team beaten by unranked Shickley by ten.

But the latter two get the nod over their conqueror since Marquette has dropped contests to Hordville and Clarks, which are unrated. On the other hand, Hampton and Giltner sport identical 9-1 records.

Byron gains the highest spot on the three new teams despite two losses in each defeat the Broncos, who have averaged over 80 points a game, were without several key members of their high-scoring machine

Stander Goes Out Of Town

A couple of years ago after watching Council Bluffs heavyweight Ron Stander score what he thought was an impressive victory in a preliminary bout on an Omaha fight card, an Omaha radio man, hoping to give Stander a boost via the air waves to the local folks, leaned back in his chair at ringside.

The reason he was leaning back was to ask former light heavyweight champion Archie Moore, seated behind him, if he'd mind saying a few words for public consumption.

Moore obviously wasn't as impressed with Stander as the radio man had hoped he would be with Stander's performance.

"I understand he's got a good record," Moore said, speaking into the microphone of the tape record, "But I didn't seen enough of him tonight to tell how good he is.

"There's a hundred heavyweights around with good records, who haven't been out of town yet."

Stander went out of town last weekend and out the window went his unbeaten record, losing a split decision to some guy from Phoenix, Ariz., by the name of Reco Brooks.

An Unimpressive Performance

Not only did Stander lose a decision, but he didn't do much to impress folks in Denver, who viewed the action.

"Ron Stander, the roly poly, undefeated, eighth-ranked heavyweight, was a shocking disappointment in his split decision loss to Reco Brooks, a neophyte in pro ring techniques," Leonard Cahn of the Rocky Mountain News wrote.

That's an observation from Cahn's Pro And Cahn column. In his story on the fights which included Denver's own heavyweight Ron Lyle extending his unbeaten string, Cahn allowed:

"There's no doubt about Lyle being the all-time drawing card in Denver boxing and his performance by comparison with the other heavyweights on the card merely enhanced his appeal for the worshipping home folk.

"Stander, a rotund 220 pounder with a mauling style, was a big disappointment in a bout which during the late stages had the fans stamping their feet and booing to show their disapproval.

"Brooks, a 210 pounder out of Phoenix and short on experience, landed the most clean punches as the two fought nearly all the way at close range.

"Stander, tucking his head under his 6-2 opponent's chin, concentrated on the body and did land frequently with left hooks. He was most effective when he had Brooks backing into the ropes.

"At the finish Brooks, who won his 12th fight against a single loss and one draw, had a swelling over his right eye."

Brooks Also Unhappy

United Press International's Tracy Ringolsby Jr. noted that the fans weren't the only ones disgusted with the fight.

Brooks was disgusted with his bout against the highly-touted Stander," the UPI scribe wrote. "Stander left his head virtually unguarded and went straight for the taller Brooks' mid-section.

"But Brooks, who had an 11-inch reach advantage on Stander, wasn't phased and appeared more relaxed when the fight came to an end.

"Stander was bleeding badly from the face when the bout ended, suffering from a sixth-round gash over his right eye and bleeding from both nostrils."

Last week Stander boasted to a Denver Post writer that he was the biggest drawing card in the Midwest.

After Saturday night, the Midwest on his map has shrunk to include only that area bordered by the streets surrounding the Omaha Civic Auditorium.

Huskers To Put Big Eight Lead To Road Test

. . . NEBRASKA TAKES 3-0 MARK AGAINST LAST-PLACE COWBOYS

Stillwater, Okla. — Oklahoma State epitomizes the unpredictability of Big Eight basketball.

"Every game for the past three or four they've changed the tempo at halftime," says Nebraska coach Joe Cipriano whose first-place Huskers meet last-place Oklahoma State at 7:35 p.m. here at Gallagher Hall Wednesday.

"When they played us at home (a 73-59 NU triumph), they got us up and down the court and it was 47-35 at the half," Cipriano recalls, "Then in the second half they used their slow-down game and we only scored 26 points."

Against Missouri, the Cowboys took just 54 shots in dropping a 74-67 decision to the Tigers, but OSU had 67 shots against a Kansas State zone in a 66-64 defeat.

"He (coach Sam Aubrey) can just about sell them on anything at this stage," Cipriano noted. "But I would think that they'd use more of an open offense against us and use one-on-one situations."

Carrying a five-game winning streak and a league record of 3-0 and an overall mark of 10-5, Nebraska could travel here with overconfidence. OSU is winless in five league contests and has dropped 15 of 17 games.

"You could go down to Stillwater and overlook them," Cipriano adds, "But we're in a position to stay on top and I don't think we'll be overconfident."

Terming the key to the seasons third meeting (NU claimed a 64-56 Big Eight Tournament verdict in Kansas City) as defense and rebounding, Cipriano noted two contrasting points.

"I hope that their playing three games in five days might be a point in our favor, but were also coming off an 11-day layoff," Cipriano said.

Nebraska has been idle since Jan. 15 when it stopped Colorado in the Coliseum. However, NU has drilled on timing, presses and improving some of its offensive situations.

The lack of playing dates also gave guards Al Nissen and Tony Riehl time to recuperate from their ankle injuries.

Although both Nissen and Riehl may start Wednesday, junior Tom Gregory will get the starter's position if the injuries prevail.

The southern trip is NU's first road encounter of the young Big Eight season

—SE DISTRICT GLOVES TOURNEY OPENS—

Four Past Champs Eyeing Another Title

By RANDY EICKHOFF
Star Sports Writer

Some defending champions and one entire boxing club will be missing from the lineup as the Southeast District Golden Gloves Tournament begins Wednesday at 8 p.m. at Pershing Auditorium.

Easterday Boxing Club, coached by Ivan Slosson and last year's team champion, will be missing from the lineup because "the fighters don't want to train," according to Slosson.

Slosson says he doubts if Easterday will field any fighters for the district tournament and adds that he hasn't seen defending 178-pound champion Dave Hill for "about six weeks."

Last year, the Easterday Boxing Club had seven boxers who won titles and nine who made the finals with Hill winning the outstanding sportsmanship trophy.

But this year it appears that the team trophy will be a toss-up between the Randy Nelsen-coached Lincoln Saylor Boxing Club and the Branding Iron stable.

Nelsen, 26, last year's 165-pound champion, has won three tickets to the Midwest Golden Gloves in Omaha during past tournaments and will be seeking a fourth trip thanks to 1972 being an "Olympic year" where the age limit is raised to 29.

But one stumbling block in Nelsen's path is Dan Griffin of Fairbury, last year's 156-pound champion.

Griffin, who lost a decision to Nelsen during the last Lincoln boxing smoker, moved up another weight class to 165.

Branding Iron's Mike Wilson, who fought last year for the now-defunct Roberts club, is defending champion at 132 and past three-time winner trying to win another ticket to the Midwest Championships while stablemate Monte Cady will be after his third trip.

Cady was decisioned in the semifinals by Hill last year, but feels that he is stronger this year and more experienced.

With the exception of these fighters, however, the weight classes appear open unless one of the defending champions decides to try again as an independent or teams up with another club at the last minute.

Weigh-ins for the tournament will be from 3 to 5 p.m. in Room 124 at the auditorium.

NWU HITS CONCORDIA Strain Sparks 82-72 Triumph

. . . PLAINSMEN REACH .500

By STEVE GILLISPIE
Star Sports Writer

Seward — The Nebraska Wesleyan basketball team cleared a big hurdle here Tuesday night.

The Plainsmen defeated Concordia, 82-72, in a Nebraska Intercollegiate Athletic Conference game. The win not only keeps NWU unbeaten in NIAC games, 2-0, but gives the team a .500 mark, 8-8, for the first time this season.

The victory, which stretches over two seasons, broke a three-game losing streak, against the Bulldogs.

Concordia took both regular season games from the Plainsmen last year and won an overtime contest at the pre-season NIAC tournament in December. The last time NWU had beaten the Bulldogs was in December, 1970, at Hastings in the pre-season NIAC meet.

And the Plainsmen didn't have an easy time against a team which was trying to break a five-game losing streak.

The lead changed back and forth in the first half until NWU's John Strain hit a field goal and was fouled with 5:55 left. That basket tied the score, 25-all, but Strain completed a three-point play and Wesleyan never trailed after that.

The Plainsmen then untracked their fast break and raced to a 41-32 halftime advantage.

Earlier in the first half, Concordia had shut off NWU's running game by hustling back on defense when it was evident a Wesleyan player had the rebound. However, the Bulldogs became a little lax as the intermission neared and the Plainsmen took advantage.

NWU widened its margin in the second half to 63-47 with 10:47 remaining but then Concordia started a rally.

As Wesleyan went into a ball control game, the Bulldogs scored eight straight points. The Plainsmen finally scored when Reidell Lintz connected a fielder with 6:42 remaining.

That made the score, 65-54, but Concordia didn't falter and whittled down the lead to six, 68-62, with 4:23 left.

That was as close as the Bulldogs came. Strain sank two free throws with four minutes to go upping NWU's lead to eight, 70-62. A basket by Mike Benken and two free throws by Lintz pushed the Plainsmen's advantage to 12, 74-62, at the 2:55 mark.

The teams then almost traded points until the game ended.

Strain, after missing his first four field goal attempts, finished with a game-high of 27 points. Teammate Renken turned in one of his best performances with 22 rebounds and 18 points, including eight of 14 from the field.

Dick French and Lyle Hiatt added 13 and 12 points for Wesleyan respectively.

The Bulldogs' Ron Schroeder proved to be a thorn for the Plainsmen, making 12 of 19 from the field and two of two free throws. His 26 points was high for Concordia with Kevin Kreger next with 15 points.

The Bulldogs drop to a 6-11 record and next travel to Crete for a clash with Doane on Saturday.

The Plainsmen play Midland at Fremont on Friday.

—STEIGER ACCUSES CINCINNATI'S JACOBS—

Kennedy: NBA Taking Action

Washington (AP) — The commissioner of the National Basketball Association said Tuesday his office is not ignoring accusations that a club owner is linked to organized crime.

"We're not turning our back on it," commissioner Walter Kennedy declared before the Senate subcommittee on anti-trust and monopoly.

Kennedy's assertion followed allegations by Rep. Sam Steiger, R-Ariz., that Cincinnati Royals owner Jerry Jacobs has organized crime links through a holding company called Emprise Corp.

The exchange came as the subcommittee continued its hearings on a bill to permit merger of the two professional basketball leagues.

Steiger said Emprise operates a number of subsidiaries known as "Sportservices."

"Their history," he said of Jerry Jacobs and his brother, Max, the operating head of the Royals, "is replete with reports of business associations with underworld and organized crime figures.

"The moral is clear," said Steiger, a long-time foe of Emprise and its owner. "It's all right to do business with organized crime, provided you do enough business with the standard setters of organized sports."

Under questioning by Sen. Sam J. Ervin Jr., D-N.C. about what action was being taken, Kennedy replied, "I deeply resent the inference that the office of commissioner of the NBA is totally unaware of what is going on and not doing anything about."

Testifying on the merger bill, American Basketball Association Commissioner Jack Dolph declared that pro basketball's troubles have moved beyond the mere serious to the critical stage.

"And to lose sight of the main issue at hand, the merits of the merger, can sound the death knell of professional league basketball as we know it today, as surely as if relief were denied," Dolph said.

He said every ABA franchise has operated at a loss every season. He named as the chief culprit "the intense interleague fight to sign college superstars . . ."

The merger, with its common draft, he said, would end "the bidding war for untested rookies" and eliminate "the single, most destructive economic factor to the well-being of professional league basketball . . ."

First-Round Pairings Made For Midlands Tennis Meet

Omaha (UPI) — Tom Gorman, top-seeded American, will meet Georges Goven, No. 1 ranked French star, in opening singles competition at the Midlands International Tennis Championships late Wednesday.

Second-seeded Jim Connors, with two indoor circuit wins in the last two weeks, will play Milan Holecek, top-rated in Czechoslovakia, in Thursday's opening match of the five-day tourney.

The No. 1 foreign seed, Ilie Nastase of Rumania, is paired against Mike Belkin, top-ranked Canadian, Thursday night, while local pro Bill Brown has drawn the second-seeded foreign star, Andre Gimeno of Spain, in Wednesday's late match.

Other pairings Wednesday are Alex Olmedo of the U.S. and Jaime Fillol of Chile, Ion Tiriac of Rumania and Frank A. Froehling of the U.S. Completing the Thursday card are Tom Edlefsen of the U.S. and Manuel Orantes of Spain, and Erik Van Dillen of the U.S. against Thomas Koch of Brazil.

Drawing for doubles competition was expected as the tourney got underway.

The tournament offers $15,000 in prize money.

Connors, 19-year-old from Belleville, Ill., is currently one of the better American stars who turned pro two weeks ago. He won the singles in the Roanoke International Tournament Sunday and teamed with Haroon Rahim of Pakistan to win the doubles at Roanoke.

Unbeaten Mead Still Leads Class D Basketball Ratings

By VIRGIL PARKER
Prep Sports Writer

While unbeaten Mead continues to pace the Class D high school basketball top ten ratings, three new teams join the small school's select group this week.

Byron, Hampton and Giltner make their initial appearance of the season as they are ranked seventh, eighth and ninth. The trio replaces Sidney St. Patrick, Silver Creek and Chester-Hubbell.

One other change occurs as Palmer, previously in the runnerup spot, slides to fourth after losing its first game of the season to Class C Stromsburg in the Goldenrod Conference tourney last week.

That allows Yutan, a loser twice in 11 starts — but both times to Mead — to take over the No. 2 position. Adams, which has dropped only encounters with Class C Tri-County and Yutan, becomes third.

When Sidney St. Pat's fell out from fifth place after losing to unranked Harrisburg and Dix in Minuteman Conference play, Bartlett and Niobrara both moved up one notch.

Silver Creek, eighth last week, dropped two in the Goldenrod Conference tourney to lose its place, while Chester-Hubbell lost by 15 points to Friend, a team beaten by unranked Shickley by ten.

But the latter two get the nod over their conqueror since Marquette has dropped contests to Hordville and Clarks, which are unrated. On the other hand, Hampton and Giltner sport identical 9-1 records.

Byron gains the highest spot on the three new teams despite two losses. In each defeat the Broncos, who have averaged over 80 points a game, were without several key members of their high-scoring machine.

Alpine Skiing Eligibility Under IOC Discussion

. . . MEETINGS BEGIN WEDNESDAY

Tokyo (UPI) — The Eligibility Committee of the International Olympic Committee begins a two-day meeting Wednesday that could determine the success of the Winter Olympic Games.

The eligibility of individual Alpine skiers, who have come upon heavy criticism from IOC Chairman Avery Brundage, will be determined by the committee. The outcome will be announced Jan. 31 in Sapporo, site of the winter games Feb. 3-13.

Brundage has been threatening to bar numerous Alpine skiers from European countries because of violations of amateur rules, a move that could eliminate the glamor event from Olympic recognition and at the same time possibly cause a cancellation of the $6.4 million television contract now in effect with the National Broadcasting Company.

However, after sounding out threats in prior weeks, Brundage arrived in Tokyo Monday and immediately assured newsmen, "in case you're worried, the games are going to be held according to schedule and are going to be a great success."

Addressing the Japanese National Press Club Tuesday, Brundage said he wasn't going to disqualify anyone from the Olympics. He said it was up to the eligibility committee of the IOC to determine that.

"We will admit those interested in sports for sports sake and exclude those interested in sports for financial reasons," Brundage said. "As for disqualifying athletes, that's done by committees created for that purpose. I don't disqualify people."

The 84-year-old millionaire from Chicago added, however, "the eligibility committee is well acquainted with my views."

Omahan Piper Signs Farm Club Contract

Montreal (AP) — Wayne Piper, the big right-hander from Omaha, picked No. 1 by the Montreal Expos in the free-agent draft earlier this month, has been signed to a minor league contract by the National League club.

Piper, 19, stands 6-10 and weighs 227 pounds.

Upsets Alter UPI Ratings

Help Needed From Counties To Protect State Wildlife

County commissioners throughout most of Nebraska can again aid the state's pheasant, quail, and other wildlife populations through their management of county roadsides, according to the Game and Parks Commission.

In the past, county commissioners have co-operated by delaying mowing of roadsides until July 15 whenever possible, so that wildlife could make use of these narrow bands of cover as nesting sites. In a letter sent to all county commissions in Nebraska, Game and Parks Commission Director Willard Barbee explained that 25 percent of Nebraska's pheasants are hatched in rural roadside ditches, and leaving more cover there undisturbed until mid-July would allow for even more successful nests.

Many county commissions establish their policies on roadside management early in the year, and the needs of wildlife should be considered when making these decisions. Even if counties are unable or unwilling to leave the entire ditch undisturbed, they could help nesting success by mowing only a portion nearest the roadway. Most pheasant, quail, and other wildlife nests are generally found between the center of the ditch and the outside boundary of the right of way.

Roadsides have become increasingly important for pheasants because the demand on farm land for the production of cash crops has brought on the eradication of much permanent cover in which game birds can safely nest. Corn and milo fields can be used as rearing grounds, but hens cannot nest there.

NHL Franchises To Join West, East Divisions

St. Paul-Minneapolis (AP) — The National Hockey League solved its realignment problem Tuesday by assigning the new Long Island and Atlanta franchises to the already existing East and West Divisions.

The NHL also announced that the Western and Central Leagues would merge next season. Each league has six member teams and the new merged circuit would operate with two divisions.

Beatrice's Roach Nabs Prep Player Accolade

. . . SCORES 28 POINTS AGAINST KNIGHTS

By VIRGIL PARKER
Prep Sports Writer

Bill Roach of Beatrice disproved the theory that basketball is only a game for the tall and gangly last weekend and in doing so earned himself Player of the Week honors.

The 5-7 junior guard for the Orangemen pumped in 28 points against Lincoln Southeast to pace Beatrice to a 63-59 victory

Roach not only grabbed game-high scoring honors, but accounted for the triumph when he hit a go-ahead bucket with just 34 seconds remaining in the contest and then preserved the win by connecting on three crucial free throws in the waning moments.

Roach's final fielder gave Beatrice a 60-59 edge, while his three charity tosses produced the final score, thus accounting for the last five points tallied in the close game.

Others who had outstanding games over the past weekend and thus deserve special recognition include

Scott Clark, Chappell — Poured in 35 points as Class D Chappell topped Class B Kimball — which had earlier beaten Class B rated Sidney — 76-59

Bill O'Neill, Imperial — His mid-court desperation heave with two seconds left swished through to give Imperial a 62-60 win over Paxton.

Dave Urbanski, Loup City — Knocked in 26 long-range poin'ts from his guard spot to lead Loup City into the Class B ratings with a 78-72 victory over Hastings St. Cecilia Dan Sorge, Geneva — Scored 25 points to pace the Class C Wildcats to a 75-52 triumph over Minden, a team which the night before had knocked Holdrege out of the Class B top ten ratings.

Tom Westover, Lincoln Northeast — His nine consecutive points — and game-high total of 22 — propelled the Rockets to a 49-39 win over Lincoln Pius X.

Joe Kinyoun, Superior — His basket with 11 seconds remaining gave Superior a come-from-behind 66-65 victory over Hebron.

Perry Broders, Bloomfield — Averaged 19 points and 11 rebounds in three wins for the Bees last week to add Bloomfield to its current 11-2 overall season record.

Jim Morris, Southeast Consolidated — Tallied 60 points over the weekend, 30 in each game, as Southeast beat Dawson-Verdon, 80-67, and Nebraska City Lourdes, 102-70.

Wes Rademaker, Loomis — With leading scorer Rick Cruise sidelined with the flu, Wes made his first start of the season an impressive one, scoring 12 points, pulling down 15 rebounds, getting three steals, four assists and blocking several shots in a 61-44 win over Kearney Catholic.

Bob Whitemore, McCool Junction — A gremlin in the typewriter last week had Bob from the wrong school when he gained notice after scoring 13 of his game-high 25 points in one quarter to break open a tight game and lead McCool to a 85-52 victory over Bradshaw.

Crenshaw Receives College Golf Award

Columbus, Ohio (UPI) — Ben Crenshaw of the University of Texas, the first freshman ever to win the NCAA golf title, will be honored as the college Golfer of the Year at the Touchdown Club of Columbus' 17th annual awards dinner.

Besides his NCAA Title last year, Crenshaw also captured the Eastern Amateur and Southern Amateur titles and was also the low amateur in the 1970 U.S. Amateur.

Pittsburgh Absence Investigated

Pittsburgh (UPI) — The American Basketball Association acknowledged Tuesday it was "looking into" the Pittsburgh Condors' failure to arrive for a game at New York last week, an act that could cost the club a $5,000 fine.

But the Condors said the league ought to be looking into the travel agency which booked the team on a non-existent flight from Greensboro, N.C., to New York.

Mazeroski Signs Pact

Pittsburgh (UPI) — Bill Mazeroski, an eight-time national League Golden Glove winner at second base, signed his 1972 contract Monday with the Pittsburgh Pirates.

Crenshaw Receives College Golf Award

Columbus, Ohio (UPI) — Ben Crenshaw of the University of Texas, the first freshman ever to win the NCAA golf title, will be honored as the college Golfer of the Year at the Touchdown Club of Columbus' 17th annual awards dinner.

Besides his NCAA Title last year, Crenshaw also captured the Eastern Amateur and Southern Amateur titles and was also the low amateur in the 1970 U.S. Amateur.

Pittsburgh Absence Investigated

Pittsburgh (UPI) — The American Basketball Association acknowledged Tuesday it was "looking into" the Pittsburgh Condors' failure to arrive for a game at New York last week, an act that could cost the club a $5,000 fine.

But the Condors said the league ought to be looking into the travel agency which booked the team on a non-existent flight from Greensboro, N.C., to New York.

Alpine Skiing Eligibility Under IOC Discussion

. . . MEETINGS BEGIN WEDNESDAY

Tokyo (UPI) — The Eligibility Committee of the International Olympic Committee begins a two-day meeting Wednesday that could determine the success of the Winter Olympic Games

The eligibility of individual Alpine skiers, who have come upon heavy criticism from IOC Chairman Avery Brundage, will be determined by the committee. The outcome will be announced Jan. 31 in Sapporo, site of the winter games Feb. 3-13.

Brundage has been threatening to bar numerous Alpine skiers from European countries because of violations of amateur rules, a move that could eliminate the glamor event from Olympic recognition and at the same time possibly cause a cancellation of the $6.4 million television contract now in effect with the National Broadcasting Company

However, after sounding out threats in prior weeks, Brundage arrived in Tokyo Monday and immediately assured newsmen "in case you're worried, the games are going to be held according to schedule and are going to be a great success."

Addressing the Japanese National Press Club Tuesday, Brundage said he wasn't going to disqualify anyone from the Olympics. He said it was up to the eligibility committee of the IOC to determine that

"We will admit those interested in sports for sports sake and exclude those interested in sports for financial reasons." Brundage said. "As for disqualifying athletes, that's done by committees created for that purpose. I don't disqualify people."

The 84-year-old millionaire from Chicago added, however, "the eligibility committee is well acquainted with my views."

Omahan Piper Signs Farm Club Contract

Help Needed From Counties To Protect State Wildlife

County commissioners throughout most of Nebraska can again aid the state's pheasant, quail, and other wildlife populations through their management of county roadsides, according to the Game and Parks Commission

In the past, county commissioners have co-operated by delaying mowing of roadsides until July 15 whenever possible, so that wildlife could make use of these narrow bands of cover as nesting sites. In a letter sent to all county commissions in Nebraska, Game and Parks Commission Director Willard Barbee explained that 25 percent of Nebraska's pheasants are hatched in rural roadside ditches, and leaving more cover there undisturbed until mid-July would allow for even more successful nests.

Many county commissions establish their policies on roadside management early in the year, and the needs of wildlife should be considered when making these decisions Even if counties are unable or unwilling to leave the entire ditch undisturbed, they could help nesting success by mowing only a portion nearest the roadway Most pheasant, quail, and other wildlife nests are generally found between the center of the ditch and the outside boundary of the right of way

Roadsides have become increasingly important for pheasants because the demand on farm land for the production of cash crops has brought on the eradication of much permanent cover in which game birds can safely nest. Corn and milo fields can be used as rearing grounds, but hens cannot nest there.

Farm Credit Bank Officials Report Highly Improved Outlook For 1972

Omaha (UPI) — Officials of the farm credit banks of Omaha said Tuesday the outlook for agricultural credit this year is one of good supply and lower cost.

Wilbur Erickson, president of the Federal Land Bank of Omaha, said farmers can look forward to obtaining long term mortgage credit at more attractive rates than prevailed during most of 1971.

Long term interest rates charged by the land bank began last year at 8½%, but dropped to 8% where they held for the balance of the year. This is the current rate.

Erickson said, however, that due to recent easing in the cost of money obtained by the bank for its lending operations, the rate should go even lower in the coming months.

Short term interest rates should remain relatively stable, according to Herman Frerichs, president of the Federal Intermediate Credit Bank of Omaha. His organization provides loan funds to the system of production credit associations.

Typical interest rates charged by production credit associations were averaging about 7% at the end of last year, about 1% lower than rates which were in effect at the beginning of last year.

"We don't expect to see much fluctuation in short term rates either way, at least in the coming months," Frerichs said.

Interest rates charged by the Omaha Bank for Cooperatives — both long and short term — also should remain at present levels, at least for the first part of 1972, according to Hugh Cox, president of the Omaha bank.

The Bank for Cooperatives makes all types of loans to farmer-owned coops and provides most of the credit used by these organizations. The bank has reduced its interest rate twice in the past six months, including a reduction on Jan. 1. Current rates are 5¼% on seasonal borrowings and 6¼% on term loans.

3 Flood Plain Study Requests Are Approved

By Associated Press

The State Soil and Water Conservation Commission Tuesday approved applications for flood plain information studies requested by three Nebraska communities.

The step is the first in a process which will lead to eventual flood plain zoning and control by the individual municipalities.

The three are South Sioux City, Franklin and Ashland.

Commission Executive Secretary Dayle Williamson explained completion of the studies will allow the individual cities to each control, through zoning, areas determined in the study to need management.

The control could mean a scrutiny of the types of buildings constructed in the areas, Williamson said.

Should the individual municipalities not institute such control within a year after the completion of the study, Williamson said, the commission will then step in and control the flood plain areas.

The state's flood plain program was set up by the 1967 Legislature, Williamson said.

Exon Plans To Veto School Aid Bill

Beatrice (UPI) — Gov. J. J. Exon told a gathering of the Gage County Taxpayers Association here that the Legislature is wasting its time deliberating a proposal calling for state aid to education.

"It's a sorry thing indeed that the Legislature is spending time in hearing programs and propositions when every member of the Legislature knows that when the bill reaches the governor's desk it will be vetoed," Exon said.

The governor said he is not going along with any aid to education bill that it is intended "to fool the people." He added that the people "have been fooled enough in the past, thinking that the state aid is going to give the real estate tax relief."

Exon urged those in the audience to support him in his efforts to see that no spending measure is passed during the current session of the Legislature that would cause an increase in the state sales or income tax.

He said during the past few years, Nebraska has been on a steadily increasing plateau on spending in practically every level of government.

Holdrege Jaycees Present Awards

Holdrege (AP) — Jaycee awards for 1971 were announced Tuesday night at a banquet in Holdrege which attracted about 500 persons.

The distinguished service award went to Charles R. Lien, 32, manager and partner in the Lien Ready-Mix Concrete Co.

Boss-of-the-year is Thomas J. Niland Jr., plant manager of the Becton-Dickson surgical and medical supply plant in Holdrege.

The outstanding young educator is Miss Judy Marie Guenther, history teacher at Wilcox High School.

The outstanding young farmer-rancher award went to William E. Johnson of Holdrege, who also shared with his father, Albert Johnson, the Phelps County Soil and Water Conservation District award as honor farm family.

Steve Anderson received the local Faith in God award.

Lien, Miss Guenther and William Johnson all will represent Phelps County in state competition.

Jerry Tagge, Nebraska football standout was the banquet speaker.

Egg Production Reported Down

December production of 81 million eggs in Nebraska was 14% less than a year earlier, the State-Federal Division of Agricultural Statistics reported Tuesday.

Layers continued to decline, with a total of 4,809,000 compared to 5,394,000 in December 1970, the agency said.

Eggs laid per hundred hens totaled 1,683, compared with 1,736 in 1970.

40 People Die

Beirut (UPI) — Forty persons have died in Yemen since a cholera outbreak began two weeks ago, the Iraqi news agency said.

Rule Proposal Is 'Real Specter,' Air Official Says

Washington (AP) — Charles C. Tillinghast Jr., chairman of Trans World Airlines, said Tuesday that if new charter rules proposed by the Civil Aeronautics Board go into effect, scheduled international service by U S airlines will end within five years.

Tillinghast told newsmen the end of scheduled service to foreign countries, except on a subsidized basis, is a "real specter on the horizon"

The airline executive based his remarks on the assumption current U S membership rule for club-type "affinity" charters remain in effect, and that the CAB puts into effect its proposal to permit any non-affinity group of at least 50 persons to charter aircraft on a pro-rata basis.

Skullduggery Is Turned Up In Thief's Closet

Florence, Italy (AP) — Police bent on a simple arrest for minor theft Tuesday turned up a major case of skullduggery. They found 21 human skulls stashed in the suspect's closet.

Mario Carlini, 22, told the officers he dug the skulls out of a local cemetery, for persons who "asked me to get them some and didn't want to tell me anything more."

For the time being at least, Carlini was charged only with the thefts police went to collar him for.

Farm Credit Bank Officials Report Highly Improved Outlook For 1972

Omaha (UPI) — Officials of the farm credit banks of Omaha said Tuesday the outlook for agricultural credit this year is one of good supply and lower cost

Wilbur Erickson, president of the Federal Land Bank of Omaha, said farmers can look forward to obtaining long term mortgage credit at more attractive rates than prevailed during most of 1971.

Long term interest rates charged by the land bank began last year at 8½%, but dropped to 8% where they held for the balance of the year. This is the current rate

Erickson said, however, that due to recent easing in the cost of money obtained by the bank for its lending operations, the rate should go even lower in the coming months

Short term interest rates should remain relatively stable, according to Herman Frerichs, president of the Federal Intermediate Credit Bank of Omaha. His organization provides loan funds to the system of production credit associations.

Typical interest rates charged by production credit associations were averaging about 7% at the end of last year, about 1% lower than rates which were in effect at the beginning of last year.

"We don't expect to see much fluctuation in short term rates either way, at least in the coming months," Frerichs said

Interest rates charged by the Omaha Bank for Cooperatives — both long and short term — also should remain at present levels, at least for the first part of 1972, according to Hugh Cox, president of the Omaha bank.

The Bank for Cooperatives makes all types of loans to farmer-owned coops and provides most of the credit used by these organizations The bank has reduced its interest rate twice in the past six months, including a reduction on Jan. 1. Current rates are 5¼% on seasonal borrowings and 6¼% on term loans.

3 Flood Plain Study Requests Are Approved

By Associated Press

The State Soil and Water Conservation Commission Tuesday approved applications for flood plain information studies requested by three Nebraska communities.

The step is the first in a process which will lead to eventual flood plain zoning and control by the individual municipalities

The three are South Sioux City, Franklin and Ashland

Commission Executive Secretary Dayle Williamson explained completion of the studies will allow the individual cities to each control, through zoning, areas determined in the study to need management.

The control could mean a scrutiny of the types of buildings constructed in the areas, Williamson said.

Should the individual municipalities not institute such control within a year after the completion of the study, Williamson said, the commission will then step in and control the flood plain areas.

The state's flood plain program was set up by the 1967 Legislature, Williamson said.

Exon Plans To Veto School Aid Bill

Beatrice (UPI) — Gov. J. J. Exon told a gathering of the Gage County Taxpayers Association here that the Legislature is wasting its time deliberating a proposal calling for state aid to education.

"It's a sorry thing indeed that the Legislature is spending time in hearing programs and propositions when every member of the Legislature knows that when the bill reaches the governor's desk it will be vetoed," Exon said.

The governor said he is not going along with any aid to education bill that it is intended "to fool the people" He added that the people "have been fooled enough in the past, thinking that the state aid is going to give the real estate tax relief."

Exon urged those in the audience to support him in his efforts to see that no spending measure is passed during the current session of the Legislature that would cause an increase in the state sales or income tax

He said during the past few years, Nebraska has been on a steadily increasing plateau on spending in practically every level of government

Holdrege Jaycees Present Awards

Holdrege (AP) — Jaycee awards for 1971 were announced Tuesday night at a banquet in Holdrege which attracted about 500 persons

The distinguished service award went to Charles R. Lien, 32, manager and partner in the Lien Ready-Mix Concrete Co.

Boss-of-the-year is Thomas J. Niland Jr., plant manager of the Becton-Dickson surgical and medical supply plant in Holdrege

The outstanding young educator is Miss Judy Marie Guenther, history teacher at Wilcox High School

The outstanding young farmer-rancher award went to William E. Johnson of Holdrege, who also shared with his father, Albert Johnson, the Phelps County Soil and Water Conservation District award as honor farm family.

Steve Anderson received the local Faith in God award

Lien, Miss Guenther and William Johnson all will represent Phelps County in state competition.

Jerry Tagge, Nebraska football standout was the banquet speaker.

Egg Production Reported Down

December production of 81 million eggs in Nebraska was 14% less than a year earlier, the State-Federal Division of Agricultural Statistics reported Tuesday.

Layers continued to decline, with a total of 4,809,000 compared to 5,394,000 in December 1970, the agency said

Eggs laid per hundred hens totaled 1,683, compared with 1,736 in 1970

Blue Chips Fluctuate, Post Loss

New York (AP) — Blue-chip stock prices teetered back and forth in late trading Tuesday and finally drooped, after rallying from an early sharp decline. Trading was active.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks slipped 2.10 to 894.72. Earlier it was down about six points and then ahead more than two points.

Analysts attributed the mid-session rally to the announcement President Nixon would make a major foreign policy address tonight.

"Most traders seemed to take to the sidelines in late trading, waiting to hear what President Nixon would say and that left the market drifting aimlessly," said Newton Zinder, an analyst at E. F. Hutton Co. Inc.

The New York Stock Exchange index of some 1,300 common stocks rose .09 to 56.86.

Big Board volume was 17.57 million shares compared with 15.64 million shares Monday.

There were 690 advances and 734 declines out of 1,760 issues traded on the Big Board. The market had 24 new yearly highs and 7 new lows.

The Associated Press 60 stock average dipped .3 to 327.6, with industrials off 1.1, rails up .4, and utilities off .3.

Standard & Poor's 500 stock index rose .21 to 102.78.

There were 122 big blocks of 10,000 shares or more traded on the New York Stock Exchange compared with 121 Monday. The biggest was 166,800 shares of Baltimore Gas & Electric at 31¾, off ¼.

Chemicals, utilities, farm implements, mail order-retail, rubber issues, steels, rails, oils, and airlines were mixed. All other stock categories were higher.

Volume leader on the Big Board was Newberry, up 4 at 21.

American Stock Exchange prices were virtually unchanged. The Amex price change index was unchanged at 26.56.

Volume was 4.87 million shares, compared with 4.42 million shares Monday. There were 422 advances and 504 declines out of 1,202 issues traded.

Corporate bonds were mixed, and governments were higher.

Fed Cattle Prices Up At Omaha

OMAHA, Neb. (AP) — A sharp drop in marketing as a cold wave gripped the Midlands forced a 25 to 50 cent upward spurt in fed cattle prices at Omaha Tuesday.

In addition to the generally cold temperatures road conditions were poor in some areas, especially to the north of the Omaha territory thus hampering movement of livestock.

Tops in steer and heifer divisions here hit new 20-year peaks as packers were forced to scramble for numbers.

A load of 1,227 lb reputation fed Nebraska Beeves drew 38.15. Bulk choice steers 35.50-37.00.

Top flight heifers scaling 950-1,092 ranged 36.25-36.65, latter heaviest weights from reputation feeding. Choice heifers sold on down to 35.00

A scramble for numbers also keyed the hog market to new high ground. Butchers turned 75 cents to 1.25 higher and sows 50 cents to 1.00 up in active bargaining.

Butchers turned 75 to 1.25 higher and sows 50 to 1.00 up in active bargaining.

Most 190-240 lb barrows and gilts cleared 28.00-28.75; scattering 1-2s 200-220 lbs topping at 29.00, highest here since February, 1970. Sows grouped 22.00-23.50.

Fat lambs on short supplies sold 25 to 50 higher; toppy woolies to 29.25, No. 1 pelts 31.50-32.00.

Change In Pill Policy Is Questioned By CSL

Several members of the Council on Student Life (CSL) at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln Tuesday night expressed concern about the university Health Center's change in birth control policy.

They said it had been brought to their attention that the center was prescribing birth control pills only for students who were married or who planned to be married soon.

This is an apparent departure from the earlier policy of prescribing the pills to any female students expressing a desire for them, provided a physical examination allowed such a prescription.

It was decided to invite Dr. Samuel I. Fuenning, medical director of the center, to meet with CSL at the Feb. 8 meeting. The council decided to table further discussion of the policy change until Dr. Fuenning had a chance to explain it.

Ely Meyerson, CSL member and acting dean of student affairs, told the council about the arbitration board's public hearing on the World in Revolution Conference scheduled for March.

Prof. Franklin Eldridge, chairman of the council, said next week's meeting will include a talk with the university's new chancellor, James H. Zumberge.

Also scheduled to attend the meeting is the faculty committee on committees. Eldridge said the purpose of the joint meeting is to mutually assess the groups' responsibilities, especially with respect to the procedures for mid-term replacement of resigning university committee members.

As a point of clarification, CSL said the questionnaires distributed by the regents' committee on coed visitation were sent only to students and parents of students living in university regulated housing. This includes dormitories, fraternities, sororities and co-ops.

Rockefeller Impeachment Is Proposed

Albany, N.Y. (UPI) — A black state legislator Tuesday formally proposed impeachment of Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller for "following a course of conduct which was responsible for the deaths of 43 persons" in the Attica Prison rebellion.

Assemblyman Arthur O. Eve, D-Buffalo, who introduced the impeachment resolution, was unofficial chairman of the observers committee set up to negotiate a peaceful settlement of the riot last September.

It was the first time a resolution for impeachment of a New York State governor has been filed since Gov. William O. Sultzer was removed from office in 1913 for allegedly pocketing campaign funds.

A spokesman for Rockefeller dismissed Eve's move as "personal, political grandstanding."

Rockefeller appeared unconcerned about the charges when he met with reporters briefly in his office.

"I don't think it calls for any comment — he's been saying these things all along," Rockefeller said. "We have a citizens committee that's going to bring out all the facts — that's why I haven't been saying anything."

In a fiery floor speech, Eve blamed Rockefeller for not going to Attica during the riot, a move which the lawmaker said might have saved lives. Eve also said Rockefeller was responsible for the use of "unnecessary deadly force" by state police who stormed the prison "firing indiscriminately into the inmate population."

The resolution was routinely referred to the Assembly Rules Committee. Eve said if the Republican-dominated committee did not report the measure to the floor for debate, he would take the parliamentary steps to have it discharged.

Labor Issues 'Poor' Rating To Congressional Delegation

Washington (AP) — The AFL-CIO News, national newspaper of the giant labor organization, has given Nebraska's congressional delegation a poor rating in the current issue which matches the voting records of congressmen and senators in the 92nd Congress with issues considered vital organized labor.

Andrew Biemiller, director of the AFL-CIO legislative department and author of the article, says that confrontation between Congress and the White House last year "roadblocked the progress of important social legislation while leaving unchecked the nation's number one problem of unemployment."

According to Biemiller, organized labor considered SST funding, public service jobs and the accelerated public works measure as the top three issues in the Congress.

Favorable votes on these issues were considered "right" votes by the AFL-CIO.

The newspaper claims that on those issues the Nebraska congressional delegation, of five of whom are Republicans, voted heavily "wrong." The newspaper said that Sens. Carl Curtis aid Roman Hruska and Rep. Dave Martin voted "right" on SST funding, but "wrong" on the two other measures.

According to the AFL-CIO newspaper, the only other "right" votes among members of the Nebraskas delegation were Hruska and Rep. John McCollister's ballot in favor of the Lockheed loan guarantee, Martin's yes vote on election reform, and Hruska's vote on meat inspection.

Unions' Efforts For Organizing Poor Will End

©The New York Times

Detroit — The Alliance for Labor Action, a joint venture by the Teamsters Union and the United Automobile Workers to organize the poor and to use the resources of labor to help solve the problems in the cities, will be phased out.

Leonard Woodcock, UAW president, said the decision to dissolve the alliance, that had been created by his predecessor, the late Walter Reuther, was made at a meeting last week with Frank E. Fitzsimmons, the Teamsters president.

The step could be significant in bringing about the reunification of the labor movement. It takes away a major obstacle to the UAW's reaffiliation with the AFL-CIO.

Elected to two-year terms as trustees were Jacob Wyant and Fred Schmidt. Named to two-year terms as deacons were William Kruse, Gary Sinner and Harry Bruns. Edward Beltz was elected to an interim one-year term.

Mrs. Edward Miller will serve as Sunday school superintendent and Mrs. Dan Underwood will be her assistant.

Members of the nominating committee are Phillip Koch, Gus Johns and George Dering. Auditing committee members are Henry Reifschneider, Arthur Hathaway and Peter Kolb Jr.

Jazz Singer Maybelle Smith Services Set

Cleveland (UPI) —Funeral services were arranged Tuesday for jazz singer Maybelle Smith, whose version of "Ain't Nothin' but a Hound Dog" was well known to jazz fans long before Elvis Presley came along.

Miss Smith, who became well-known under the name "Big Maybelle" and was known as "Queen of the Blues," died Sunday at Metropolitan General Hospital. She was 47.

Miss Smith was most popular during the 1950s and had several million-selling records.

Among her most popular songs were "Candy," "I Don't Want to Cry," and "Ninety-Six Tear Drops."

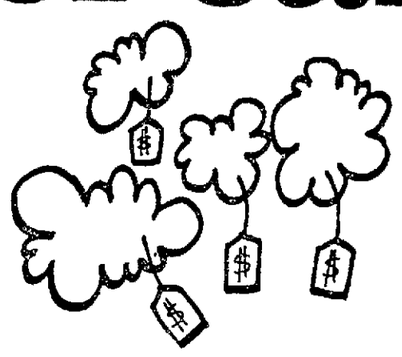
Dreams for sale.



Everybody's got a dream lurking around in the back of his mind. A dream vacation. A dream cottage. A dream car.

Dreams can be a lot more fun if you know you're doing something to make them come true.

And that's what the Payroll Savings Plan is all about. When you sign up an amount you specify is set aside from each paycheck and used to buy U.S. Savings Bonds.

Now Bonds mature in less than six years. That's the shortest maturity period ever, and makes Bonds a practical way to save for dreams you want to come true while you're still young enough to enjoy them.

See the folks in the payroll office where you work. They've got dreams for sale.

Now E Bonds pay 5½% interest when held to maturity of 5 years, 10 months (4½ the first year). Bonds are replaced if lost, stolen, or destroyed. When needed they can be cashed at your bank. Interest is not subject to state or local income taxes, and federal tax may be deferred until redemption.

Change In Pill Policy Is Questioned By CSL

Several members of the Council on Student Life (CSL) at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln Tuesday night expressed concern about the university Health Center's change in birth control policy.

They said it had been brought to their attention that the center was prescribing birth control pills only for students who were married or who planned to be married soon.

This is an apparent departure from the earlier policy of prescribing the pills to any female students expressing a desire for them, provided a physical examination allowed such a prescription.

It was decided to invite Dr. Samuel I. Fuenning, medical director of the center, to meet with CSL at the Feb. 8 meeting. The council decided to table further discussion of the policy change until Dr. Fuenning had a chance to explain it.

Ely Meyerson, CSL member and acting dean of student affairs, told the council about the arbitration board's public hearing on the World in Revolution Conference scheduled for March.

Prof. Franklin Eldridge, chairman of the council, said next week's meeting will include a talk with the university's new chancellor, James H. Zumberge.

Also scheduled to attend the meeting is the faculty committee on committees. Eldridge said the purpose of the joint meeting is to mutually assess the groups' responsibilities, especially with respect to the procedures for mid-term replacement of resigning university committee members.

As a point of clarification, CSL said the questionnaires distributed by the regents' committee on coed visitation were sent only to students and parents of students living in university regulated housing. This includes dormitories, fraternities, sororities and co-ops.

Rockefeller Impeachment Is Proposed

Albany, N.Y. (UPI) — A black state legislator Tuesday formally proposed impeachment of Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller for "following a course of conduct which was responsible for the deaths of 43 persons" in the Attica Prison rebellion.

Assemblyman Arthur O. Eve, D-Buffalo, who introduced the impeachment resolution, was unofficial chairman of the observers committee set up to negotiate a peaceful settlement of the riot last September.

It was the first time a resolution for impeachment of a New York State governor has been filed since Gov. William O. Sultzer was removed from office in 1913 for allegedly pocketing campaign funds.

A spokesman for Rockefeller dismissed Eve's move as "personal, political grandstanding."

Rockefeller appeared unconcerned about the charges when he met with reporters briefly in his office.

"I don't think it calls for any comment — he's been saying these things all along," Rockefeller said. "We have a citizens committee that's going to bring out all the facts — that's why I haven't been saying anything."

In a fiery floor speech, Eve blamed Rockefeller for not going to Attica during the riot, a move which the lawmaker said might have saved lives. Eve also said Rockefeller was responsible for the use of "unnecessary deadly force" by state police who stormed the prison "firing indiscriminately into the inmate population."

The resolution was routinely referred to the Assembly Rules Committee. Eve said if the Republican-dominated committee did not report the measure to the floor for debate, he would take the parliamentary steps to have it discharged.

Labor Issues 'Poor' Rating To Congressional Delegation

Washington (AP) — The AFL-CIO News, national newspaper of the giant labor organization, has given Nebraska's congressional delegation a poor rating in the current issue which matches the voting records of congressmen and senators in the 92nd Congress with issues considered vital organized labor.

Andrew Biemiller, director of the AFL-CIO legislative department and author of the article, says that confrontation between Congress and the White House last year "roadblocked the progress of important social legislation while leaving unchecked the nation's number one problem of unemployment."

According to Biemiller, organized labor considered SST funding, public service jobs and the accelerated public works measure as the top three issues in the Congress.

Favorable votes on these issues were considered "right" votes by the AFL-CIO.

The newspaper claims that on those issues the Nebraska congressional delegation, of five of whom are Republicans, voted heavily "wrong." The newspaper said that Sens. Carl Curtis aid Roman Hruska and Rep. Dave Martin voted "right" on SST funding, but "wrong" on the two other measures.

According to the AFL-CIO newspaper, the only other "right" votes among members of the Nebraskas delegation were Hruska and Rep. John McCollister's ballot in favor of the Lockheed loan guarantee, Martin's yes vote on election reform, and Hruska's vote on meat inspection.

Unions' Efforts For Organizing Poor Will End

The New York Times

Detroit — The Alliance for Labor Action, a joint venture by the Teamsters Union and the United Automobile Workers to organize the poor and to use the resources of labor to help solve the problems in the cities, will be phased out.

Leonard Woodcock, UAW president, said the decision to dissolve the alliance, that had been created by his predecessor, the late Walter Reuther, was made at a meeting last week with Frank E. Fitzsimmons, the Teamsters president.

The step could be significant in bringing about the reunification of the labor movement. It takes away a major obstacle to the UAW's reaffiliation with the AFL-CIO.

Jazz Singer Maybelle Smith Services Set

Cleveland (UPI) —Funeral services were arranged Tuesday for jazz singer Maybelle Smith, whose version of "Ain't Nothin' but a Hound Dog" was well known to jazz fans long before Elvis Presley came along.

Miss Smith, who became well-known under the name "Big Maybelle" and was known as "Queen of the Blues," died Sunday at Metropolitan General Hospital. She was 47.

Miss Smith was most popular during the 1950s and had several million-selling records.

Among her most popular songs were "Candy," "I Don't Want to Cry," and "Ninety-Six Tear Drops."

Want Ads

Your low-cost Want Ad appears daily in the Lincoln Star (Morning) and the Lincoln Journal (Evening) or the Sunday Journal and Star at the following cash rates:

Words	Lines	DAYS 1	4	7	10
— 10	2	1.02	3.44	4.90	5.60
11-15	3	1.38	4.92	6.93	8.10
16-20	4	1.76	6.40	8.96	10.40
21-25	5	2.15	7.80	11.20	13.00
26-30	6	2.52	9.12	13.02	15.00
31-35	7	2.87	10.36	14.70	17.50

FOR GREATEST ECONOMY — start your ad for 10 times, cancel when you obtain results. You pay only the rate earned at the time of cancellation.

These low-cost rates apply to Want Ads from within the State of Nebraska which are placed for consecutive days and are paid for within 10 days after the ad expires or is canceled. Daily rate for ads from outside State of Nebraska is 55cents per line.

Single paper rates either evening Journal or morning Star, are 93% of the combination rates. These ads would appear under "Too Late To Classify" column.

DEADLINES FOR FAMILY WANT ADS-Call before 6 p.m. Monday through Friday for publication on following day. Call before 5 p.m. on Saturdays for Monday morning publication. Sunday Journal and Star-Call anytime before 1 p.m. on Saturdays for publication Sunday.

ERRORS: Advertisers should check their ad on first insertion and report any errors at once. Dial 473-7451

ADJUSTMENTS: The company is responsible for typographical errors or misclassification only to cancel the first day's charge on that portion of an ad that may be rendered valueless by that error. All ads will be classified properly.

BLIND BOX SERVICE: There is $1.00 additional charge for this confidential service. When using a Blind Box Number, add 4 additional words to your Want Ad copy, figure the charges from the above table and add $1.00 for Blind Box Service Charges.

OFFICE HOURS: Daily, 8 a.m. to 6 p.m.; Saturday, 8 a.m. to 5 p.m.; CLOSED SUNDAY.

TO PLACE ADS
Dial 473-7451
800 742-7315 for outstate, toll free ad placement.

PROBLEMS

If you are unhappy with your environment, whether you are a home owner in search of an apartment, or an apartment renter in search of a home, Journal-Star Classified Ads can be a great problem solver.

TRAVEL DOLLARS

If it costs one cent to ride a thousand miles, a would cost $.25; to the moon, $2.38; to the sun, trip around the world only $930.

GOT THE MESSAGE?

It is predicted that by 1975 it will cost $.25 to send a first class letter within the U.S. and that by 1980 it will cost a $1.00.

Elder inmates at a state penitentiary received questionaires as part of a national survey seeking to pinpoint the problems of older people. They listed lack of older people. They listed lack of transportation and income as major criticisms of their environment.

Journal and Star Want Ads

Your low-cost Want Ad appears daily in the Lincoln Star (Morning) and the Lincoln Journal (Evening) or the Sunday Journal and Star at the following cash rates:

Words	Lines	DAYS 1	4	7	10
— 10	2	1.02	3.44	4.90	5.60
11-15	3	1.28	4.92	6.93	8.10
16-20	4	1.76	6.40	8.96	10.40
21-25	5	2.15	7.80	11.20	13.00
26-30	6	2.52	9.12	13.02	15.00
31-35	7	2.87	10.36	14.70	17.50

FOR GREATEST ECONOMY — start your ad for 10 times, cancel when you obtain results. You pay only the rate earned at the time of cancellation.

These low-cost rates apply to Want Ads from within the State of Nebraska which are placed for consecutive days and are paid for within 10 days after the ad expires or is canceled. Daily rate for ads from outside State of Nebraska is 55cents per line.

Single paper rates either evening Journal or morning Star, are 93% of the combination rates. These ads would appear under "Too Late To Classify" column.

DEADLINES FOR FAMILY WANT ADS-Call before 6 p.m. Monday through Friday for publication on following day. Call before 5 p.m. on Saturdays for Monday morning publication. Sunday Journal and Star-Call anytime before 1 p.m. on Saturdays for publication Sunday.

ERRORS: Advertisers should check their ad on first insertion and report any errors at once. Dial 473-7451

ADJUSTMENTS: The company is responsible for typographical errors or misclassification only to cancel the first day's charge on that portion of an ad that may be rendered valueless by that error. All ads will be classified properly.

BLIND BOX SERVICE: There is $1.00 additional charge for this confidential service. When using a Blind Box Number, add 4 additional words to your Want Ad copy, figure the charges from the above table and add $1.00 for Blind Box Service Charges.

OFFICE HOURS: Daily, 8 a.m. to 6 p.m.; Saturday, 8 a.m. to 5 p.m.; CLOSED SUNDAY.

PROBLEMS

If you are unhappy with your environment, whether you are a home owner in search of an apartment, or an apartment renter in search of a home, Journal-Star Classified Ads can be a great problem solver.

TRAVEL DOLLARS

If it costs one cent to ride a thousand miles, a would cost $.25; to the moon, $2.38; to the sun, trip around the world only $930.

GOT THE MESSAGE?

It is predicted that by 1975 it will cost $.25 to send a first class letter within the U.S. and that by 1980 it will cost a $1.00.

Elder inmates at a state penitentiary received questionaires as part of a national survey seeking to pinpoint the problems of older people. They listed lack of older people. They listed lack of transportation and income as major criticisms of their environment.

Here is a practical little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is six or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add three. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures gives you.
